PALLADINO, TIED UP, TO SUBMIT TO TEST

Medium Agrees to the Terms Proposed by Rinn and Davis for a Trial of Her Powers.

IN THE TIMES TOWER

She Even Consents That Flashlight Photographs May Be Taken in the Experiment.

On a certain evening within a week Eusapia Palladino will give a demonstration of her mediumistic powers in a room in THE TIMES tower. A detailed story of what occurs there, or of what those present believe occurs, will appear in THE NEW YORK TIMES of the next morning. The principal features of this story will be as follows:

A stenographic report of the séance, consisting of what is seen, felt, and heard by those present; signed reports of the impressions, observations, and judgments of persons sitting at the medium's table, and the reproduction of any flashlight photographs which may be taken.

Mme. Palladino has offered these alternatives, although she admitted last night that if she felt equal to it she would accept and submit to both tests:

She will either allow herself to be bound to a chair by her legs and her upper arms to be bound to her body, while her wrists with ten or twelve inches between them are to be tied with cords an din this manner connected to the sitters on her right and left; or, and here in her own language and signed by her is her own formal proposal, which her doubters frankly admit is more than they had any right to expect:

Terms Signed by Mme. Palladino.

	(Translation.)
Nell'interesse della scienza, ma senza il più lontano desiderio di confondere quelle persone che sembra che immaginano di credere che tutto i fenomeni da me prodotti siano il risultato di tricchi e ciurmerie da parte mia, io mi sottoporro alle seguenti prove:	In the interests of science, but with no particular desire to confuse those incredulous persons who imagine they believe that all the phenomena expressed through me are the result of trickery and deception practiced by me, I will submit myself to the following test:
1. A una completa e rigorosa investigazione della mia persona e di tutti gli oggetti, cosi da soddisfare le persone le più scettiche.	1. A proper and complete examination of my person and apparatus that shall satisfy the most sceptical.
2. Io debbo essere legata come segue; Le mie gambe debbono essere legate alle gambe di una sedia con corde oppure ad un chiodo fisso al pavimento. I miei polsi siano legati con corde lasciandoli a 10 o 12 pollici di distanza; mentre altre corde tengano i miei polsi attaccati a quelli di coloro che siedono alla mia destra e alla mia sinistra.	2. My legs tied to the legs of a chair with cords and attached to a nail in the floor, and my upper arms bound to my body, my wrists being bound with cords, leaving them 10 or 12 inches apart; other cords to attach my wrists to the wrists of the sitters on my right and left.
Sotto tali condizioni io non prometto nulla: Pero sicome sotto le stesse condizioni son riuscita ad avere de buoni fenomi. (con successo mi sono assogettata a esperimento di questa mia capacita supernormale o soprannaturale,) naturalmente ho regione di credere che uguale successo sara il risultato di queste esperienze.	Under these conditions I promise nothing. However, as under these conditions I have already succeeded in having good phenomena, (supernormal or supernatural phenomenal expression,) I naturally believe that similar expression will be the result of resorting to them again.

Eusapia Palladino

Terms of the Test.

La Palladino's original offer—that of simply being bound with cords—made by the Neapolitan medium when she declined to be tied up in a sack, as Mr. Rinn had suggested, was accepted by the latter at the Sunday night conference in the Times Tower, with the following stipulations, which yesterday were subscribed to by La Palladino:

1. The light must not be so low at any time that it excludes observation.

2. As it would be possible to slip the hands out of the cord fastenings—à la Davenport brothers—Eusapia must keep her hands in sight.

3. Since Eusapia's body is in close contact with the table, movements of the table must be considered non-evidential unless all the sitters at the table declare that at a given time neither they nor, to the best of their observation, Eusapia have any connection with the table. Aside from this contingency, only the regular cabinet phenomena are to be counted—those which she obtains at every successful séance.

4. Some adequate means must be employed to prevent those in the circle from rendering secret assistance.

Mr. Rinn's motive for the last stipulation is peculiar and interesting. He believes that adequate means can readily be had to prevent a confederate of the medium from assisting her. No possible confederate will be present. Why, then, the condition? The answer is, to use Mr. Rinn's own words:

"If La Palladino actually succeeds in producing the required phenomena, I wish the public to understand that my part and that of my colleagues in the circle is honest. In other words, that we shall not have 'thrown the race.'"

Whether the binding or the binding with cords to the floor test be tried, or both, flashlight photographs of what occurs will be taken at intervals.

On this point La Palladino has made an important concession. On account of her weak heart, as has already been stated, she has not hitherto in America permitted them. Abroad, when flashlight photographs were taken she herself invariably gave the signal. In the coming séance she will permit the signal for the flashlight to be given by any one in the circle. The photographs will be taken by a TIMES photographer.

Severest Test of All.

Such are the principal features of the séance which will take place some evening within a week in THE TIMES Tower. All concerned believe that it will be the most distinctive that La Palladino has ever held, whether it confirm the opinion of the doubters or stimulate that of those who believe that all her phenomena are not tricks.

Certain formalities alone remain to be arranged among Joseph F. Rinn, who has offered La Palladino $1,000 if she can produce phenomena under conditions accepted by him; W. S. Davis, the Spruce Street printer, who has made a lifelong study of the so-called spiritualistic phe-

COIN FLIP SETTLES A SUIT.

John W. Gates and John E. Madden Thus End Litigation Over Stock.

John W. Gates won a lawsuit against John E. Madden yesterday by two flips of a cent. The first flip gave Gates the costs of the action and the second flip gave him a $2,500 settlement. Dame Fortune was called in to decide the issue of the suit after H. Snowden Marshall, referee in the case, had heard Madden's testimony.

The suit concerned a transaction in the stock of the Texas Oil Company, of which Gates is the promoter. Gates contended that Madden had broken a contract to accept $11,000 worth of the stock. The real difficulty, however, is supposed to have arisen just after Madden's two-year-old Uncle had won a race at Belmont Park on June 5, 1907, at odds of 3 to 1.

Madden told Gates before the race that his two-year-old was sure to win, and it was reputed that Gates won $50,000 on the race. Gates then told Madden, the latter testified, that he would repay this favor by giving him some valuable inside information on the stock market. This took the form, according to the testimony adduced yesterday, of Gates's purchase on Madden's account of the oil company stock, which Madden refused to ratify.

When Madden completed his testimony Gates walked over to where he sat and said:

"John, I guess you've told a correct story as you understand it. I'll flip you a copper to see who pays the cost of this reference."

"You're on, John," replied Madden.

Gates pulled a cent from his pocket and tossed it in the air.

"What is it?" he asked.

"Heads," said Madden.

It was tails. Gates smiled.

Then Madden spoke.

"Now I'll flip you," he said, "to see whether I'll pay you $2,500 to settle the case or whether you settle it for nothing."

"It's a go," said Gates.

Madden flipped the cent and Gates called tails. It was tails again, and the counsel on the opposing sides informed the referee that they had settled the case and would pay the fees of himself and the stenographer on presentation of the bill. In a few days the Supreme Court will be asked to mark the case settled.

COMET SCARE IN A CAR.

Passengers Thought a Wreck Was Due to the Celestial Visitor.

Passengers in a crowded north-bound Eighth Avenue car to the last man and woman were convinced that the tail of Halley's comet had side-wiped the earth last night when as the car was passing through Columbus Circle the roof broke through with a crash and every pane of glass was shattered.

But it was not the comet that caused the trouble. Employes of a motor car company were testing a new cooling fan for automobiles when one of the blades of the fan got loose, flew through an open window on the fifth floor, and went hurtling onto the roof of the car. The blade weighed about twenty pounds. One thousand revolutions a minute was the speed of the propellerlike device when its broke off. It was estimated that the piece of metal went upward at least 600 feet before the law of gravitation overcome the thrust of momentum and the blade started downward.

"It's the comet!" exclaimed a woman passenger as the blade struck and splintered the roof of the car. The same idea seemed to possess every other passenger, and there was a rush for the doors. Fortunately the large hub end of the blade stuck in the roof of the car, the blade piercing the middle of the roof. The shock was sufficient to break every window on both sides of the car. Although the shattered glass flew in all directions no one was hurt. The motorman stopped the car and jumped to the street.

Patrolman John Maine of the traffic squad caught a glimpse of the fan blade as it fell and began to scan the sky for the aeroplane from which he thought it had fallen. When the piece of metal was taken from the roof Maine took it to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station and reported that it had fallen from an aeroplane sailing so high that it was ought of sight.

The aeroplane theory was accepted in all earnestness until James Murray, an employe of the motor company went to the station and put in a claim for the fan. He explained the accident.

RUSH TROOPS TO CHECK RIOT.

Militia Sent to Ilasco, Mo., Where 1,500 Strikers Threaten Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 16.—Five companies of the State Militia have been ordered by Gov. Hadley to report under arms with the greatest possible speed to suppress a riot of 1,500 laborers at the Atlas Cement Company's plant at Ilasco, Mo. A telegram signed by J. O. Roland, Sheriff, and John Briscoe, Prosecuting Attorney of Ralls County, the scene of the trouble, informed the Governor that the need for the troops was so great that they should be on the scene at once.

Immediately upon receipt of the message, Gov. Hadley wired the commander of the First St. Louis Regiment, the companies at Kirksville, Louisiana, and at Hannibal. The commanders were ordered to supply their men with rifles and cartridges loaded with ball. Gov. Hadley also instructed Col. McDonald of the Fourth Regiment, M. S. G., to go at once to Ilasco and take charge of the troops.

Reports from Ilasco declared the workmen, the majority of whom are Hungarians unable to speak English, had struck. They threatened to do damage to property, and it was feared the greatest danger would come with darkness.

AUTO RUNS DOWN TWO GIRLS.

One of Them Is Mortally Injured, but the Other May Recover.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 16.—Miss Sarah Perrine, daughter of F. M. Perrine of the National Bank of Cranbury, N. J., and Miss Myra Havens, daughter of Walter Havens, a farmer of Cranbury, are lying in a critical condition at their homes as the result of being struck by a touring car owned by D. J. Rainear of Philadelphia.

The girls were walking along the road going to the home of John P. Perrine, Miss Perrine's uncle, where they were to spend the evening and join a comet party, when the auto, coming up behind them, turned out for a car coming in the opposite direction and hit them.

The machine was upset and somewhat damaged, but no one in the car was hurt. Mr. Rainear, who was driving, had his two sons, a dentist, and a trained nurse in the car. The latter gave immediate attention to the sufferers until physicians could be procured.

Miss Perrine sustained the severest injuries, and doctors give no hope of her recovery. Her left leg between the ankle and the knee is badly mangled. A piece of the bone is missing. Miss Havens sustained painful lacerations about the face and head and body and internal injuries. She has only been conscious at intervals, but physicians say there are hopes for her recovery.

DUE IN COMET'S TAIL TO-MORROW, 10:50 P.M.

It's Now 24,000,000 Miles Long, and Where We'll Cross It, 150,000 to 1,000,000 Miles Wide.

1 TO 7 HOURS IN TRANSIT

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—Prof. Edward C. Pickering of the Harvard Observatory said to-night:

"The exact time that the earth will commence its transition through the tail of Halley's comet next Wednesday will be 10:50 P. M. At 11:48 P. M. the transition will have been concluded.

"We do not look for any startling phenomena, but have taken every precaution to have instruments placed on Observatory Hill to record any possible effect the transition will cause, even to change of light.

"There will perhaps be an unusual glow in the heavens and possibly the falling of a few meteors or falling stars, but we hardly expect to be able to see any of these, as the atmosphere at the comet's tail is 100 times rarer than the atmosphere near the earth. The atmosphere is so rare that it is possible for astronomers to observe and even photograph stars directly through the comet. In Japan the comet's tail will be best seen, and its head will completely cover the surface of the sun, but it will not be sufficient to obstruct the sun's light entirely."

The joint speed of the comet and the earth as they pass each other will be forty-three miles a second. According to the Harvard calculation of the time of transit, 58 minutes, the tail is 150,000 miles wide where the earth will cross it.

LICK OBSERVATORY'S FIGURES.

Tail 24,000,000 Miles Long, 1,000,000 Miles Wide—Transit, 7 Hours.

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 16.—Director Campbell of the Lick Observatory tonight gave out a statement concerning Halley's comet, in part as follows:

"Halley's comet with its tail was 90 degrees long at daybreak this morning, both as photographed and as observed by the naked eye. This corresponds to a length of 24,000,000 miles. The nearest point of the comet's tail was 11,000,000 miles from the earth; Tuesday morning it will be nearly 7,000,000 miles away; Wednesday morning a little over 2,000,000 miles, and Wednesday evening the earth will be passing through its tail. The present diameter of the tail at that point through which the earth will pass is a little over 1,000,000 miles. The two bodies will have a relative velocity of about forty-three miles a second, and the time required for the passage, if the present dimensions remain unchanged, will be six or seven hours.

"It is true comets are the most mysterious bodies in the sky and many important questions concerning their origin and constitution remain unanswered. We do know, however, that the tails are so attenuated that the most perfect laboratory vacuum is extremely dense in comparison. It is probable that both minute solid particles and isolated gas molecules are present in the tails, the proportion of solid particles to gas molecules varying in different comets.

"It seems to be a conservative estimate that there is not more than one particle or molecule, microscopic in size, on the average per cubic yard. The earth's atmosphere will form a perfect protecting blanket against all possible constituents of the tail. There is absolutely no cause or excuse for anxiety as to injurious effects upon terrestrial life, animal or vegetable.

"It is very unfortunate that the moon, nearly full will interfere with optical observations of the phenomena attending our passing through the tail. If the moon were absent there is little doubt we should be able to see the night sky faintly illuminated by that part of the tail which projects beyond the earth. Because of the possible and probable lagging of the tail, there is a chance we may still be in the tail the latter part of Wednesday night, and some evidence of its presence may be seen in the short interval between moonset and dawn.

"The astronomers of the Lick Observatory have been credited in newspapers with the opinon that telegraphic service will not be affected. We have never expressed such an opinion. It would not be surprising if telegraph transmission were interfered with, as is the case when strong aurorae are present in the sky. There might even be an aurora of considerable intensity."

COMET FASCINATES PARIS.

Special Suppers To-morrow—Comet Postcards and Brooches.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—Comet suppers will be in vogue on Wednesday night at all the big cafés and restaurants, which are now making preparations for the occasion, expecting it to be quite as much of a financial success as the "revellion," which marks the end of the old year and the advent of the new.

Hawkers have been for days selling on the boulevards postcards illustrating the end of the world on the arrival of Halley's visitant, while specially printed broadsides travesty the existing dread of disaster. Brooches and other pieces of jewelry representing the comet and its tail are sold in great numbers.

The Abbé Moreaux, Director of the observatory at Bourges, reassuringly declares that at the moment when the earth is the shortest distance from the comet the latter's tail will be too far

36 CONVICTS BURN IN STOCKADE FIRE

Blaze in Coal Company's Camp Started by a Prisoner, Who Tried to Escape.

ONE FLEEING CONVICT SHOT

All the Victims Are Negroes and Alabama Prisoners—Few of the Workmen Escaped Flames.

CENTREVILLE, Ala., May 16.—Thirty-six negro convicts lost their lives early to-day, when the stockade of the Red Feather Coal Company, at Lucille Mines, Bibb County, about fifteen miles north of Centreville, was destroyed by fire set by one of the prisoners in an effort to gain his freedom.

Thirty-five of the convicts were burned to death and another was fatally shot by guards while trying to escape. Among those burned is the negro who started the blaze.

The fire had gained such headway as to be beyond control when the guards and other men on the outside of the stockade discovered it. At the risk of their own lives they rushed into the burning building, freeing many of the convicts from their cells. The division of forces to guard the prisoners who were hurried outside greatly hampered the rescue work, it is said.

The wood of which the stockade was built burned like tinder and the flames spread so rapidly that in an hour after the blaze was discovered the spot was marked only by glowing embers and the huddled bodies of the dead convicts.

It was with much difficulty that the unharmed convicts in the stockade were prevented from eluding the guards.

All of the convicts at Lucille Mines are State prisoners leased to the Red Feather Coal Company for work in the mines.

H. W. Perry is President of the company and J. H. Taylor Superintendent. The financial loss will reach several thousand dollars. It is reported that all the convicts at the Lucille camp were negroes. So far as known none of the workmen escaped.

There were but three white convicts at the camp. State Inspector Hugh Wilson has been sent to the scene. The stockade was recently inspected and pronounced in good condition. Several guards suffered injuries while rescuing some of the men. Most of the dead will be buried to-morrow.

OPEN MORE ROLLINS TRUNKS.

Ex-Governor Had Rings and a Watch in His Pocket, Says a Customs Man.

The remaining six pieces of baggage belonging to ex-Gov. Frank West Rollins of New Hampshire, which were seized on Friday when he arrived with his wife and son on the Lusitania and sent to the Public Stores, with the three which were opened on the Cunard pier, were carefully examined yesterday by the appraisers, and the value of their contents will be made known to-day.

One of the officials at the Custom House said yesterday that the trunks opened at the Public Stores contained women's gowns and wearing apparel, in addition to suits of new clothing, which were liable to duty.

"Ordinary American travelers without wealth or influence have always had to have their baggage examined and pay duty," said he. "What we are doing here now in this port is fighting the 'special privilege' class of travelers.

"Ex-Gov. Rollins in his vest pocket had three rings and an English gold watch wrapped up in tissue paper. The four articles I should say were worth about $500. His case is now in the hands of the law department to say what shall be done."

The ex-Governor is staying with his family at the Hotel Belmont, and has had several conferences with his attorneys, Rollins & Rollins of 32 Nassau Street, who will present his case when he comes up for examination on Friday. He declined to make any statement yesterday.

HAMMERSTEIN GOT $1,200,000

Netted $500,000 by Leaving Operatic Field to the Metropolitan.

Although no official figures have been given out regarding the exact amount which was paid to Oscar Hammerstein by the Metropolitan Opera Company for his operatic interests, it was stated yesterday by one in a position to know that it was $1,200,000.

"It is likely," said this authority, "that deducting his losses for the season and after paying everything Mr. Hammerstein is at least $500,000 ahead as a result of the transaction."

It is not yet settled where Miss Mary Garden will sing next season. Gatti-Casazza, Dippel, and Russell, representing, respectively, the New York, Chicago, and Boston companies, each have said they would be glad to control her services, but Miss Garden has not been heard from. There are many other members of the company, the disposition of whom has not been decided yet. Mr. Hammerstein retains contracts with Orville Harrold and Miss Trentini.

Mr. Harrold, it is understood, will sing in Europe next season, probably at La Scala in Milan. This young American tenor, who made his operatic début last Winter now has a repertoire of four operas and will know two more before Autumn.

The intention has been to star Miss Trentini in light opera in English. The young Italian singer has been studying the language all Winter, but she is said to be averse to leaving the opera stage.

WOMEN RAID MARKETS.

Outbreak Follows Kosher Meat Boycott in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—Following a kosher meat boycott here angry women invaded markets to-day, threw kerosene upon the stock, and in several instances attacked other women who had bought meat from the interdicted shops. Two arrests were made.

An advance in the price of kosher meat from 12 to 15 cents a pound caused the boycott.

PAROLE BILL PASSED; MAY HELP MORSE

Measure Allows Release of a Federal Prisoner After Serving a Third of His Term.

PASSED HOUSE AND SENATE

In Forms Closely Similar—Supreme Court Denies Morse's Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The House passed to-day the Sterling bill providing for the parole of Federal prisoners who have served one-third of their terms and whose applications for parole may receive consideration from the Parole Boards established by the bill. A bill similar to the Sterling measure has already passed the Senate.

The passage of this bill by the House to-day is of especial interest in that it may mean the comparatively early liberation, among others, of Charles W. Morse, the New York banker, sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment for misapplication of the funds of the National Bank of North America, and now serving his term in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Morse's application for a writ of habeas corpus was denied by the Supreme Court to-day. The bill, if it became a law, would hold out a like hope to John R. Walsh, the Chicago banker; Greene, and Gaynor, serving terms for embezzlement in connection with the work on the Savannah harbor, and other Federal prisoners of less note.

The Senate and House bills are identical in the more essential details, and will probably be promptly agreed upon in conference. The legislation as it leaves the House authorizes the parole of Federal prisoners, excepting those sentenced for life or for less than one year, after the completion of a third of the sentence imposed. The usual allowance for good behavior is also granted.

A Parole Board is provided for each Federal penitentiary, this board consisting of the Superintendent of Prisons of the Department of Justice, the United States District Judge for, and a citizen living in the district in which the prison is situated. Parole is, of course, dependent upon the good conduct of the prisoner while incarcerated, and it is stipulated that the board shall keep a watchful eye upon the prisoner after his release, such release to be predicated upon the decision of the Parole Board that it is not incompatible with the welfare of society.

The parole system, of course, in no way interferes with the pardoning power of the President.

On the floor of the House the bill was earnestly supported by Chairman Parker of the Judiciary Committee, Mr. Sterling of Illinois, its author, and Representative Clayton of Alabama. Representatives Mann of Illinois and Sabath of the same State were the principal opponents. Mr. Mann injected the name of Charles W. Morse into the debate.

"It has been reported," he said, "that a few days ago Mrs. Morse was at the Capitol securing signatures to a petition for the pardon of her husband. Some members may know whether they signed such a petition. I know that the effect of this proposed bill will be that every bank looter in the country will soon get out of jail. I had rather extend the time so as to keep some of them in there instead of turning them out."

Mr. Sabath was taken to task by some of his colleagues because of his prediction that the new parole system would work to the benefit of the rich and influential prisoner rather than the poor one. Members familiar with the operation of parole laws in the several States declared that the friendless prisoner had benefited as well as the man of influence and money.

Charles W. Morse's motion for the privilege of filing an application for a writ of habeas corpus, which the Supreme Court denied to-day, was made by Martin W. Littleton, his counsel, two weeks ago, counsel arguing, among other things, that various circumstances disqualified the jury which convicted the banker and militated against a fair verdict.

YALE PETITION FOR MORSE.

Seniors, His Son's Classmates, to Sign Request for Pardon.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 16.—A petition is being circulated in the senior academic class at Yale in favor of a pardon for Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, now in the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga. The entire senior class will sign it, and the petition will be sent to President Taft.

Erwin A. Morse, son of Charles W. Morse, is a senior. Robert A. Taft, son of the President and a member of the senior class, is expected to sign the petition.

ONE FASTER GIVES UP.

Miss Townsend Wasn't Hungry, but Just Had to Join a Party.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 16.—Mrs. Keith Trask had the telephone in her home here discontinued seven days ago when she, with Miss Ann Townsend and Miss Marion McKellar, commenced a three-day fast to be followed by fourteen days of abstinence from all food except milk and the juice of oranges and lemons. That is why it was not until this afternoon, when Miss Townsend had a chance to leave the week-end party at her parents' home, whither she had gone from the fast at Mrs. Trask's last Saturday, that the other two learned of what they term her breach of faith.

On Sunday evening Miss Townsend broke her fast. To-day she indulged in three "square meals," and she is looking forward to to-morrow, with its accompanying opportunity to partake of more real food. And all the while Mrs. Trask and Miss McKellar were sustaining life on a tumbler of milk hourly.

Miss Townsend asserts that she was not to blame for breaking her fast, and her companions generously concede that she was under a severe strain, for from the beginning both Mr. and Mrs. Townsend tried to persuade her to join them at table at the week-end party, and the added pleas of guests at her house proved too much. She denies indignantly that the temptation of nourishing food had nothing to do with it.

Mrs. Trask and Miss McKellar say that they will continue the regimen they have laid down for themselves, but they admit that the diet of milk is proving somewhat inadequate, and perhaps they may add a cereal at least.

SEES HER FIRST PRESIDENT.

Yet Mrs. Simpson Has Lived Within 8 Miles of Capital for 65 Years.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Although Mrs. Eliza Simpson has spent the 65 years of her life in Alexandria, Va., only eight miles from the National capital, yesterday she saw for the first time a President of the United States.

Seventeen Presidents have sat in the White House since she was born. Furthermore, Mrs. Simpson never used a telephone until yesterday, and has never been to a theatre or circus. She is going to have the novel experience to-morrow of enjoying both of the latter forms of amusement.

She is the mother of thirteen children.

NINE CARS BLOWN OFF TRACK.

Four Were Heavily Loaded, the Others Running Light.

DENVER, May 16.—Struck by a terrific gust of wind as the train emerged from a cut two and a half miles east of Cheyenne Wells, Col., last night, nine cars of a Union Pacific freight train were blown from the track.

Four of the cars were heavily loaded, the other five running light.

COLORED MACARONI FATAL.

Kills Frogs and Dogs and Court Orders It Destroyed.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Five carloads of macaroni, shipped from St. Louis to Chicago and alleged to contain a poisonous coloring substance, were ordered destroyed by Judge Landis in the United States District Court here to-day.

Witnesses testified that frogs, guinea pigs, and dogs into which the coloring matter had been injected died from the effects.

MRS. G. L. CATLIN FILES SUIT.

Wife of Son of Notable Writer Begins Divorce Proceedings at Reno.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., May 16.—After spending six months in this city Mrs. Marion B. Catlin, who is under 30 years of age, to-day filed a suit for divorce against George L. Catlin, son the late George L. Catlin, a once famous writer and poet.

It is understood that she alleges non-support and desertion, the complaint stating that her husband left her in August, 1906, at East Orange, N. J., with the two sons, aged 4 and 8 years, respectively. She was married when only 16 years of age. Her maiden name was Marion Briggs.

HARLEM EXPRESS WRECKED.

Locomotive Leaves Track and Passengers Are Shaken Up.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 16.—Traffic on the Boston & Albany Railroad was blocked for several hours at Pittsfield Junction to-night by the wreck of the Harlem express bound from New York to North Adams. Although the locomotive left the track and turned over on its side, meanwhile plunging diagonally across the roadbed so as to block every track, only the engineer, Peter O'Donnell of North Adams, was injured, and he but slightly. The twenty-five passengers were shaken up but not injured to any extent.

Besides the locomotive, a baggage car was derailed. No cause for the accident has been assigned. The train was running slowly in the yard at Pittsfield Junction, and was about to take the switch from the main line to the branch line leading to North Adams, shortly before 8 o'clock, when the accident occurred.

ANOTHER GERMAN PROTEST.

Made in St. Petersburg Against Anglo-Russian Note to Persia.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—Count von Pourtales, the German Ambassador at St. Petersburg, has made representations to the Government in reference to the Anglo-Russian note, which demands that Persia shall not grant strategic railroad concessions to nor negotiate a loan with a third power, thus impairing the security of earlier Anglo-Russian loans.

It is learned at the Foreign Office that Russia and Great Britain will refuse to admit the political interests of a third power in Persia.

The situation is regarded here as a possible prelude to another "Moroccan affair," and the Russian newspapers strike an alarmist note.

CAUGHT $42 ON A FISHHOOK.

Two Jersey Boys Didn't Know It Was Grand Larceny to Keep It.

Peter Anderson, eight years old, and Romeyn Kolb, six years, explained to Judge Robert Carey in the Special Sessions Court in Jersey City yesterday that when they went fishing in the Hackensack River last March and Peter caught with his hook a roll of bills held together by a rubber band they had no idea it was grand larceny to keep the money. There were $42 in the roll, and each took $21 home.

Their mothers spent it and the money was gone when Paul Seridek, who keeps a boathouse in Secaucus, said the money was his and demanded it. He did not recover it and the two mothers and the two boys were arraigned before Judge Carey yesterday after they had been indicted by the Grand Jury.

The explanation by the boys satisfied Assistant Prosecutor James W. McCarthy and Judge Carey, and the indictment was dismissed.

HARMON THEIR FIRST CHOICE.

Michigan Democrats' Next Preference for President Is Mayor Gaynor.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., May 16.—It was learned to-day that the Democratic leaders of Michigan in their secret meeting Saturday night to plan for the coming campaign were unanimous in their preference for Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio for the Presidential nomination in 1912. They will be in his bandwagon if he is re-elected Governor this Fall. But if he is defeated they will be for Mayor Gaynor of New York. No vote of record was taken, as there was no such question officially before the meeting, but the men present were those in control of the Democratic Party in Michigan, and their views will be the views of the early State Convention.

So far as the State is concerned Lawton T. Hemans is regarded as the logical candidate for Governor. He has not consented to run as yet, but the Democrats are confident that he will allow his name to be presented in the primary and that he will be unopposed.

The leaders present were very sanguine over the Fall campaign.

ROOSEVELT VIEWS BIER OF EDWARD VII.

Is Received by King George and Exchanges Calls with Royalties.

HIS THROAT IN BAD SHAPE

King George Recommends a Specialist—Body of King Edward to be Moved to Westminster Hall To-day.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 16. — Ex-President Roosevelt, who arrived in London early this morning, has already given a deep impression of his wonderful activity and remarkable personality to those who have met him.

He paid a visit to Buckingham Palace, where he witnessed the lying in state of King Edward, had an hour's interview with King George at Marlborough House, met Queen Mary, called upon and received calls from several other royal personages, and, in between whiles, had his throat examined by a leading English laryngologist.

When I saw Mr. Roosevelt this afternoon at Dorchester House, where he is staying with American Ambassador Reid, he spoke almost in gasps at times, letting out a cough which sounded for all the world as though he were the victim of whooping cough. The throat specialist whom he saw was Dr. St. Clair Thomson, who was called in during the last illness of King Edward, and whom King George is said personally to have recommended to the ex-President in the course of the talk with him this morning.

Dr. St. Clair Thomson examined Mr. Roosevelt's throat to-night, recommending him, among other things, to rest it as much as possible during the next day or two.

Roosevelt in Deep Mourning.

It was 7:30 this morning almost to the tick when the special train bringing Mr. Roosevelt and his party to London drew up in Victoria Station. On the platform to receive the ex-President was a little band, chiefly composed of the American Diplomatic Corps, headed by the Ambassador and Mrs. Reid. Every one wore the deepest mourning, Mr. Roosevelt being attired entirely in black, with a heavy mourning band around his silk hat and a band of crape on his left arm, which latter, according to English ideas, is incorrect with civilian costume. The only touch of relief was provided by the white Panama straw hat which Kermit Roosevelt wore with his riding costume.

Very little time was lost in salutations, and within two minutes of their arrival the visitors were on their way to Dorchester House in a royal carriage, which was sent to meet them by King George and which has been placed at the disposal of Mr. Roosevelt during his stay in England.

The interest taken by the British public in Mr. Roosevelt may be gauged by the fact that The Daily Mail will to-morrow give a whole column on its principal news page to its report of the ex-President's arrival, the rest of the page being taken up with matter pertaining to the royal funeral. Describing Mr. Roosevelt's arrival at Queensborough, the paper says the real Rooseveltian smile seemed to pervade the ex-President's face as he stood at the door of his stateroom waiting for Vice Admiral Sir George Neville and his companions, who met him there, to introduce themselves. The Admiral spoke first. "My name is Neville," he said. "I am in command here. I had the pleasure of meeting you at Jamestown."

A Roosevelt Conversation.

"I'm right glad to see you," said Mr. Roosevelt. "I knew I had met you before, but I couldn't quite place you. Yes, indeed! We met at Jamestown, and I'm very pleased to meet you again."

"This is Lord Dundonald," said Admiral Neville.

Mr. Roosevelt turned to the tall figure of the Earl of Dundonald and gripped his hand.

"And descended from the Dundonald?" he asked, with a world of admiration in his tone.

"My grandfather," said the Earl almost shyly.

Mr. Roosevelt, who knows everything, laughed with pleasure.

"Your grandfather," he repeated with enthusiasm. "The man of Copenhagen. The man who took the brig into action, firing both broadsides together. I am delighted to meet you."

Then it was the turn of Commander Cunninghame Graham to be introduced, and again Mr. Roosevelt rose to the occasion. "Are you related to the writer of the same name?" he asked.

"My brother," said the Commander.

"I'm indebted to him for many pleasant hours," said the ex-President, and forthwith repeated a good story from one of R. B. Cunninghame Graham's travel books, which, says The Daily Mail, set the four laughing heartily and cemented the friendship of this extraordinary man with his newly found acquaintances.

One point that Mr. Roosevelt has cleared up since his arrival is that he will not ride on horseback in the funeral procession on Friday, occupying, instead, a position in a carriage in the immediate rear of the royal mourners.

"It is only royalty who will ride on horseback," he said this afternoon. "I shall, as a special Ambassador, ride in a carriage."

A JOURNEY OF EDUCATION.

Correspondent Thinks Much Good Will Result from Mr. Roosevelt's Tour.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 16, (by telegraph to Clifden, Ireland; thence by wireless.)—The correspondent of The London Times, who has been accompanying Mr. Roosevelt on his European tour, sums up his impressions to-day in an article in which he says:

"From a popular point of view his journey has been an unqualified success. Enthusiasm greeted the ex-President at every stage of the journey, and varied only with the natural peculiarities of the capitals. It would be affectation to pretend that this unprecedented experiment has not been at least as educative as many others made with deliberately educational intent.

"The inhabitants of purely democratic countries have difficulty in realizing the nature of the limited monarchies which exist in Europe. I believe that this journey has opened the eyes of the cultivated Americans who have made it, and that they have gained a new conception of the modern monarchical régime. They have found the relations between rulers and people to be as sympathetic and as intimate for all useful purposes as those in our country, while they have appreciated to the full the calm magnificence of Old World royalty. They have found that modern monarchs are neither tyrants nor dummies, but honest, upright men and women, remarkably like themselves.

"This European journey has also taught a far more important lesson. There is a common habit on the other side of the Atlantic to think of Europe as the home of a 'wayback,' effete, and decadent civilization. I do not imagine that Mr. Roosevelt ever thought so, but it is noteworthy that he has frequently, both in public and private, expressed his delight at finding the contrary the case.

"The manner in which Northern Europe has recovered from the devastation of the Napoleonic wars, the energy and industry of its peoples, the virility which has been able to withstand the infection of luxury and has not lost its "fighting edge"—all these things please him, and he has said so."

Last Service Before Removal of Body —Mr. Roosevelt's Day.

LONDON, May 16.—The feature of to-day in London was the arrival of ex-President Roosevelt, who came direct from Berlin and will act as Special Ambassador to represent the United States at the funeral of King Edward VII. next Friday.

Apart from the strong interest displayed in the arrival of the ex-President the day was uneventful. An enormous crowd, mainly composed of provincials, spent the day patiently watching outside Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House the comings and goings of royalties and princely visitors.

The cold winds of the past few weeks have given place to summerlike weather, which, if it continue, will be a great boon to the hundreds of thousands of spectators of to-morrow's and Friday's solemn functions.

Another service was held in the throne room of the palace to-night, the last before the ceremonious removal of the body to Westminster Hall to-morrow. All the palace servants were permitted to attend it.

"Big Ben," the great bell in the clock tower of the Houses of Parliament, will be tolled to-morrow. It will be heard every fifteen seconds while the coffin is passing from the palace to Westminster Hall, and again on Friday while the cortège is leaving Westminster. Its booming will be the signal for the great guns to fire a salute to the passing of the monarch.

The arrival of the ex-President early this morning was quiet, and in marked contrast to his appearance at other capitals, and to what would have been made of the occasion here but for the death of King Edward.

It was the Whit Monday holiday, but, despite this, the crowd at Victoria Station was a small one. There was no cheering, but as Mr. Roosevelt alighted from the train and was escorted by American Ambassador Whitelaw Reid to the royal carriage which had been sent for him, those who looked on silently lifted their hats.

The Roosevelt party, which included Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, and Kermit Roosevelt, left Berlin at noon yesterday and reached Flushing at midnight. They continued upon the regular boat to Queenborough, where a special train was waiting for them. It preceded the regular express to London, arriving at Victoria at 7:30 o'clock, fifteen minutes earlier than the regular train.

The transfer at Queensborough to the special train was quickly made, and at 6 o'clock the party proceeded for this city. It had been supposed that Mr. Roosevelt would arrive on the regular train, and this fact may have accounted in part for the comparatively small crowd at the station.

Meet Roosevelt at Station.

Upon the station platform awaiting the Roosevelts were Ambassador Reid, Mrs. Reid, and the other members of the American Embassy and their wives, all dressed in mourning; Consul General Griffiths and the staff of the Consulate, Robert J. Wynne, ex-American Consul General in London; Ogden M. Reid, son of the Ambassador, and a small group of Americans resident here. There was no music, waving of flags, or other demonstration. When greetings had been exchanged Lord Dundonald escorted the Roosevelts and Ambassador and Mrs. Reid to the royal carriages, which had been placed at their disposal by the King, and they were driven at once to Dorchester House, the home of the Ambassador.

Later, accompanied by Mr. Reid, Mr. Roosevelt, in his capacity of Special Ambassador, visited the King at Marlborough House. Following his reception by the monarch he was escorted to Buckingham Palace and shown into the throne room, where, upon a catafalque, reposes the body of King Edward. Mr. Roosevelt was accompanied to the palace by Mrs. Roosevelt and the members of the American Embassy with their wives.

In the course of the morning Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt called upon the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at Clarence House, and they concluded the morning hours with a round of other formal visits. They called upon Crown Prince and Crown Princess Christian of Denmark, the Duke and Duchess of Argyll, Princess Henry of Battenberg, and the Duchess of Fife, and at Buckingham Palace they inscribed their names in the visiting books of Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, the Grand Duke Michael, and King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway.

King Haakon Calls.

The Roosevelts had just returned to Dorchester House when they received a return call from King Haakon, who greeted the Special Ambassador and his wife as old friends. While luncheon was being served the Duke of Connaught and Prince Arthur of Connaught called.

Mrs. Roosevelt went to Buckingham Palace again this afternoon and paid a visit to Queen Maud.

The diplomatic representatives of all the powers called at Dorchester House in the course of the day and left cards for Mr. Roosevelt.

To-night the Roosevelts dined quietly at Dorchester House with Ambassador and Mrs. Reid and the members of the embassy staff and their wives.

Victoria Station is closely picketed and patrolled by police and detectives. Every entrance and exit is guarded, and all applicants for admission are scrutinized. This precaution is taken for the protection of all the royal and other official representatives who are coming here for the funeral.

Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria has decided to attend the funeral, and will be the ninth King coming to London for that purpose.

WARNING AGAINST BIG HATS.

Also Hatpins—Police Appeal to Women Who Will View Procession.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 16.—The London Commissioner of Police to-day issued regulations for the governance of the crowds at to-morrow's funeral ceremonies.

He addressed a particular appeal to the women not to wear big hats or long hatpins, which would be very dangerous, having regard to the expected density of the crowd.

DOCTOR EXAMINES ALFONSO.

Finds His Health Excellent, and the King Continues His Journey.

BORDEAUX, May 16.—King Alfonso, who is on his way to London to attend King Edward's funeral, stopped here to-day for three hours to undergo an examination by Dr. Mouré, who operated on his nose some years ago.

The physician pronounced the King's health excellent, and the King proceeded on his journey. He will go direct to Calais, not stopping at Paris.

ROOSEVELT'S FAMOUS AID.

Lord Dundonald Led the Cavalry Which Relieved Ladysmith.

The Earl of Dundonald, one of the aides de camp appointed by King George to attend Mr. Roosevelt, is one of the best-known British cavalry leaders, and holds the rank of Lieutenant General. It was he who led the cavalry brigade in the Natal campaign of the South African war which finally broke through the Boer lines before Ladysmith and relieved that town. As a young Major in the Nile campaign he performed exceptionally daring services. After the dash across the desert to Metemneh and the battles of Abu Klea and Goubat, he acted as guide to two convoys of wounded on their night marches back from the front, and he volunteered twice to ride with dispatches through the dervish-infested desert to announce important events.

From 1902 to 1904 he was in command of the Canadian militia, but he made so vigorous a resistance to the political management of that force that he was summarily dismissed by the Ottawa authorities.

nomena, and James L. Kellogg, traveler and prestidigitateur.

These three gentlemen believe that La Palladino is incapable of producing any phenomena which cannot be accounted for by trick and fraud, and this belief is based upon their own experiences with her as described last week in the article of exposure written by Prof. Dickinson S. Miller of Columbia University.

Joined with the foregoing in making the final arrangements are Hereward Carrington, by whose enterprise La Palladino is now present in America, and Howard Thurston, a professional prestidigitateur, disciple of Harry Kellar, who, although a confirmed skeptic, was so impressed by the one sitting which he had the other evening with the Neapolitan medium that he offers $1,000 to charity "if it can be proved that Mme. Palladino cannot levitate a table without resort to trickery or fraud." Messrs. Carrington and Thurston firmly believe La Palladino to be able to work certain phenomena which her doubters will be unable to explain by the arts of the professional magician or indeed by any known laws of physics or psychology.

She Is Opposed to Betting.

"I do not like it—no! no!" said La Palladino last night, when seen by a TIMES reporter in regard to the arrangements that are making for the projected séance."

"Not like what?" was asked.

"This betting! That Rinn bets $1,000 on something, and that Thurston on something else. I am not a lottery. I do not like it. It is immoral, this betting."

The situation was explained to her, but the fact that she is to get, according to Mr. Rinn, $1,000 if she confounds the prestidigitators seemed to make no impression.

"Will you not take the money?" she was asked.

She smiled naïvely. "I cannot tell yet," was the reply as she lightly rubbed the thumb and forefinger of her right hand together.

"And there is one thing more," she said. "Oh, I've so much trouble with these American magicians. I insist that they behave and not fly into the air and grab me so and so."

She was informed that no one in the circle would act in that way, and that the selection of the circle would have her approval—so the reporter had been told by those most personally interested.

"I would like them to understand," she continued, "that if the phenomena occur they must say so."

She was firm on this point: If those who doubt her powers shall be unable to account for the phenomena they observe, she expects them to say so then and there. She expects them to say:

"What I saw, felt, and heard, I am unable to account for by trickery."

She does not think that it is "either just or honest" that they should go away saying that they do not understand and then later make guesses as to how the phenomena were produced.

"If they are beaten I want them to acknowledge it then and there. Then and there alone can they be in possession of all the things necessary to form a judgment from the evidence of their eyes, touch, and ears.

"A Judge condemns or free a prisoner," she continued, "on the evidence before him. The law prevents him from employing new evidence after the prisoner has been freed. If condemned, he may always seek to establish his innocence by 'new facts.' I claim the first privilege; not the second. I do not want to be contemned by the doubters after they have rendered their judgment of acquittal on the night of the séance. They must not say something else the next day, the next week. But, of course, if they shall imagine that I produce my phenomena by the tricks of the profession with which they appear to be so familiar it would be too much to expect them to vindicate me later. Human nature is not so charitable. It has no 'corte di cassazione.'"

Terms of the Seance.

When, later in the evening, La Palladino's objection to betting was made known to the doubters, Mr. Davis exclaimed laughing:

"Oh, if she turns up her nose at Rinn's $1,000, we'll loosen up on the conditions. And if Thurston persits in donating his $1,000 to charity, why, of course, he'll have to stay out of the circle."

Messrs. Davis, Kellogg, Carrington, and Thurston worked far into the night at a conference to determine the details of the séance, the first two named protecting Mr. Rinn's interests and the last two exerting themselves to see that La Palladino should have a fair chance and in circumstances entirely congenial to her.

When THE TIMES went to press they were debating as to the manner of judging the séance. Up to that time they had agreed on the following proposals, but it remains to be seen whether La Palladino will agree to them:

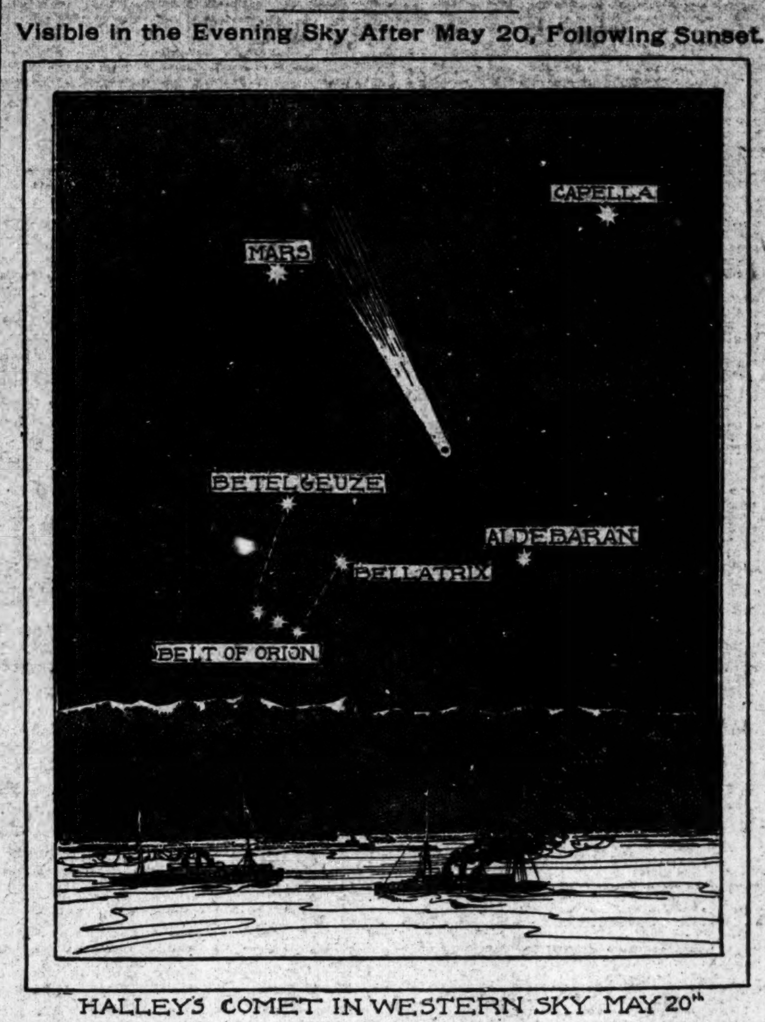
1. The séance must not begin until it is evident to Mr. Rinn and others that the fastenings are adequate safeguards against deception.

2. Spirit raps are not to be considered evidential, since any one in the company may secretly produce them and Eusapia would get the credit for them.

3. When the conditions are so poor that we cannot judge whether the medium herself is producing the phenomena, such phenomena are to be considered non-evidential.

WHERE NEXT TO LOOK FOR THE COMET

Visible in the Evening Sky After May 20, Following Sunset.



HALLEY'S COMET IN WESTERN SKY MAY 20th

The nucleus of the comet was barely discernible yesterday morning from 3:15 to 3:35, when it appeared just above the mists of the horizon. It is useless looking for it any longer in the morning sky. We must now turn our attention to its reappearance in the evening sky after sunset. On Friday, May 20, the sun sets at 7:15 in New York, and the comet sets an hour later. It will become visible as the sunset glow fades in the twilight. Then, if attention is directed to the place in the sky indicated in the chart, the comet will gradually become visible in the twilight. It will be low down on the horizon. The nucleus of the comet will disappear first, and finally the tip of the tail.

The appearance of the comet will be heralded by the ruddy glow of the planet Mars, which will be seen to the left of the comet when the latter comes into view. Next the three bright stars Betelgeuze, Aldebaran, and Capella, all of the first magnitude, will shine forth, and finally Bellatrix, a second-magnitude star. By the time this celestial escort is ready to welcome the comet the latter should be discernible as a faint wisp of light. Were it not for the bright moonlight the display would be spectacular, but the glare of light from the moon will undoubtedly detract greatly from the light of the comet.

However, it is comforting to know, after all the excitement concerning our passage to-morrow through the train of the comet has subsided, that we shall have an opportunity of admiring it in the sky as it continues on its return journey outward in space. Those who have had doubts on the subject as to whether the comet contemplated reducing our planet to atoms may then feel reassured, looking forward to a study of the celestial wanderer on May 20, and for many evenings during the remainder of the month, undisturbed by any feeling of alarm. The comet rises much later each evening, due to the fact that the earth and the comet are moving in opposite directions. Unfortunately for us, the moon is full on May 23, but after that date a magnificent view of the comet should be obtained, as the moonlight interferes less and less each evening.

Those who have been so fortunate as to see the comet in the morning sky recently, on the two occasions when it presented such a splendid appearance, can reassure those who were not so fortunate that it is well worth while making a special effort to see the comet in the evening skies ere it vanishes for another absence of seventy-five years. Its next return will not be until about 1986, when probably few observers of the present day will be here to see. But the children have the prospect in view of seeing it again on that occasion, and for this reason it is well to encourage them in looking for the comet each evening. According to some authorities, it may remain visible to the unaided eye until July.

away to affect our planet. Atmospheric disturbances, he concludes, are not to be feared.

COMET WATCHES PLANNED.

Hotels Prepare for Guests Who Will Await Passing of Its Tail.

Preparations were being completed at many of the large hotels yesterday for the accommodation of the guests and patrons who will assemble on Wednesday night to watch the passing of the comet's tail, and to look for any extraordinary manifestations such as the deadly cyanogen gas, electric waves, or meteoric displays. It is predicted that thousands will take part in the comet watch, and that the excitement will rival that of watching the New Year in.

Parties are being booked at many of the hotels whose roofs offer an unobstructed view of the sky. The schedule for the evening is a late dinner, which will last until 10 o'clock, and then to the roofs, there to await the hour of 11:20, when the tail of Halley's sky tramp will engulf the earth. The watch will be kept up then until 1 o'clock, when the earth is supposed to whirl out of the long train.

The sun parlor on the roof of the Waldorf-Astoria will be utilized by the comet watchers. A number of parties have booked tables in advance here with the idea of joining the watchers on the roof at the crucial hour.

There will be watchers on the roofs also of the Gotham and the St. Regis, where special menus are being prepared for the dinner parties already booked. Parties will also join in the army of watchers on the roofs of the Ansonia and Majestic, uptown, and the Belmont and Manhattan Hotels will run express elevators to the roof after 10 o'clock.

There will be a number of fashionable dinner parties at the Plaza, and the excitement over what may or may not happen is expected to be at its height at 11:20, when the members of these comet parties will ascend to the roof. There is a wireless station on the roof of the Plaza, and close watch will be kept there for any signs of electrical disturbances.

The Astor and the Knickerbocker are preparing to entertain many comet parties to-morrow night.

SMITH OBSERVATORY LUCKY.

Excellent Observations of the Comet—More Changes in Form.

GENEVA, N. Y., May 16.—Excellent observations of Halley's comet were taken this morning by Prof. William R. Brooks, Director of Smith Observatory, who reported that the comet's tail stretched out in a broad band across the heavens to a length of more than forty-five degrees.

The nucleus, Prof. Brooks said, was very bright, being easily visible with the naked eye long after all the stars except Venus had disappeared.

Prof. Brooks said that the comet, viewed through the telescope, showed the same remarkable changes in form that were noted three days ago. Its shape this morning was that of a pointed crescent, with the nucleus on the extreme front and much larger than was noted at any previous observation.

GETS RICH ON COMET PILLS.

Voodoo Man Busy Dispensing Sugar Pellets That "Guarantee Safety."

The comet is bringing a small-sized fortune to an old medicine man in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, according to the story brought in by passengers on the Atlas liner Alleghany. The possibility of the comet hitting the earth or of our being suffocated by the deadly gases of its tail are not worrying the negroes there, for a charm more potent than the rabbit's foot has been dispensed among them in the form of anti-comet pills, which are guaranteed to protect the purchaser from all cometary evils. The price is $1 a box.

As the scare is widespread the sale of anti-comet pills is enormous. Purchasers immediately load their system with them and then with confidence walk among their frightened and unprotected neighbors.

Third Officer Von Rettburg of the Alleghany said that all the negro longshoremen, farmers, and servants who have any money are hurrying to the voodoo man and clamoring for his pills. The old negro is doing a land-office business, and can hardly keep up his supply of sugar pellets. No negro will be without the pills if he can help it.

While hundreds are making sure of escape by digging comet cellars or otherwise preparing to escape the shock of collision with the comet, the pills are having the effect of quieting the fears of the ignorant, who believe that with a pill or two under their belts they will walk unscathed over the ruin of the world.

FIRE ALARM FOR THE COMET.

Mayor Fitzgerald's Plan to Let Those Interested Get Some Sleep.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 16.—The fire alarm will be sounded in Boston to-morrow morning if Halley's comet is visible. Fire Headquarters will be in readiness about 3 o'clock to get word from Harvard Observatory of its appearance, and if word comes from the observatory it will be the signal for fire bells connected with the city alarm system to sound. Mayor Fitzgerald this afternoon made the arrangements and notified the public.

The Mayor said this afternoon he was convinced that at least half the people in the city were sitting on their roofs night after night, waiting for the comet, which has been in evidence but seldom.

"I propose," said the Mayor, "to let these comet gazers get a little needed sleep. Then, if the comet is not seen, they can remain in their beds until morning, while if it appears the alarm bells will give them notice."

COMET'S TAIL ONLY SUNLIGHT?

The Astronomer's Argument of the Lagging End Turned Against Him.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I marvel at the enterprise of THE TIMES, but I am not surprised that your astronomer correspondents repudiate the lens theory to account for the vagaries of Halley's comet's tail. For astronomers to have approved such an explanation would have been to dismiss the caudal appendage from their ken. The astronomer does not speak to the mere physicist.

It is all a fresh illustration of the well-known fable. So sedulous have the astronomers been to rob the comet's tail of its terrors that in the end they have made it clear that it is no tail at all. The logic is palpable if we retrace their steps. A real tail, solid enough to reflect sunlight and to assume centrifugalic rigidity, would have been an awkward object to butt up against, cyanogen or no cyanogen.

The deprivations of the astronomers leave the reputed tail (which in its orbit travels some 120,000,000 miles further than its head) a body many thousand times less dense than our atmosphere, a body through which (alas! poor ghost!) distant and feeble stars may be observed. And yet this body (or absence of body) is so much denser than the surrounding ether as to reflect sunlight in vivid profile.

The main fact alleged, apparently, in refutation of the lens theory is the lagging of the tail of the comet behind the head in their celestial progress. Should not the sun's refracted light thus lag at the close of a journey of 12,000,000 miles at right angles to the path of the scorching head?

A PHYSICIST.

New York, May 16, 1910.

HALLEY'S COMET IN 1066.

A Quaint Record of the "Long-Haired Star" in The Saxon Chronicle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In to-day's issue you give the Norman record from the Bayeux Tapestry of the appearance of Halley's comet in 1066, and to complete the story—since Norman and Saxon were then in opposition—it might interest your readers to read this brief reference thereto in "The Saxon Chronicle":

> A. D. 1066.—This year came King Harold from York to Westminster, on the Easter succeeding the midwinter when the King (Edward) died. Easter was then on the 16th day before the calends of May. Then was over all England such a token seen as no man ever saw before. Some men said that it was the comet star, which others denominate the long-haired star. And he appeared first on the eve called Letania Major, that is, on the 8th day before the calends of May; and so shone all the week.

The main interest in this substantially contemporaneous (not later than A. D. 1080) memorandum would seem to lie in the absence of all superstitious vein in the writer's allusion to it and in the indications of the appearance of a comet not being a wholly unheard-of event, (though specifically so designated in the text,) inasmuch as the learned scribe speaks of it as being referred to by a technical name, (cometa,) as well as by a popular one, (long-haired.)

INSURGENTS BEATEN ON COMMERCE COURT

Senate Regulars Vote Down Plan to Drop It from Remnant of Railway Bill.

STOCK ISSUE ITEMS TO STAY

President Insists in Face of Lukewarmness—Stone Pictures Insurgents in Seats of the Mighty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Senate to-day after the sharp wrangling of last week seemed less inclined to debate and more ready to vote on the various amendments proposed on the Administration's Railroad bill. A good deal of time early in the morning was consumed in getting a quorum and in a humorous speech by Senator Stone of Missouri concerning the stirring incidents in passing the long and short haul clause last Friday, but after the Railroad bill was seriously taken up progress was comparatively rapid.

Senator Cummins presented two of his amendments affecting the Court of Commerce, and both were debated and defeated before adjournment. One was to strike out the first six sections of the bill creating the Court of Commerce and prescribing its procedure. That amendment was defeated by a vote of 28 to 37. Then Mr. Cummins offered an amendment reducing the number of Justices in the proposed court from five to three, and this amendment was defeated by a vote of 35 to 30.

Eight insurgents voted for the major Cummins amendment. They were Mr. Beveridge of Indiana, Mr. Borah of Idaho, Mr. Bristow of Kansas, Mr. Clapp of Minnesota, Mr. Crawford of South Dakota, Mr. Cummins of Iowa, Mr. Dolliver of Iowa, and Mr. La Follette of Wisconsin. The Democratic vote was cast solidly with the insurgents.

When the two votes had been taken Mr. Cummins offered his third insurgent proposition relating to the court, which was to make the Inter-State Commerce Commission instead of the Department of Justice responsible for defending its rulings before the Court of Commerce. This amendment was still pending when adjournment was taken.

It is now definitely decided that the sections relating to stock and bond issues shall remain in the bill. The regulars have confessed to the President that they are lukewarm as to these sections, but the President has insisted and the stalwarts have yielded. The Democrats, on the ground of the invasion of State's rights, will probably vote solidly against this section of the bill, so that whatever is finally adopted of the President's recommendations will be purely Republican.

Regulars Steal March.

The known reluctance of the regulars to adopt the sections so enthusiastically indorsed by the President gave the insurgents for a time some hope that they might be able to assume the rôle of dictators and insist with the President's aid on passing the sections. The regulars got wind of this hope, however, and whatever opposition they had at first to the measure at once disappeared.

While progress to-day was faster than usual, little credit for that fact is due to the efforts made by the leaders to move the hour for meeting forward to 11 o'clock. When the Senate convened this morning at that hour Mr. Johnston of Alabama, the Vice President, and the Chaplain alone were in their places. Mr. Johnston at once rose and moved that thereafter the hour for meeting be changed back to noon. The Chair was putting the motion solemnly to the vacant hall when Mr. Hughes of Colorado entered the chamber and raised the point of no quorum.

The calling of the roll summoned the absent Senators, and by a vote of 29 to 28 the later hour was decided on. Late this afternoon, however, Mr. Elkins again moved that meetings be at 11 o'clock, and though the viva voce vote showed a divided body, the presiding officer announced the motion passed. In the momentary confusion no demand was made for a roll call, so that for to-morrow at least the hour for convening will be 11 o'clock.

Senator Stone, in the speech already alluded to, contended that in the contest of last Friday the "insurgents" had won a signal victory. As painted Senator Cummins as occupying the place of Senator Aldrich, Mr. La Follette that of Mr. Hale, Mr. Bristow that of Mr. Lodge, and "that sturdy old Norwegian, Senator Knute Nelson," that of Mr. Gallinger, whose sage counsel had so long aided in guiding the regulars.

Senator Clapp was pictured as Chairman of the Committee on Inter-State Commerce in place of "the genial and complacent Senator from West Virginia," Mr. Elkins, while with the Republicans gathered in a conference or sort of camp meeting he beheld, Mr. Beveridge was to be found exhorting his colleagues to harmony and regularity, and Mr. Dolliver acting as musical director, while "the silver voice of Carter was to be heard sweetly echoing in the chorus."

Mr. Elkins Speaks Up.

"It'll be some time first," remarked Senator Elkins from his seat, but the Missouri Senator evidently failed to hear the interruption. He proceeded to outline a second picture—that of the President receiving the new leaders, which he said the Chief Executive would be quick to recognize if at all like his "immediate predecessor." They would be called in to consult over administration matters while the old-time regulars were left to "cool their heels outside with Democrats and other plain people."

There could be no question, said Mr. Stone, that the regulars had capitulated—that on that fateful "Friday, the 13th," Aldrich, Elkins, et al., had hoisted the white flag, and that henceforth the former insurgents would become the regulars. Not only had they achieved a victory over the regulars in the Senate, but over the Attorney General, who drew the bill, and over the President, who had been its sponsor.

In the House, even to a greater extent than in the Senate, the bill had been vitiated, he continued, so that as the measure came from that body it was a mere skeleton of the measure which the President and the Attorney General had sent to Congress, and he hoped "the fiasco would stand as a warning to impertinent officials not to interfere with legislation."

BALLINGER ACCUSES KERBY, REMOVES HIM

Charges with Treachery Stenographer Who Told of Lawler's Part in Taft's Letter.

NOTE OF DISMISSAL BITTER

Secretary Says Facts Were Deliberately Misstated—Kerby Not Surprised at Action—Intimates He May Sue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The expected sequel to the statement of the stenographer, F. M. Kerby, showing the relation between Assistant Attorney General Lawler's brief dealing with the Glavis charges and the President's letter exonerating Secretary Ballinger, came this morning when in a scathing letter Mr. Ballinger dismissed his subordinate from the Government service. Mr. Ballinger in his letter of dismissal declared that Mr. Kerby "in deliberately misstating material facts" as to what he "did treacherously communicate" showed he was "unworthy and unfaithful."

Mr. Ballinger adds that the fact that Mr. Kerby's "treachery in divulging the confidential secrets of his superiors is futile cannot mitigate the seriousness of the offense." The dismissal, the letter explains, is for the good of the service.

The letter did not surprise the stenographer. He said afterward that he had been just on the point of calling at the Secretary's office to inquire of Mr. Ballinger's private secretary whether he would be wanted again when the letter reached him, and answered the question While declaring that he expected Mr. Ballinger to take the tone he did, Mr. Kerby to-night said that his former chief had no right to attack his character in a communication intended for publication. He intimated that he was considering bringing suit against Mr. Ballinger for libel in making public his letter of dismissal.

The letter is as follows:

> Washington, D. C., May 16, 1910.
>
> Frederick M. Kerby: You are hereby discharged from the public service because you are unworthy to remain in it.
>
> In divulging information obtained by you in the confidential relations of stenographer to the Secretary of the Interior; in communicating that information to those whom you are bound to know are wrongfully seeking to bring reproach upon the Administration and to injure me; and in deliberately misstating material facts as to what you did treacherously communicate, you show that you are unworthy and unfaithful.
>
> The fact that your treachery is futile cannot mitigate the character of your offense. For the good of the service, you are hereby dismissed. Respectfully,
> R. A. BALLINGER.

"Of course," said Mr. Kerby after reading this letter, "when I issued my statement I realized that the Secretary would take some such action. As to the charges which Secretary Ballinger makes against me I am willing to leave that to the judgment of the people of the country. Whether I acted treacherously or patriotically is a matter for the public to decide, and I am entirely certain that their verdict is in my favor.

"At any rate I think that Secretary Ballinger is not an excellent judge of ethics."

Just before he received his dismissal Mr. Kerby said that he considered the President's letter to Chairman Nelson of the Investigating Committee complete substantiation of all that he had at first said.

In the Senate most of the comment heard on the contradictory statements issued on two successive days from the White House was of a jocular sort. The first statement seemed generally to be considered just "another of the President's blunders," and, as one insurgent expressed it: "If he had just given the second statement out first there would have been no trouble." Some amazement was expressed, however, at the President's continuing his game of golf and allowing his secretary to issue the statement from the White House based merely on a verbal message telephoned in by a friend.

TRUST CASES TO BE HEARD IN NOVEMBER

Supreme Court Fixes Date for Reargument in Oil and Tobacco Actions.

KENTUCKY LIQUOR TAX VALID

Court Also Upholds Georgia Railway Crossing Law and Michigan Bulk Sales Act—No Corporation Tax Action.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Supreme Court of the United States to-day fixed Nov. 14 as the date for the rehearing of the Tobacco and Standard Oil cases. Attorney General Wickersham had asked the Court to set the rehearing of these cases for Oct. 31, while opposing counsel had asked for Nov. 14. Chief Justice Fuller after consultation with the associate Justices fixed upon the latter date.

No decision was announced by the Court in the corporation tax cases.

The statute of Kentucky passed March 28, 1906, levying a license tax on liquors, was declared to be constitutional to-day by the Supreme Court. The court also held the law applicable to "double-stamped spirits." The constitutionality of the law had been attacked by the Brown-Forman Company, a Kentucky distillery, which claimed the law discriminated against citizens of Kentucky in favor of citizens of other States.

Refusing to hold that the Blow Post statute of Georgia, passed in 1852, when railroads were just being built there, to be unconstitutional the highest court likewise to-day affirmed decisions of the lower Federal courts awarding judgments of about $10,000 to Mrs. Josephine King and her daughter for injuries suffered by the death of her husband, who was struck by a train on the Southern Railway at a public highway crossing.

The Georgia statute provides that at posts 400 yards from the point where a railroad crosses a highway the engineer shall begin to blow his whistle and continue so to do until he reaches the crossing. Simultaneously he must check and keep checking the speed of the engine so as to stop in time should any person or thing be crossing the track. The railroad urged that the enforcement of the statute would greatly delay mail trains and otherwise interfere with inter-State commerce.

Justice Day, in announcing the opinion of the court, said that when a party came into court to attack the constitutionality of a law he must show he was injured. This, it was held, had not been done. Justices Holmes and White dissented.

The court also upheld the constitutionality of the "bulk sales act" of Michigan. The question arose in the suit of the Musselman Grocer Company against Kidd, Dater & Price Company over the sale of goods by Frank B. Ford, a storekeeper at Berrien Springs, Mich. The decision of the Michigan courts was in favor of the Musselman Grocer Company and upheld the law.

A rehearing was refused of the "elevator case" of the State of Nebraska against the Missouri Pacific Railway Company. The court recently held that the grain elevator law of that State as originally enacted was unconstitutional because, in requiring the railroads of the State to build switches to elevators along their rights of way it took private property without compensation.

The constitutionality of the Federal "hours of service law for railroad employes" will not be passed upon by the Supreme Court until next October term. The court to-day set for reargument "before a full bench" by order of Chief Justice Fuller said the case involving the constitutional question brought by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company against the Inter-State Commerce Commission. In announcing the order of reargument Chief Justice Fuller made no explanation of the reasons for the reassignment except possibly his reference to the full bench.

CRY OF 'LION LOOSE!' STARTS CIRCUS PANIC

Newark Crowd Storms Stores and Houses in a Wild Scramble to Escape.

MANY PERSONS TRAMPLED

Five Taken to the Hospital—False Alarm Caused by a Policeman's Unmanageable Horse.

A score or more persons were injured yesterday in Newark, N. J., when several thousand people, who had gathered at Sussex Avenue and First Street to witness the parade of the Barnum & Bailey Circus enter the grounds, were thrown into a panic by the report that a lion had broken loose in the crowd. The police were powerless to hold the spectators in check. They rushed into the near-by houses and stores for shelter. Some broke in the windows and others burst in through the front and rear doors. Five of the most seriously injured were taken to the City Hospital:

BOERER, KATE, 57 years; 16 Wickliff Street; dislocated shoulder.
COMASKY, HELEN, 7 years; 19 Rutgers Street; fractured jaw.
RISCH, CHARLES F., 59 years; 393 Walnut Street; scalp wounds.
THOMAS, FREDERICK, 19 years; 666 Main Street; legs injured.
WARNER, JERRY, 11 years; 88 Paterson Street; cut on the head.

As the head of the circus pageant swung into Sussex Avenue, the horse of Mounted Policeman Dennis Cronin, became frightened at the blasts of the steam calliope. The animal began pracing around and then plunged into the crowd of spectators that lined the curb. The people scattered in every direction, and some one raised the cry:

"The lion's broke loose!"

This cry was taken up and further excited the crowd. All efforts to stay the fears of the people proved futile, and the nearest places of shelter were used. One of those was the butcher shop of Herman Link, at 270 Sussex Avenue. The panic-striken people crowded into the shop, and so tightly were they pressed that its contents were turned topsy turvy in a few moments. Meat and vegetables were strewn all over the interior of the store.

A part of the crowd ran pell mell down Sussex Avenue, and at the residence of Mrs. George E. Simonson, they did not stop to go through the doors, but climbed through the windows. Those of the crowd who could not get in the windows went into the alley and there was such a jam that the fence collapsed. A few more excited men and women were knocked down in the yard and trampled on.

A fence in the rear of the home of Mrs. John O'Brien, at 196 Sussex Avenue, which adjoins the circus grounds, was forced down by the crowd in a wild scramble to invade the O'Brien home. Men and boys who climbed up on the fence sustained painful injuries, when it fell. More than a hundred men, women, and children jammed into the dwelling in less than a minute. Many of the women and children fainted from fright.

Word was telephoned to the Fifth Precinct Station and the police reserves were hurried to the scene in patrol wagons. In a few minutes hundreds of policemen arrived and tried in vain to hold the excited throng in check. Many of the patrolmen were carried off their feet in the rush.

Many in the crowd rushed on for half a dozen blocks, believing that the lion was on their heels. When they reached Central Avenue they rushed into the stores along that thoroughfare, compelling proprietors to close and lock the doors. In many of the stores customers were held in until the excitement was over.

It was more than half an hour before quiet was restored. Hats, coats, and wearing apparel of all kinds were strewn all about the circus grounds. Lemonade, peanut, ic cream, pretzel, and toy balloon vendors, who had small stands on the grounds, were put out of business by the stampede.

As soon as the crush was over the police began a search for the maimed or injured. The women and children fared the worst. Many of them lay in heaps. Those that needed hospital treatment were hurried to the City Hospital in automobile ambulances. Others whose injuries were not of a serious nature were taken home by friends on trolley cars. Physicians from the neighborhood were summoned and aided in caring for injured persons pending the arrival of the ambulances.

The little Comasky girl was injured by being trampled on by Policeman Cronin's horse at the start of the panic. The little girl was rescued by Roundsman Stites.

MAN AND A BABY SHOT.

Child of Two Hit by a Stray Bullet and Both Are Mortally Hurt.

An Italian, appearing suddenly on the steps of a factory at 134 Mulberry Street, fired three shots at Salvatore Priolo, a barber, of 12 Roosevelt Street, who was passing there, later yesterday afternoon, and then disappeared. Priolo fell to the street with a bullet in his right fore arm and another ranging through his neck and down into his chest.

When Policeman Burns of the Mulberry Street Station, atracted by the shots, came running up he found Priolo surrounded by a crowd of Italians, all of them gesticulating violently, but all of them calming down into sombre taciturnity as soon as they saw the policeman. Priolo was quite conscious, but when asked who had shot him would only answer "I don't know." He was removed to the Hudson Street Hospital, where it was said he would probably die.

When the shots were fired two-year-old Michael Volpe of 154 Mott Street, who was walking near by with his brother Peter, 11 years old, suddenly began to cry. Thinking he was frightened by the shooting Peter grabbed him in his arms and carried him him. There his mother found a wound in his abdomen. He, too, was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital, where it was said he would probably die. The police say they have no clue to the man who fired the shots.

BRINKERHOFF MYERS'S ESTATE

Estimated at $1,500,000—A Daughter and the Grandchildren the Chief Heirs.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 16.—The will of Brinkerhoff Myers was filed in Surrogate Jackson's court here this morning. Mr. Myers died at his country place at Manhasset on April 12. The will disposes of an estate estimated at $1,500,000, nearly all of which is personal, the petition stating that the real estate is valued at $40,000.

William A. Kissam, a son-in-law, is to have the use of $5,000 until his son, William A. Kissam, Jr., shall have reached 21, when it is to be turned over to him. Should he die before that time, it is to go to the other heirs of the estate.

The residue is left, one-half to a daughter, Juliet Myers Baker, the other half to two grandchildren, Marion Hoagland Vanderbilt and Lucretia Mason Vanderbilt, to be given to them when they are 21.

A codicil dated Aug. 4, 1909, leaves $5,000 to a grandson, Myers Elliott Baker. A second codicil, dated Nov. 26, 1909, modifies the manner in which the residue was left, and leaves $1,000 to a cousin, Amelia W. Myers, who lived with Mr. Myers many years. A sister, Emma Augusta Pingree of Los Angeles, Cal., receives $10,000, to be paid in quarterly payments. Charles Coles, a nold employe, inherits $500.

Neuman Not Optical Manager.

The Spencer Optical Company of 31 Maiden Lane issued a statement yesterday in which it denies that George F. Neuman, fined on Friday in Special Sessions for practicing medicine without a license, is employed as manager for it. Neuman was employed by the company as optometrist, licensed by the State to fit on glasses. The employes are not permitted to practice medicine even though so licensed.

FEWER DRUNKARDS—GAYNOR.

Asylums Close for Lack of Patients, He Asserts at Hearing.

Mayor Gaynor held a public hearing in the reception room at City Hall yesterday on the Grady-Lee bill authorizing the Board of Estimate to appoint a Board of Inebriety to have charge of the compulsory treatment of habitual drunkards. None appeared against the measure, and Homer Folks, Secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, did all the talking in its favor, though several well-known physicians, charity workers, and ministers were present in the interest of the bill.

Mr. Folks, who was responsible for the bill's introduction, was questioned by the Mayor, who stated he believes drunkenness is decreasing in this city.

"I have not read the bill yet," said the Mayor. "I shall give it careful attention. Is it necessary?"

"We think it would be desirable," replied Mr. Folks.

"Is not intoxication decreasing very rapidly in this State?"

"I could not say."

"I understand that it is a fact, that for ten drunken men not many years ago there are not now more than one. What has become of the State Inebriate Asylums at Binghamton and at Fort Hamilton?"

"Both were discontinued."

"I have studied the thing only superficially, but I understand that for many years inebriety has been very rapidly decreasing, and that these institutions closed for that reason. If that be so there may not be much necessity for this bill, but I am very glad to consider it. I assure you I will not laugh it down, anyway," added Mr. Gaynor.

Among those present who took no part in the discussion were Dr. Minas Gregory, head of the Psychopathic Ward at Bellevue Hospital; Theodore Frothingham, Chairman of the State Charities Aid Association; Dr. William Mabon, Superintendent of the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane; Dr. Winford H. Smith, Medical Superintendent of Bellevue; Edmund T. Devine, Secretary of the Charity Organisation Society; the Rev. William Morrison of Brooklyn, Dr. De Lancy Carter, Dr. Charles A. Rosenwasser, Vice President of the Dependency and Crime Commission of the State of New Jersey, and Commissioners Drummond and Whitney of the Departments of Charities and Correction.

DOCTOR SHOT BY BROTHER.

Latter, Thought to be Deranged, Fires at Maryland Physician During Dispute.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 16.—Allen Stevenson, a retired civil engineer, this afternoon shot and dangerously wounded his brother, Dr. H. Burton Stevenson, one of the wealthiest residents of Green Spring Valley, after a heated discussion over the water supply for a number of new cottages the doctor is constructing, the work on which his brother Allen has been superintending.

Dr. Stevenson was not altogether satisfied with the work, and during the argument Allen angrily drew a revolver and fired at him, the ball striking him near the mouth. As the doctor fell, Allen walked away. Dr. Stevenson was taken to the Maryland University Hospital.

A constable was dispatched to arrest Allen, who had intrenched himself in a big field near Dr. Stevenson's home. For nearly half an hour he held his would-be captors at bay, declaring he would shoot the first man who came near. Quite a crowd had collected, but no one dared to approach. A squad of police and Deputy Sheriffs from Towson was ordered to the scene, but meantime Allen had been induced to surrender and give up his pistol. He was taken to Towson Jail.

The doctor, who is conscious, declares he will not prosecute his brother, but will have him placed in a sanitarium. It is said that Allen is mentally unbalanced. The family is one of the most prominent in Baltimore County, and is known throughout the State. Allen at one time represented the county in the Legislature. The father, who is dead, was one of the leading physicians in Maryland.

The charges are brought by the Voters' Civic League, which alleges that Armstrong falsified the city pay rolls by certifying names of men who were sent from their regular duties to work at the polls.

F. F. Nicola, a capitalist indicted in the recent bribery crusade, was put on trial to-day as an accessory to bribery before the fact. It is charged that he attempted to secure through bribery the selection of the Columbia National Bank as a city depository.

Dr. F. C. Blessing, President of the Common Council, and William McKelvey, a former Select Councilman, will be put on trial Wednesday morning.

The District Attorney received notice to-day that Frank N. Hoffstot, the banker and manufacturer of New York, had appealed his extradition case direct to the United States Supreme Court, instead of taking it to the United States Court of Appeals.

BOXES OF BUTTER SHORT IN WEIGHT

City Sealer Lodges Complaint Against the Sheffield Farms Company.

DOUBT ABOUT THE INTENT

Vice President Halsey Says Company Didn't Pretend Boxes Weighed Two Pounds—A Hearing Granted.

The Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company, which operates ten or twelve dairy stores in this city, was accused yesterday in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, of selling short-weight packages of butter.

The complaint was made by Lee J. Mills, a Sealer of the Bureau of Weights and Measures. He said the "two-pound boxes of butter" which the Sheffield Farms has been selling for the last eight years do not contain two pounds. People who have been buying the "two-pound boxes" of butter under the impression that they were buying two pounds of butter have in some cases received boxes that were three and a half ounces short of two pounds, so Mr. Mills says in his affidavit.

The boxes in which the company pack the butter weigh four ounces, a reporter learned yesterday. The boxes look light, but are "water-soaked." They are not stamped "two pounds of butter," but are sold for 76 cents at all the Sheffield Farms stores.

A hearing will be granted the officers of the company to-day by Magistrate Tighe. The City Sealer has consulted with Assistant District Attorney Mills of Brooklyn. Indictments may be returned against the company if it is found that there has been intentional deception.

The investigation began several months ago, according to the Mills affidavit. The City Sealer was informed at that time that the company was selling butter in packages that did not contain as much butter as the company's announcements represented.

"After receiving this information," the Mills affidavit says, "I visited two of the company's stores in Manhattan and there weighed a number of their so-called two-pound boxes of butter. I found that none of the boxes contained two pounds of butter. I told the District Attorney of Kings County, and subsequently bought more of these two-pound boxes of butter in four of the company's Brooklyn stores. I weighed these packages and found that none of them contained two pounds of butter. A box purchased in the company's store at 712 Pacific Street was short 2⅝ ounces; a box purchased at 1,032 Flatbush Avenue was short 3¼ ounces, a box purchased at 240 Reid Avenue was short 2¾ ounces, and a box purchased at 1,084 Bergen Street was short 3½ ounces. The four packages together were short 12⅝ ounces, sixteen ounces constituting a pound."

The Sealer went to the headquarters of the Sheffield Farms Company at 524 West Fifty-seventh Street, Manhattan, and had a talk with B. S. Halsey, a Vice President of the company. He got from Vice President Halsey a postal card which the company uses in announcing that it has these two-pound boxes of butter on sale. The sealer then weighed various boxes of butter at the company's headquarters in Vice President Halsey's presence. None of the boxes contained two pounds of butter, the affidavit states.

On these grounds the Sealer asks that an official inquiry be made to find out if the company has been guilty of any crime.

Acting Superintendent McCoy of the Bureau of Weights and Measures said yesterday that he considered the bureau's case against the Sheffield Farms Company of great importance, and that it was only one feature of a general work which the bureau has begun to help purchasers get full weight and measures.

"The Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company is the largest concern doing business in this city," said Mr. McCoy. "The bureau feels that in making this complaint against the Sheffield Company it is merely protecting the housekeepers of the town."

Vice-President Halsey of the Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company said yesterday that the company had never pretended that the two-pound boxes of butter which the company has been announcing and selling actually contained two pounds of butter.

J. A. RYERSON A SUICIDE.

Jumps Down Court of Office Building—Had Business Troubles.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Under a sudden suicidal impulse, it is supposed, induced by worry over business troubles, John A. Ryerson, automobile manufacturer, clubman, and Columbia University graduate, ended his life this evening by leaping over a railing on the thirteenth floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building and plunging to the ground floor of the inner court.

"I had just left an office on the thirteenth floor of the building," said E. J. Fucik to-night, "when my attention was attracted to a man at the railing near the northwest corner of the court. I saw him raise his hands high in the air and throw himself over the railing. I rushed to where he had been standing and peered down over the railing. His body was then lying on the ground floor of the court."

Whether Mr. Ryerson was suddenly impelled to suicide after he had reached the thirteenth floor of the building or was drawn there by the strange lure that is said to have laid hold on a number of other men who have killed themselves in a similar manner and in the same building within the last few years, is a matter of doubt.

So far as the police could learn, Mr. Ryerson had no business that called him to the building, nor did he know any of the persons occupying the offices on the thirteenth floor. It appears possible that further inquiry will show that he had visited an office in the building just before he ended his life, but John Willman, janitor of the building, told the police that he had noticed a man resembling Mr. Ryerson on the thirteenth floor of the building, and he said that the man had been walking back and forth near the railing of the court for half an hour before Mr. Ryerson leaped to his death.

Evidence tending to show, the police say, that Mr. Ryerson had determined upon suicide and that he was irresistibly drawn to the building by the strange fascination of the long, free fall through space in the great open court was found in a memorandum book contained in a pocket of his clothing. On a leaf of this book, underneath the name of Julie Ryerson White of Montclair, N. J., who was a cousin of Mr. Ryerson, had been written these words, presumably an attempted Bible quotation: "I will both lay me down in peace to sleep, for Thou, O Lord, only maketh me dwell in safety."

Aside from the cousin's name and the quoted saying the book contained nothing but the name and address of Mr. Ryerson's brother, Dr. Edwin W. Ryerson of this city.

The weather man is helping the cause of ready-for-service clothes

The man who has the "to-order" habit is not usually reminded of his apparel needs until the weather settles down to a "steady gait" for whatever the season may be.

Spring has been somewhat tardy and many a man who has deferred his visit to the tailor will suddenly find himself in the lap of summer. Too late then to invite the delays and vexations of "to-order" clothes.

But what an opportunity to test the superiority of high grade ready-for-service garments such as ours!

Suits for Men, at $15 to $45

We are particularly desirous of pointing out to the man who is unfamiliar with the possibilities of individuality and good craftmanship in ready-for-service Suits the close approach to perfection which has been secured by our own designers and tailormen.

METHODIST BISHOPS ON VATICAN INCIDENT

Denounce Attempt to Discredit the Italian Mission by Widely Published Accusations.

MISSION METHODS DEFENDED

Suggest Diplomacy May Have Required the Attacks as a Diversion from the Real Issue.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 16.—The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, through its Secretary, Bishop L. B. Wilson, to-night issued an official statement which had been prepared by the board at its meeting in Chicago on May 9 relative to the Italian mission. The statement is the outcome of the recent controversy in Rome caused by the visit of Col. Roosevelt.

The statement says:

"Deploring and at all times seeking to avoid interdenominational controversy, we are nevertheless compelled to recognize occasions when personal preference must yield to a proper sense of official duty.

"We cannot allow to pass unnoticed the recent unprovoked and unwarranted attempt to discredit one of our most useful missions by widely published accusations, which, if based upon truth, would bring dishonor upon the Church which supports that mission.

"We regret that after repeated challenges for details of the specific acts supposed to justify these charges, they still remain in such general terms that their validity cannot be tested before the judgment of the world.

"We can only observe: 1—That ordinarily the use of opprobrious adjectives is suggestive of anger rather than of reason. 2—That the methods of our mission in Italy, now for the first time thus publicly condemned, are the same that have been pursued from the beginning, almost forty years ago. 3—That the same methods, namely, preaching the gospel in its simplicity and conducting schools where they are needed, schools which recognize the plain teachings of the New Testament as a supreme authority in religion and ethics, have long been followed by our missions in South America and Mexico, as well as in Rome, and no such indictment has been brought against those missions even to this day, so far as we are informed. 4—From these facts the inference appears to be irresistible that other considerations than the methods of our mission in Rome must have been the real cause of this sudden outcry.

"Possibly some exigency of diplomacy, local in its origin but far reaching in its portent, required this attack, with all its hazard, as a diversion from the real issue involved. The facts that support this inference are known to all who have followed the course of recent events in the City of Rome. Had there been any other way to avoid certain issues of etiquette and procedure created by coincident circumstances of a public nature the Methodist Mission might have escaped calumny, and thus lost the valuable recognition of its success.

"Under such circumstances we enter upon no defense of our work in Italy and make no plea for abatement in the judgment of the world. We decline at the present time to enter upon any counter-attack upon the Roman Catholic Church. We ask only that all fair men interested in the situation study for themselves its methods of propagandism and the traditional attitude of that Church toward other Christian faiths.

"We believe that there are standards of equity and moral rectitude by which in the estimate of all progressive peoples, all religions, and all methods must be rated by what they contribute to intelligence and moral character. We now content ourselves with affirming our entire confidence in the moral integrity of our missionaries and methods in Italy, and against the denunciations of their accusers we place the wide-open record of the Methodist Episcopal Church, both as to teaching and method, in America and throughout the world."

DENIALS BY BISHOP PARET.

He Cables to His Coadjutor and Cardinal Gibbons About Rome Story.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 16.—Bishop Coadjutor John Gardiner Murray of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland received to-day the first official communication from Bishop Paret in regard to the recent alleged Vatican episode. A cablegram from the Bishop, dated Florence, Italy, read:

> False report. No refusal. No discourtesy.

Cardinal Gibbons received a similar cablegram.

The cablegrams are dated May 16, and it is thought that their dispatch followed the first news received by Bishop Paret of the story circulated in America of the Pope's refusal to grant him an audience.

Cardinal Gibbons, who gave Bishop Paret several letters of introduction, including one to Cardinal Merry del Val and another to the Rector of the American College in Rome, has all along declined to discuss the matter personally, although a member of his household expressed the opinion that there must have been some mistake about the dispatch stating that an audience of the Pope had been refused to Bishop Paret.

NO ONE TO SAVE BRAVE BOY.

Only 5, He Clung to River Barge Until Exhausted.

Five-year-old Harold Hunt of 2,860 Eighth Avenue, with three boys of his own age, was jumping over the three-foot space between the pier at the foot of 154th Street and the Harlem River and a brick barge, the Nellie H., which a firm of contractors had moored close by yesterday afternoon when little Harold missed his footing and fell into the river.

Coming to the surface the little fellow clug to the barge, while his three companions screamed for help to several laborers at work on a street grading at the Central Bridge, a block away. The men seemed to think they were playing and paid no attention to their cries.

Meanwhile little Harold was growing feebler. He was calling to the boys that his hand was stiff and cold and he must soon let go. Two of them, Julius Jacobson, of 2,854 Eighth Avenue, and Raymond Henry of 2,858 Eighth Avenue, ran into the street crying for help, while the third, little George Colligan, of 2,860 Eighth Avenue, lay on his face across the barge and extended his little arm as far down over it as he could. But it was too short to reach Harold.

At that moment the two other boys found a negro boy in the street, who offered to go to the rescue. The boy jumped into the river some distance from the dock and swam around toward Harold. But before he got within sight of him the little fellow, with a last frightened cry, let slip his hold and sank. He never rose.

The laborers on the bridge and Policeman Ackerman saw the negro boy jump into the water and ran down to the pier with grappling hooks and ropes. When they got there there was nothing to be seen but three little boys crying and the negro boy shaking his wet clothes. In the water between the barge and the dock floated Harold Hunt's white straw hat.

They dragged the river at that point for half an hour, and later the police of Harbor Squad B dragged it still more carefully, while the boy's father, Harry Hunt, a paperhanger; his wife, and three other children stood on the dock wringing their hands. The body had not been recovered late last night.

CARUSO PLOTTER SENTENCED.

Italian Blackmailer Committed to Sing Sing Prison for About Four Years.

Antonio Misiani, a young Italian, who was convicted last week of attempting to extort $15,000 from Enrico Caruso, was sentenced yesterday by County Judge Fawcett in Brooklyn to Sing Sing Prison for not less than three years and eight months nor more than seven years and five months.

Misiani was arrested by detectives in Sackett Street, Brooklyn, where a decoy package had been placed under the stoop of a factory. Antonio Cincotta, who was taken into custody with him, is under indictment for the same offense. Caruso appeared as a witness against Misiani. Judge Fawcett said he regretted he could not give the prisoner a life sentence.

"You and your associates," said the court, "belong to a notorious Mafia society, which has no regard for life or property, and would as soon destroy the world's greatest singer and the pride of the Italian race as any other unfortunate victim marked for the prey of your vicious band. Your society is an enemy to the hard-working and liberty-loving people of your race. All such Italians prefer to have your sort in prison, and this court will do all in its power to get such as you there."

Judge Fawcett added that at the end of Misiani's term a strong effort would be made to have him deported to Italy.

SITUATION IN HU-NAN AGAIN THREATENING

Foreigners at Chang-Sha Warned to Seek Refuge on Ships.

THE RISING ANTI-DYNASTIC?

People of the Province Have Long Been Noted for Anti-Foreign Sentiment and Bravery in Warfare.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Another uprising at Chang-Sha, China, is very much feared.

The commander of the United States gunboat Helena has telegraphed the State Department from Han-Kow to the effect that the conditions at Chang-Sha are most serious, and that all foreigners were notified officially on May 11 to seek refuge on the ships that were available.

The war vessels in the river are believed to be sufficiently strong to control the situation.

Although the State Department has not been officially advised of the cause of the threatened uprising, it is believed that it is directed principally against the Manchu Government. It is pointed out that revolutionary uprisings are of more or less frequent occurrence throughout China, but that in most cases the scenes of the disturbances are so remote from news centres that many of them pass without the facts becoming known abroad.

The present movement in Hu-Nan Province, however, is of more than ordinary significance, inasmuch as the province is one of the most wealthy and important of China. In the last century troops from Hu-Nan have borne the brunt of many conflicts, and credit is given to them for suppressing the great Tai-Ping rebellion. The people of the province have long been noted for their anti-foreign sentiment and for their bravery in battle.

The proposed line of railroad from Han-Kow runs through this province, and it is believed that the disturbed conditions there will stimulate the Chinese authorities to do their best to have the line constructed as early as possible, as, upon its completion, the Government will be in a position to rush troops to the disaffected sections.

To Inaugurate Rip Van Winkle Flyer.

To provide for the early travel to the Catskill Mountains and accommodate those who are making a special trip to arrange their Summer outing in that section, the Rip Van Winkle Flier will be placed in service on the West Shore Railroad next Saturday, leaving Desbrosses Street at 12:45 P. M., West Forty-second Street at 1 P. M., and Weehawken at 1:15 P. M., for Phoenicia, Katerskill, Pine Hill, Stamford, Oneonta, and intermediate stations on the Ulster & Delaware Railroad. This train runs without change to the mountains in from three and a half to five hours. There will be other changes in the time of local trains on the West Shore Railroad, effective May 22, and additional Saturday and Sunday service inaugurated.

BLAMES STATE FOR BANK LOSS

Legislative Committee Calls Examinations of Bay State Banks Inadequate.

BOSTON, May 16.—Asserting that the State Bank Department's examinations of the banks under its care are so inadequate as to be almost negligible, the joint special legislative committee appointed to investigate the reported theft of $425,000 from the South Bridge Savings Bank, in its report filed to-day, divides the responsibility for the bank's alleged looting between the Bank Department, the Auditing Committee, and the Trustees of the institution. All three, says the committee, were negligent.

The committee reports that it is unable to say what disposition was made of the stolen bank funds. To avoid giving an "immunity bath" to John A. Hall, the bank's Treasurer, now in jail awaiting trial on the charge of embezzlement from the bank, no attempt was made by the committee to cross-examine the prisoner. The committee found, however, that Hall loaned to a brother in Wyoming a sum of $30,000, which has not been returned.

The committee proposes to give the Bank Commissioner greater control over banks and to bring in a bill providing for a complete audit of the books of every bank. It also recommends that Trustees be brought into closer touch with the work of the banks they control.

GETS $243,726 DAMAGES.

Clarence L. Barber Sued International Company of Mexico as Receiver.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 16.—Clarence L. Barber, Assistant Corporation Counsel of New York City, has been awarded damages of $243,762.16, the largest damage sum ever given in Connecticut to any claimant. Barber sued the International Company of Mexico, a land development concern, which was chartered under Connecticut laws, as receiver when the company became merged with the Mexican Land and Colonization Company, an English company, with headquarters in London, in 1889.

The American company had capital stock of $20,000,000, and the English company $10,000,000, but it agreed to shoulder all the liabilities of the American company. Claims against the English company were combined in a suit brought by Frank E. Bates, who obtained a judgment in the Southern District of California for $120,000 damages. He assigned his judgment to Mr. Barber, who next brought suit three times in England against the company. It was each time thrown out of court. Fortified with the sweeping judgment obtained in the home State of the company, he will again go to England and bring suit.

PHILADELPHIA LOAN FAILS.

Bond Issue of $8,000,000 Attracts Bids for Only $821,000.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—When Mayor Reyburn to-day opened the bids received for the proposed $8,000,000 issue of thirty-year 4 per cent. bonds he found that banking and other interests had bid for only $821,000. No award was made owing to the small response, and the loan will be readvertised.

The failure of the loan, it was announced, was due to the present condition of the money market. Several large banking houses which frequently bid for city bonds wrote they were not in the market at present. Mayor Reyburn said he probably would send a message to the Councils recommending that the rate of interest be increased.

Another cause for the absence of bids is attributed to the litigation pending between the city and several taxpayers over the city's finances.

APPOINTS RECEIVERS FOR HOCKING VALLEY

MONOPOLY WAS CHARGED

Stockholders' Suit in Interest of Independent Coal Operators Sustained—Decision a Surprise Here.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 16.—Ex-Attorney General J. M. Sheets and Henry J. Booth, an attorney, were appointed receivers of the Hocking Valley Railway Company by Judge Kinkead, in the Common Pleas Court, to-day. The receivers qualified by giving bond in the sum of $500,000 each, which was furnished by a bonding company.

Before appointing the receivers the court denied a motion of the defendant for a modification of the temporary restraining order, recently granted, enjoining the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Company from voting any of the capital stock of the Hocking Valley and enjoining the retirement of $15,000,000 preferred stock.

The court decided that while the Chesapeake & Ohio may hold the stock as an investment, it may not exercise the rights of a stockholder in voting it. It is held that the proposed retirement of $15,000,000 preferred stock of the company is illegal in the method in which it is proposed to be done.

The court also made an order directing that the Chesapeake & Ohio, John Calvin, Edwin Hawley, A. C. Rearick, George W. Stevens, and Frank Trumbull be made parties defendant so that an order might be made preventing the individuals from acting as Directors of the defendant company and that the Chesapeake & Ohio might be restrained from voting as a stockholder of the Hocking Valley or from assuming control of the road's affairs. The Directors, who were elected last Fall, were not lawfully chosen, the court says.

The action of the court was made in the case in which Howard Manington and Ralph E. Westfall, stockholders, are plaintiffs. It is the result of a fight against the Hocking Valley Railway instituted a year or more ago by independent coal operators of the Hocking Valley, of whose organization, the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, Mr. Manington is Commissioner and Secretary.

The operators complained that the Hocking Valley has been discriminating against them in various ways, and that its ownership and control of the Toledo & Ohio Central Railroad, the Zanesville & Western, the Kanawha & Michigan, and the Sunday Creek Coal Company and its subsidiary companies constituted an illegal monopoly. It was contended, among other things, that rebates were given, that money had been misappropriated, and that certain coal companies had been favored in the shipment of coal.

Many of these allegations were recited in the petition filed by Manington and Westfall. The court holds for the plaintiffs in their every contention. The railway company filed a motion questioning that either Manington or Westfall was a stockholder, but the court decides that they are stockholders and legally qualified to bring an action.

The Judge overruled the motion to take the case to the Federal Court.

The appointment of receivers for the Hocking Valley Railway was a complete surprise to the financial district. Several suits had been brought against the road, as well as against other roads concerned in the deal put through recently by Edwin Hawley for the sale of the Hocking Valley by the trunk lines to the Chesapeake & Ohio, while the Lake Shore purchased the Toledo & Ohio Central and divided with the Chesapeake control of the Kanawha & Michigan. Some of these suits were brought at the instance of Kanawha & Michigan minority stockholders, of which Samuel Untermyer is one, and others were brought by Ohio men. Receivers were asked for in them, but the general belief was that this was a formality, and that at all events a receivership would not occur until the questions raised by the plaintiffs had been tried out in the courts.

Not a single sale of Hocking Valley was made on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The quotation for the common stock on Saturday was 120 bid, offered at 124, and yesterday it was 115 bid, offered at 122. The preferred stock was quoted on Saturday at 92 bid, offered at 100, and yesterday at 80 bid, offered at 96. Chesapeake & Ohio, at the close yesterday, showed a net loss of one point from the last sale on Saturday.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, which owns a majority of the common stock of the Hocking Valley Railway Company, issued a statement in New York last night reviewing the proceedings which resulted in the receivership and attacking the plaintiffs in the action.

"The plaintiffs in this suit," says the statement, "acquired a few shares of preferred stock in the Fall of 1909, which holdings were immediately made the basis of numerous demands upon the officers and Directors of the Hocking Valley. It has been frequently charged in open court and never denied that the plaintiffs purchased their stock for the purpose of maintaining this litigation.

"We need hardly say that the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Lake Shore are not engaged in any combination in restraint of trade or otherwise. The Chesapeake & Ohio has purchased its interest in the Hocking Valley in absolute good faith for the purpose of developing its business.

"It was hardly expected that at the instance of the holders of ninety shares of stock, who purchased their holdings with the apparent intention of creating trouble, any court would hold its purchase unauthorized and its motives improper in a suit to which it was not even a party."

FINDS DEFECTS IN CHARTER.

Mr. Wright Says Some Amendments Put Education Under Political Control.

A strong protest against those proposed amendments to the city charter that relate to the Department of Education is entered by Henry C. Wright of the City Club in a leter to Joseph C. Deane, Acting President of the club.

Mr. Wright investigated the affairs of the Board of Education recently, at the request of the club, and he became convinced that the State policy of getting the educational system free from local political domination was commendable.

"The new charter seeks to include the Board of Education as a department contained within the Corporation of the City of New York," Mr. Wright says in his letter, "and take from the board its separate corporate existence and powers.

"Such a disruption of the State method of control of educational affairs could only be effected by an amendment to the general State law making New York a solitary exception. Such a radical departure from settled policies would surely arouse popular condemnation.

"The Board of Education should possess all necessary powers to conduct its affairs and perform all the functions assigned to it, and politics should not be permitted to interfere with its important duties.

"To those who have watched the events of the last few years it is noticeable that the Board of Education has, slowly and surely, been drawn into the political net. Can anything conceivable be more incongruous than the assumption of educational matters by the Board of Aldermen? Yet the Board of Education is required frequently to submit even minor functions of administration to the judgment and action of that body, as if the Board of Aldermen was better able to handle educational matters than the body created by law for the purpose.

"Notwithstanding plain and specific provisions of law, the Board of Education is not permitted to even hire a building for temporary school accommodations. It has to beg permission for a thing which it has the statutory right to settle of itself.

"Its funds have been diverted and the control thereof assumed elsewhere, notwithstanding that the law gives it full powers of administration in that respect. In each case these borrowed powers have gone into the care of purely political agents of the City Government, a clear violation of existing law.

"Whether the Board of Education has become invertebrate or is held in terrorism by the political powers I am unable to say, but there is a suspicion of both.

"The remedy for this is to separate the Board of Education from ordinary city affairs."

GIRL KILLED ON ELEVATED.

Body Discovered by a Newsboy Wedged Between the Ties.

In some way, unaccounted for as yet, Helma A. Leven, employed at the Summer home of Theodore B. Morris of 45 Wall Street at Madison, N. J., reached the tracks of the Sixth Avenue elevated road at Thirty-first Street early yesterday morning, and was instantly killed by a northbound train. She had been dead nearly half an hour when found, and her body was tightly wedged between the ties.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning a newsboy ran into the West Thirtieth Street Police Station and said that he had seen a woman's leg protruding from underneath the elevated structure at Thirty-first Street. Policeman Griffith went there, and while the northbound traffic was held up he climbed up on the structure. With several track walkers the body was found and finally extricated. The woman had been badly crushed, and apparently several trains had passed over her body.

When the body was searched a letter was found addressed to Michael Loven of 27 Coenties Slip. He went to the station and identified the body as that of his sister. He said that she had been in this country three months and had been employed by Mr. Morris at his Summer home. He had written her, he said, to visit him on Sunday, and had sent her written instructions how to reach his home. It is believed that the woman rode about on the trains nearly all day, not knowing how to reach Coenties Slip. How she happened to get on the elevated structure has not been ascertained. The police believe that she might have fallen off the rear platform of one train and been killed by the one following, or that she might have been walking along the structure from the Twenty-eighth Street station to the Thirty-third Street station. No employes at the stations saw the woman

PASTOR TO FIGHT TEMPERANCE

In His Resignation Letter He Calls It "Supreme Immorality."

To devote the rest of his life to checking, if possible, what he terms the supreme immorality confronting the Church under the guise of temperance, the Rev. William A. Wasson has sent a letter to Bishop Burgess of Long Island, inclosing his resignation from the pastorate of Grace Episcopal Church at Riverhead, L. I., to take effect Sept. 1 next.

Mr. Wasson tells Bishop Burgess he expects to serve the Church more effectively in the future than in the past in what he believes a wider field of labor.

In his letter he says:

> The supreme immorality that confronts and threatens the Christian Church in this country is that which masks and misrepresents itself under the guise of that noble word temperance. The Prohibition movement is more dangerous than commercialism, for the latter, at least, makes no pretenses. If it demoralizes, it does not deceive. The poisonous influence of this humbug "temperance" is more disastrous than that of drunkenness, for the latter is seen and loathed for what it is, whereas the Prohibition propaganda parades in the livery of heaven.
>
> This perfidious crusade denies, tears away, and destroys the lawful liberty wherewith Christ has made us free. Our Church in the Catechism teaches that wine (and by analogy other alcoholic beverages that may be no more dangerous than wine) is a food: "Our bodies are strengthened and refreshed by the bread and wine."
>
> The moral influence of this tyrannical Prohibition propaganda is wholly bad. While its adherents are no doubt sincere, its protagonists assault all who differ from them with savage and venomous ferocity. They slander and falsify. They set traps to entice to sin. Where they prevail there begins an orgy of hypocrisy and lawbreaking; and the last state of the community is worse than the first.

Mr. Wasson says he is now engaged in writing a book exposing the real character of the temperance movement.

CINCINNATI TO HAVE $30,000,000 STATION

All Railroads Now Using Separate Depots There to Have a Union Terminal.

UPPER FLOORS FOR OFFICES

To be Rented to Associated Lines of Business—Better Accommodations for Suburban Passengers.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—The final steps were taken here to-day to give this city a $30,000,000 railroad terminal station which in size will be the third largest in this country and which in at least one important feature will make it unique in the history of metropolitan terminals. It will have an earning capacity in its terminal zone. The new Pennsylvania terminal in New York City, largest of the kind in the world, lacks the earning feature. So does the Union Station in Washington, for neither is equipped with office buildings, stores, and other rental space, which will form an important part in the terminal system to be constructed in the heart of Cincinnati.

The nine large railroads which enter this city have agreed upon the general plan of development for the proposed union station. They have agreed to guarantee the bonds of the Cincinnati Union Depot and Terminal Company, the concern which will operate the terminal system. Already the Ohio Legislature has passed the necessary measures to allow the plans for the terminal to be pushed rapidly along, and the Cincinnati City Council has agreed to grant the necessary franchises.

In the very heart of Cincinnati and above the flood water line the new union station and terminal will for all time solve the problem which the railroads entering here have had to contend with for many years. It will place them in immediate touch with the interurban roads and will allow incoming passengers to reach the city at a central point, instead of outlying districts, which the present conditions make unavoidable in many instances.

The nine railroads which will be mostly benefited by the new terminal are the Pennsylvania, the Big Four, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Louisville & Nashville, the Norfolk & Western, the Southern, and the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville.

John E. Bleekman, President of the Southwestern Ohio Traction Company, formerly of 115 Broadway, New York City, perfected the organization of the present Cincinnati terminal plan. Charles Hansel, a civil engineer of New York, worked out the engineering details.

Benefits of the Plan.

Among the things most concerning the travelling public which will be accomplished by the plan, as pointed out by those who are most interested in the building of the system, these are a few:

In the first place the terminal will provide a direct and inexpensive system for the interchange of freight between the various railroads, forming a direct connection east and west across the city as well as reaching all the connections in the north end of the city, rather than by the proposed circuitous twenty-two-mile belt line which was at one time advocated by those desirous of solving the railway problem.

It will provide an entrance for four large interurban lines and will provide rapid transit for about 150,000 people of Cincinnati and the suburbs, with a twenty-five minute service from Cincinnati to Norwood as against forty to fifty minutes on the surface lines.

The establishment of a large office building in connection with the union station will furnish office facilities for the railroads, exhibit space for manufacturers, as well as provide accommodations for various other interests that are more or less related to the railroads. Five blocks of stores and warehouses are to be erected under the elevated structure, which forms a part of the terminal system, and this will tend to simplify the freight delivery and cartage difficulty of a very hilly city and furnish quarters for a large amount of business that is now flooded during the periods of high water when the Ohio overflows its banks.

Some 120 passenger trains which now pass over the congested tracks of the Mill Creek district each day will be taken off in order to relieve the freight congestion there. Additional freight tracks are also to be laid as well as a large storage yard in the vicinity of Duck Creek.

The location selected for the union station proper is on the north side of Third Street, between Walnut and Main, 400 by 200 feet in size, with a wide arcade approach from Fourth Street, the principal business street of Cincinnati, and with a concourse extending south to accommodate fourteen or more tracks. The train sheds will extend 1,000 feet east and 1,000 feet west from the concourse, clearing Third Street by an elevated structure. There will also be an elevated structure for the trains entering the city from the west. Trains from the east, including the Pennsylvania, will approach the station on independent tracks.

Six Separate Stations Now.

There are six passenger stations owned by the various railroads in different parts of the city. When the new union station and terminal becomes operative these stations are to be converted into freight stations by the roads themselves.

Convenience not only to the travelling public but to the railroads themselves has been consulted largely in the formation of plans for the union station and terminal. It is proposed to concentrate the ticket offices of the various roads in the arcade, so that the necessity for uptown ticket offices in many instances will be obviated. According to figures compiled by those interested in the terminal company, the railroads have been paying some $150,000 a year for these offices, and they hope to save most of this sum by concentrating their ticket offices in the new station.

There will be no grade crossings in the zone of the union station and terminal system. While there is a grade between the proposed union station and the crest of the hill, engineers say they can reduce the grade to a minimum at very small cost. This will materially lessen the grade now encountered by the Baltimore & Ohio, the Chicago Division of the Pennsylvania, and several other roads entering Cincinnati.

Provision has also been made in the terminal plans for the cleaning of 225 coaches on the east end of the train shed, as well as 200 coaches just west of the shed. This convenience will be of especial importance to those roads which at present have to haul their empty passenger trains back across the river in order to wash them.

It is contemplated to charge the railroads $2.25 per coach a year for handling in the terminal zone. The terminal company, which is composed of some of the leading business men of Cincinnati, will be called upon to handle 276 steam passenger trains every twenty-four hours and 474 interurban trains in the Winter and about 600 per day in the Summer, in addition to the urban service.

Those interested in the plan say that the building of the union station and terminal will result not only in the accommodation of the present business but anticipate future growth by having a capacity equivalent to three or four times the present amount of railroad business handled here.

SUIT PENDING FOUR YEARS.

Many Appeals Block Grant Action Against the Cananea Copper Co.

As an example of the law's delays the suit of Nettie L. Grant and James A. Grant against the Cananea Copper Company before Supreme Court Justice McCall was cited yesterday. Walter B. Raymond, attorney for the Grants, said he had been trying for four years to bring the case to trial and had been hindered by sixty-five motions, twenty appeals to the Appellate Division, and two to the Court of Appeals. The case, which involves about $10,000,000, is now on the May calendar of the Supreme Court.

About $3,000 in costs have been paid by the parties, of which $2,200 has been charged against the defendants. Col. Walter C. Greene, President of the company, was adjudged in contempt of court and fined $1,000 for failing to testify before a commission. The Appellate Division sustained the punishment.

Greene's counsel announced yesterday that an appeal from this decision would be taken to the Supreme Court if Greene should ever return to this jurisdiction.

Justice McCall granted a motion yesterday for the examination of Greene by a commission in Mexico, but declined to grant any stay of the trial. Greene, who is reported to be suffering from heart disease, has been in New York but once since the suit was begun.

The Grants, who hold 46 per cent. of the stock of the Cananea Copper Company, which was merged with the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, allege that the minority stockholders were unfairly treated. The property of the Cananea Copper Company is appraised by them at $20,000,000.

ABOLISH SHORT AFFIDAVITS.

Magistrate Butts, Following Board Action, Refuses to Hold Prisoner.

Magistrate Butts, in the Harlem Court, refused to hold a prisoner on a "short affidavit" yesterday morning. This action was in conformity with a recent decision by Justice Whitney that "short affidavits" have no legal status, and that it is illegal to hold a prisoner for twenty-four hours or more at the request of the police.

At the last meeting of the Board of Police Magistrates it was agreed to shut down on the "short affidavit" beginning with May 18; therefore, when Detective Murphy of the Detective Bureau arraigned a prisoner whom he wanted held for twenty-four hours on suspicion of being a pickpocket for whom he was looking, he was taken aback when Magistrate Butts refused to grant his request. The prisoner laughed when he heard the decision, but appeared crestfallen when Magistrate Butts recommitted him to the custody of Detective Murphy, who took him to Police Headquarters.

FAVORS GAMBLING LICENSES.

L. J. Callanan Thinks This Plan Would Tend to Mitigate the Evil.

L. J. Callanan, publisher of Callanan's Magazine, in the current number advocates the repeal of laws making gambling a crime and proposes a State license for it.

"Here is a business which will bear a heavy license totally escaping it simply because a minority of the people of this State control the Legislature," he says. "It is a well-known fact that it cannot be suppressed. As well try to stop the North River running to the sea as to stop gambling.

"Another benefit," he urges, "which would accrue from the enactment of such a law is that it would put it out of the power of the police to levy blackmail on the keepers of gambling houses, which is without question a great source of demoralization in the Police Department."

TO FAST FOR FORTY DAYS.

Dr. G. A. Gayer Thinks Nothing but a Water Diet Will Improve His Health.

Dr. Gustave A. Gayer, President of the Society for Applied Psychics, of 131 West Sixty-third Street, began yesterday a fast which he hopes to be able to keep up for forty days. At any rate he is going to try and do without food for three weeks. He hopes to be able to demonstrate the value of fasting not only as a body cleanser, but as a means for improving the condition of the subconscious mind and giving the forces of life some opportunity to gather themselves and gain strength.

Several physicians will watch the doctor carefully and make examinations from time to time. Among them are Dr. William E. Young, Dr. Floyd B. Ennist, and Dr. R. Johnson Held. Dr. Gayer has made fasting experiments before, but for not longer than two weeks.

"During my fast I will sleep out of doors," said the doctor yesterday. "This will be no new experiment, however, for I regularly sleep in a tent in my backyard Winter and Summer. Water will be the only sustenance I will take until the fast is over. I expect to lose considerably in weight, yet it cannot help but benefit me physically."

PUZZLER BY MAYOR'S ORDER.

Policeman Hesitated to Arrest Chauffeur on Injured Girl's Complaint.

Ethel Ramsey, 16 years old, of 474 West Twenty-second Street, either fell or was knocked down by an auto as she stepped from a Lexington Avenue car at Forty-second Street yesterday morning, and when she wanted the chauffeur arrested, Traffic Policeman Brown recalled Mayor Gaynor's new order relative to arrests in such matters.

The Mayor's idea is that if there is no evidence that the chauffeur or driver of a vehicle was at fault for an accident he must not be arrested unless a warrant is first obtained.

Miss Ramsey, as she was carried into a hotel, protested that the auto had run over her feet, but the chauffeur, Frank Liebler of 72 West Ninety-eighth Street, asserted that he had brought his auto to a full stop and that the girl had run into it.

Brown said he would let Lieut. Brady at the East Fifty-first Street Station House pass on the matter, and when Brady learned from the girl that she wanted to prosecute he said:

"We have a complaint, the man must be arrested and taken to court." So Liebler was arrested.

"For the last few years I have been a sufferer from indigestion and although I have used various remedies and prepared foods with some benefit it was not until I tried Grape-Nuts that I was completely cured.

"As a food it is pleasant and agreeable, very nutritious and is digested and assimilated with very little effort on the part of the digestive organs.

"As a nerve food and restorer, Grape-Nuts has no equal and as such is especially adapted to students and other brainworkers. It contains the elements necessary for the building of nerve tissue and by so doing maintains an equilibrium of waste and repair.

"Grape-Nuts also enriches the blood by giving an increased number of red blood corpuscles and in this way strengthens all the organs, providing a vital fluid made more nearly perfect.

HYDE CONVICTED ON HIS OWN TESTIMONY

His Failure to Remember Where He Bought Cyanide Brings Over Last Two Jurors.

TO GO TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Will Seek New Trial and Appeal—Wife Maintains That He Is Innocent of Murdering Col. Swope.

KANSAS CITY, May 16.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde was found guilty to-day of murdering Col. Thomas H. Swope. His punishment was fixed by the jury at life imprisonment. Application will be made for a new trial, and if that is denied an appeal will be taken.

W. C. Crone was the juror who decided the prisoner's fate after nearly three days of balloting. He said to-night that Dr. Hyde owed his conviction to his own testimony at the trial. Until Sunday night Crone and R. Johnson, a farmer, held out for acquittal against the rest of the jury. Remembering Dr. Hyde's demeanor on the stand, Crone finally voted for conviction and persuaded Johnson to do the same.

"Dr. Hyde was his own worst enemy in the trial," said Mr. Crone to-night. "When he said he had bought cyanide for ten years and yet could not remember where he bought it, he damned himself as a witness."

Crone's son, Albert, was recently sentenced to eighteen years in the penitentiary for murdering Bertha Bowler, his sweetheart.

The verdict came unexpectedly. Every attorney in the case had given up hope that the jury, which had been out since Friday night, would reach an agreement. It was reported this morning that one juror had vowed that he would vote for acquittal until he died of old age.

When the announcement came that the verdict was ready the courtroom filled rapidly.

The group at Dr. Hyde's table was hopeful, but inclined to nervousness. In the face of discouraging prospects Mrs. Hyde tried to be brave. When the verdict was read she threw her arms about her husband's neck and wept silently. Then she patted him on the cheek.

Dr. Hyde sat motionless. He looked firmly at Judge Latshaw. As the words, "imprisonment in the State Penitentiary during his natural life," were pronounced his eyes fell to the floor.

"Don't worry, dearie," said Hyde to his wife as she clasped him in her arms. Mrs. Hyde collapsed in her chair, but made no sound. Not until an hour after the verdict was announced was she able to go to her home.

Mrs. E. N. Hopkins and Miss Laura Hyde, sisters of the prisoner, were distressed but did not break down. They tried to comfort Mrs. Hyde.

Neither Mrs. Logan Swope nor any of her children, except Mrs. Hyde, was in the courtroom when the jury reported. When the news of the conviction was forwarded by telephone to Mrs. Swope in Independence, she shrieked and dropped the receiver. For a time she was on the verge of collapse, but later she recovered and made this statement:

"If I had not been satisfied that I was doing right I would never have started this prosecution of my son-in-law. I am convinced justice has been given the defendant. Of course, it does not behoove me to say whether I wanted to see him hanged.

"As for a reconciliation with my daughter, I stand now as I have always stood. The doors of my house, and my arms and heart, are open to her whenever she wants to come home. My mother love for her has never cooled. I have thought she was mistaken but never that she was other than the sweet, innocent girl she is."

Mrs. Hyde said this afternoon:

"I am now over the first shock and am strong. I shall take immediate steps to make a motion for a new trial. Failing in this, I shall arrange for an appeal. The case will be reversed in the Supreme Court, I am confident, because Clark is innocent. It cannot be otherwise."

Within ten minutes after the verdict had been returned, Hyde was on his way to his cell. He will be sentenced either Thursday or Friday. The law allows the defense four days in which to file a motion for a new trial. It is believed that the Supreme Court will be unable to reach Dr. Hyde's case for at least a year on account of the crowded condition of the docket. In the meantime the prisoner may be kept in the county jail or sent to the State Prison at Jefferson City by Judge Latshaw.

Dr. B. Clark Hyde has been under suspicion in connection with the mysterious illnesses and deaths in the Swope family ever since the death of Col. Thomas H. Swope on Oct. 3, 1909. The death of Col. Swope followed soon after a severe convulsion, and this convulsion, it was charged by members of the Swope family, followed immediately the administration of a capsule given by direction of Dr. Hyde, who said it was a digestive tablet.

It was proved at the trial that Dr. Hyde had purchased cyanide of potassium in five-grain capsules, and he was prosecuted in the belief that he gave one of these capsules to Col. Swope. Dr. Hyde said he bought the cyanide capsules to kill roaches in his office.

Two days before the death of Col. Swope, Moss Hunton, a cousin of the millionaire philanthropist, died at the Swope home following a stroke of apoplexy. Dr. Hyde and Dr. G. T. Twyman of Independence treated Hunton. The patient was bled profusely, it is charged, at the suggestion of Dr. Hyde.

Beginning early in December, an epidemic of typhoid fever broke out in the Swope household, during which ten members of the family were stricken, and one, Chrisman Swope, a brother of Dr. Hyde's wife, died. He expired after taking a capsule given at Dr. Hyde's direction and after suffering a convulsion similar to the one that attacked Col. Swope. Margaret Swope, Chrisman's sister, who was also treated by Dr. Hyde, had a convulsion after taking a capsule, but an emetic was given to her at once by Dr. Twyman and she recovered.

On Jan. 7, 1910, the body of Chrisman Swope was secretly exhumed, and four days later the body of Col. Swope was removed from its tomb, and parts of the bodies were taken to Chicago for analysis. In the liver of Col. Swope's body fifty-two-sixty-sixths of a grain of strychnine was found by the Chicago chemists.

BOY MADE A THIEF BY BLOW ON HEAD

Jersey Youth the Victim of a Dual Personality Since He Was Hit by a Baseball.

CAN'T RECALL HIS CRIMES

Astonished to Learn That He Had Robbed a Store in Broad Day and a Railroad Office, Too.

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 16.—The Somerset County authorities have come to the concluson that in William Miller, a youth of Raritan, who is locked up here for stealing, they have a victim of dual personality resulting from a sharp rap on the head from a pitched ball. The dual personality manifests itself in periods of moral relapse, during which Miller is actuated apparently by an uncontrollable impulse to steal whatever he can lay his hands on. After the theft he declares he has no recollection of it, and the police are convinced that he is not shamming.

Early in April Miller was playing in a game of ball, the police relate, and as he stood at the bat he was struck on the side of the head, over the left ear. He dropped as if shot, and remained unconscious for nearly an hour. For a day he was in a dazed condition, and then gradually he recovered his full senses and appeared unaffected.

The accident had almost been forgotten when, on the night of May 1, he was captured after he had robbed the ticket office at Roselle.

Miller made no effort to conceal himself when discovered, but expressed the greatest surprise when the stolen tickets were found on him. He declared he did not know how they had come there. He had always borne a good reputation.

Since that time Miller has steadily maintained that he could not remember anything about it. The police were led to the theory that he is not responsible for his acts when the evil genius is at work by his performance of yesterday. In broad daylight, with people passing constantly to and fro, Miller entered the front door of a local five and ten cent store and began looting the cash registers.

When he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace David Kitchen he seemed to know nothing about the robbery. He said he did not know where the store was, and wanted to know how it happened that he had been arraigned before a Judge.

The youth is to be examined thoroughly by physicians.

Do You Want the "Doctors' Trust" to be able to Force Its Opinions on You?

DO YOU want government by political doctors? When doctors disagree so constantly, should your choice be abridged by law, or by the ruling of a Department or Bureau? Do you want your health and hygiene to be regulated by an army of United States inspectors under the direction of a medical bureau?

Do you know that there are five bills before the present Congress which, if passed, could be so used, and the concealed purpose of which is to give such powers to a national department or bureau or "officer" of health, and that the political doctors are making the final supreme effort to get one of them passed before the close of the present session?

Do you know that the terms of all of the bills are so subtle that such bureau or department could at any time take action according to its interests or prejudices without specific legislation while the moral effect would be to commit the United States Government to the establishment of a system of medicine, denying to the people the right to determine for themselves the kind of medical treatment they shall employ?

Do you know that William H. Welsh, President of the American Medical Association told the Senate Committee on Public Health and National Quarantine that the Doctors wanted such a National Department of Health for the purpose of "influencing" the State and Municipal Boards of Health, and that he felt the Constitution could be so interpreted as to give the National Board the POWER to regulate health affairs nationally.

Do you know that Prof. Irving Fisher, President of the so-called "Committee of One Hundred" which is ostensibly the moving impulse behind this attempt to secure this legislation, was unexpectedly confronted at the recent Senate hearing with a letter he had written to a physician asking for funds to push the bill saying that it was a project which, once started, would surely expand within a decade so that "millions upon millions of government money" would be disbursed in carrying out the provisions of this legislation?

To defeat this or any other such paternal, unnecessary, extravagant, un-American medical legislation is the purpose of "The National League for Medical Freedom." Mind you, this League is not opposed to sanitation or quarantine properly administered and it makes no war on, and has no quarrel with the faithful medical practitioner of whatever school. Nor is it opposed to the needed work of the state, county or municipal authorities along these lines; but it is opposed to any clique of political doctors which seeks to dominate the legislation of state and national government for the purpose of increasing their power and furthering their own ambitions, all under the pretense of the public weal.

If you want the federal government to continue to attend to its own business, the states to continue to attend to theirs and the political doctors to theirs, join this League.

MANUFACTURERS LIKE RAILROAD BILL

Court Needed to Curb Wall Street Control of Rates Association Holds.

BIG CONVENTION IS OPENED

Whole Country Prosperous, and the Outlook Never Was Better, Is the General Opinion.

A general commendation of most of the provisions of President's Taft's Railroad bill was the feature of the first day's session of the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers, which was begun yesterday afternoon in the Waldorf. The Committee on Inter-State Commerce deplored the control of the railroads by a few men in Wall Street, and declared that this could be curbed only by an Inter-State Commerce Court. Closer trade relations with Canada and an agreement for the construction of a new through water route from the great lakes to this port also were proposed.

Resolutions of sympathy for the death of James W. Van Cleave, for three years President of the National Association, were adopted. His portrait, draped in black, stood on the dais. The officers wore crepe on their official badges. The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon in St. Louis, and at 4 o'clock here the association will interrupt its session to hold a memorial service.

In presenting the report of the Committee on Inter-State Commerce, A. B. Farquhar, speaking of the proposed increase of freight rates, said that manufacturers should be informed in advance, but he denied that the increase of wages made a raise in rates necessary.

"For the year ending June, 1909," he said, "66 per cent. of the railroad stock of the country earned 8 per cent., much more than most investments. Formerly when we felt aggrieved we could go to the freight agents for redress, but with the control in the hands of a few Wall Street men the officers of the roads are powerless. It has become a serious problem, the solution of which can be reached only in the Inter-State Commerce Court."

Speaking of the relations of the United States and Canada the committee spoke of the necessity of greater liberality in the treatment of the Dominion.

Want a Waterway to Canada.

"To the great majority," the report said, "reciprocity is an unmixed good, but there are a few who are deeply interested in the obstruction of trade. The rest of us may object to dearer materials, but it is a delightful thing for them."

The committee also recommended an agreement by which in order to provide a new water route to the Great Lakes from New York the United States should contribute to the construction of a deep-water canal through Ontario to Georgian Bay, and should grant to the Canadians the free use of the canal through this State in return for a free use of the Canadian waterways.

The report wa sadopted and resolutions, based on its recommendations, will be submitted later to the association.

The Committee on Immigration took a firm stand against any restriction on the entry of immigrants, except those mentally, morally, or physically unfit. The head-tax and literacy test were denounced as unfair and useless. It was pointed out that too many newcomers herd in the cities, and it was suggested that agricultural communities maintain agents at any provide free transportation from the ports of entry.

The committee declared that as the Alien Labor law is carried out it is of great value to unions in the case of strikes.

The committee also recommended that the Secretary of Commerce and Labor be empowered to grant employers the right to import skilled labor, provided he cannot obtain such in this country and pays the men he brings in the prevailing rate of wages here.

All Call Country Prosperous.

Among the members of the association a thorough belief in the prosperity of the country prevails. Especially was there a buoyancy of tone among those from the West. They pointed to the $8,500,000,000 the harvests put in their pockets annually, and declared that so well off are the farmers that the emigration of young people to the towns at last is turning.

The only note of distrust was struck by some of the Eastern manufacturers, who remarked that there was no lack of business, but that collections were slow. This they attributed merely to the boom in business having come a little too quickly. They were quite certain that the slowing down of trade was a healthy sign. In a little while, they declared, a balance between capital and enterprise will be reached. Nothing else is in sight to suggest anything but continued prosperity.

C. C. Hanch, Treasurer of the Nordyke & Marmon Company, founders and machinists of Indianapolis, spoke of the condition of the mill machinery business. He pointed to the great development of the wheat fields of Canada, which are now stretching far north of Edmonton into the region which ten years ago was believed to be worthless, but which has turned out to be splendid farming land. Washington and Oregon, he said, were keeping the flour mills working to their capacity.

"We have not felt at all," he said, "the emigration of our farmers to Canada. Much more serious has been the trend of the population to the towns of our own land. But it seems to me the pendulum is about to swing back again. The younger men have refused to work on the farms, but lately the farmers have been making so much money that their sons, who have tried town life, are beginning to think that life on the homestead is not so bad after all.

"It is sometimes said that the land out West has been worked out, but this deterioration has been checked by the splendid work of our agricultural colleges and State universities. I do not think that with modern methods there is any chance of the land ever being exhausted."

Blame for Cost of Living.

The advanced cost of living, Mr. Hanch believed, was due almost entirely to overcapitalization by industries on which the farmers depend.

"The farmer," he said, "has to pay $120 for a machine he used to buy for $80, all because the manufacturing concern has been overcapitalized. It only adds a fraction of a cent to the cost of his wheat, but that fraction is added for every implement that he buys. Also there is the increased cost of transportation. All these fractions mount up, and it would not be human nature if he did not get them out of the consumer.

"To my mind the cost of wheat has been permanently increased, and there is no chance of its being reduced till the capitalization of industries is reduced, which is out of the question."

Business good and orders plentiful, but a general tardiness in making payments was the way J. Pinckney Adams, President of the Vermont Unfading Green Slate Company of Fair Haven, Vt., described the condition of the slate trade, but he was not in the least cast down, and regarded it as merely an incident in the progress of the country.

"The slowness of collections," he said, "I believe is due to the fact that after the general resumption of business after the panic people undertook more than their capital would warrant. I do not believe that there is any unsoundness in the present state of affairs, but I look for the display of a little more caution and a steadying in the pace, all thoroughly healthy."

Does Not Fear Competition.

H. E. Miles, an agricultural implement maker of Racine, Wis., spoke of the effect of the new tariff on Canadian trade. He said that the reduction in the duty on tools from 25 and 45 per cent. to [illegible] per cent. had made it possible for the Canadian manufacturer of a certain kind of plow to send his products into the United States.

"But I do not fear the competition of any country in the matter of steel tools," he said. "England now can send its tools here duty free, and we have not felt this change at all, but it seems to me that as we have reduced our duty toward Canada it ought to do the same for us."

Mr. Miles did not believe that if this was done there would be serious danger of Canada being swamped by American goods. He pointed out that even if the American factory worked on a much larger scale than the Canadian its very size caused extra expenses, and that any other economy would not more than counterbalance the freight charges to Canada.

One side of the prosperity of the West, on which Mr. Miles touched, was the great increase in irrigated lands. Not only had they added enormous tracts to the arable land, but they had introduced intensive farming, so that now a farmer would be content with forty acres when a few years ago he thought 160 a small tract.

Mr. Miles also pointed out that in twelve years the number of horses in the West had increased by 60 per cent. There are now 9,000,000 of them, he said, and they are worth 250 per cent. more than a few years ago. The carriage horse, he said, may have disappeared before the automobile, but the West is using more general utility horses than ever before, and is breeding fine animals, such as Percherons and Clydesdales.

"Yet even these horses and all the newly introduced power of automobiles," he added, "barely are able to handle the crops, which year by year distribute $8,500,000,000 among 40,000,000 people."

THE BALLINGER BLUNDERS.

No right-minded man, we think, can fail to feel a certain pity for President TAFT in the situation in which he has been involved in the Ballinger matter even while admitting that for the most embarrassing features of the situation he is himself indirectly responsible.

The thing that necessarily attracts public attention most readily and conspicuously is that for the statement of the stenographer KERBY it was declared at the White House there was "absolutely no foundation," when the President's own letter to the Chairman of the investigating committee shows that there was considerable foundation, and however much KERBY may have deserved his dismissal, getting rid of him does not mend the matter of the White House statement. This disagreeable discrepancy between official statements is emphasized by the fact that the Attorney General's office has behaved with curiously inept inconsistency as to the memorandum of Mr. LAWLER, one of its own officers, first resenting inquiry, then alleging that no such document could be found, then, on the publication of the stenographer's interview, producing the memorandum. A like inconsistency has been manifested as to the date of the memorandum. The unpleasant result is that the President is entangled in a net of conflicting declarations and actual facts tending to breed suspicion and to cast discredit on each fresh explanation.

We do not for a moment believe that the slightest suspicion of the President's entire candor and truthfulness is justified. Nor do we think that any of the steps in the proceeding for which he is responsible was inspired by any but the best motives, or was in itself deserving of disapproval. It is all the more to be regretted that he should be the victim of such untoward circumstances. And we submit that he is to some extent accountable for the way in which these circumstances have worked out to his disadvantage and to the disadvantage of the public, who should have been protected from the embarrassment of seeing their President involved in such a complication.

Two facts stand out pretty clearly. One is that Mr. TAFT is poorly served in some important offices. His Administration in this matter is shown to be loosely, inadequately, and poorly organized. It does not run smoothly and accurately, and lacks co-ordination and responsible supervision. Any of the distinguished lawyers engaged in it, including himself, must know that their private law offices, when they were in practice, would have come to swift grief had they not been better and more closely organized than the offices from which this wretched mess has come.

The second fact, to which, with entire respect, we desire to call attention is that the business of the country would not be likely to suffer in this way if Mr. TAFT remained in Washington more steadily and attended to it. There is something pathetic and also something a little irritatingly amusing in the following passage from the President's letter:

> I said to Mr. LAWLER that I was very anxious to write a full statement of the case, and set out the reasons for my decision, but that the time for my departure on a long Western trip, occupying two months, was just one week from that day; that I had some six or seven set speeches to deliver at the beginning of that journey, and that I could not give the time to the preparation of such a detailed statement and opinion as I would like to render in the matter. I therefore requested Mr. LAWLER to prepare an opinion as if he were President.

We venture to think that nothing came from that "long Western trip" or from those "six or seven set speeches at the beginning of that journey," or from the many, many others that followed, that really compensated the President or the country for the consequences of his absence from the capital disclosed in this miserable affair. Unquestionably Mr. TAFT undertakes the toil and bother of these long journeys with a sincere conviction that he is doing service to the country. So he does in a way. But on the whole they do not pay. His energy, trained capacity for work, and native good sense are all needed at Washington, and pretty sorely needed, too.

MR. J. W. VAN CLEAVE.

The death of Mr. VAN CLEAVE, former [illegible] of the American Manufacturers' [illegible], is an apprecia[illegible] country. He was not only a very able and energetic and intelligent man in his own business and in the performance of civic duty, but he was exceptionally broad minded, just, and conscientious.

He is best known for his long fight with the trades unions on the principle of the boycott in connection with the Bucks Stove and Range Company, a contest in which he expended a large part of his private fortune and an immense amount of labor. But while he contended for what he regarded as public as well as private rights in this matter, he was always in close sympathy with the workmen in all their real rights and in the disabilities under which they labor. He was aggressive and determined, but fair and kindhearted. While he was the leader of the Manufacturers' Association, that vigorous organization, with his hearty co-operation, undertook the advocacy of an intelligent revision of the tariff through an expert commission, and to their effort and his is due largely the sentiment now back of President TAFT'S plan for a tariff board of inquiry. His work in this direction was another evidence of his catholic and enlightened spirit. The cause of equitable administration of public affairs, purified from the evil influence of personal or class interests, loses by his death an able and honorable supporter.

PAY FOR THE TELEPHONES.

It is a matter of fact that both District Attorney WHITMAN and Judge WARREN FOSTER of the Court of General Sessions know best whether it is necessary for the service of the public for them to have telephones in their homes. It is not believable that either of them would pass his hours of leisure within a mile of a telephone if he could help it, but the hours of perfect leisure enjoyed by these public officers are very few. The chief prosecuting officer of New York County is practically always on duty. As Mr. WHITMAN points out, "criminals have no office hours." The burglars' union does not restrict the hours of labor.

Judge FOSTER'S letter of explanation to Controller PRENDERGAST, though rather long for the subject, and a trifle ironical, is sufficiently explanatory. The Controller refused to pay for the use of these telephones until he learned of "some strong public reason" for paying. The reason is now known, it is public, and it will seem to most citizens sufficiently strong. There is no disposition to treat slightingly the Controller's efforts in the direction of economy. But there is no good reason why the city should not pay these two telephone bills. It would be false economy to dispense with them, and manifestly unfair to make Judge FOSTER and Mr. WHITMAN pay for them.

UNSHACKLING LIFE INSURANCE.

Gov. HUGHES has the support of Insurance Superintendent HOTCHKISS in relaxing the restrictions upon the growth of the business of the life insurance companies of this State. The conditions which caused the imposition of those restrictions necessitated action of some sort, and it is idle now to raise any question whether the action taken was the best possible. Certainly the motives were the best, and the action taken, if open to any criticism, is objectionable only on the ground that it did its work all too well.

The arbitrary limitation of the amount of business which any company might do, irrespective of any other question, is wrong in principle, but after all did less harm than might have been expected, since its application was not general. Only one or two companies reached the limit. Still, even one or two companies of that importance have a fair claim to have their interests considered, and it is worth while, too, to remove from our statutes so remarkable a law as an arbitrary limitation upon business growth for no other reason than mere size. There is no precedent in Anglo-Saxon legislation for such a statute. A few weeks ago there was a proposition before the French Deputies to limit the size of department stores by imposing an extra tax upon those doing an unusually large business, but the result of the proposal is not known. In any case the limitation of size is not an American idea.

With the demonstration that the companies are subject to the law the idea that their size makes them in any way masters of the State may be dismissed. The other justification of the law is that the eagerness of the pursuit of a too large business betrayed the companies into excesses of expense and errors of business morals. The proposed relaxation of the law substitutes good conduct in these respects for the absolute limitation of business, and proportions the freedom in enlarging business growth to economy, and therefore efficiency, in administration. Instead of an unwholesome growth, whether or not it is a growth menacing the State as well as the companies, it is sought to substitute a controlled and safe expansion conditioned upon and proportioned to good conduct, both moral and financial.

It is not to be supposed that this will satisfy those who contend that such interference is unjustified. Even they ought to recognize that this is a considerable installment of progress in the direction of their contention. On the other hand those strenuous for the preservation of all the ground gained in the insurance reform crusade face something of a crisis themselves. If they stand for the letter of the law they risk its repeal altogether. By recognizing the strength behind the proposal, and deferring to a sentiment which asks nothing improper, they retain the power of giving direction to the amelioration of the restrictions which they imposed, but which it may be doubted that they can retain.

Whatever is good in the reforms in this respect is retained in the proposed law, and only its hardships are reduced. Doubtless the State will expose itself anew to whatever menace there may be in a growth of the insurance business of the State to an invincible primacy, but to many even this will seem preferable to forfeiting this primacy by a continuance of the shrinkage of recent years. The insurance written in the three years since the disturbance is less than in the preceding three years by over a billion dollars. Although the volume is so much smaller, the terminations of insurance are larger by $386,000,000. Doubtless there are other reasons for this than the law in question, but it cannot be doubted that it is a contributory factor, for it was designed to be such, and the effect has followed the designed cause.

It may be doubted that the good of the State requires such drastic medicament as this. If the State can endure a growth of the insurance companies' business it ought to be allowed to the companies, if not for themselves, at least for their beneficiaries. Either they will not be insured, or they will be insured in the companies of other States. Some of these are strong companies, but taken as a whole the companies of New York challenge comparison with the world's best. It is a pity that business should be diverted from them for any but the most compelling reasons. The best authorities agree that, however it may have been in the bad old times, reform has done its work, and growth may now be permitted under the conditions of this proposed statute.

IN JUSTICE TO METHUSELAH.

Just because an obvious typographical error in yesterday's TIMES added a paltry thousand years to the age of METHUSELAH we do not intend to become involved in any dispute about Biblical chronology. Some of our readers have sharply suggested that, as the present year is numbered 5670 in the Jewish calendar, if METHUSELAH died in 2616 B. C., he must have survived the flood. According to the accepted chronicles there were no survivors of that catastrophe except NOAH and his folks and their admirable menagerie. The date of the death of METHUSELAH, however, should have been printed 3616 B. C. It is not a date that frequently comes up for discussion, like A. D. 1066, 1492, and 1776.

The year of METHUSELAH'S death was comet year, and the comet was the very one a few of the present inhabitants of the world have lately been sitting up all night to see. Perhaps METHUSELAH'S untimely end was hastened by his neglect of sleep for this very purpose. He passed away at the age of 969. It would be comforting to know that he saw the comet and found it worth looking at, thus securing a little relief from his protracted meditations on the deterioration of human society in the last 700-odd years of his life.

FRENCH MOTOR CAR RULES.

Mr. FRANK H. MASON, the United States Consul General at Paris, has sent to the National Highways Protective Society complete information of the rules governing the ownership and use of automobiles in France, as perfected up to the month of May. Inasmuch as the articles of the French law regulating motor cars have been ratified by most Continental countries and by Great Britain, and are in operation throughout Europe, they may be taken as a model in framing the uniform State and municipal laws of the United States.

Most of our States have neglected to require a certificate of competence from chauffeurs, as is required in France. Few of our cities take care to suppress the nuisance of smoking automobiles, forbid the running of the motor while the chauffeur has left his car, or forbid the use of screaming sirens within the city's gates. Doubtless the officials of the National Highways Society will find useful this digest of the French motor-car rules. Its officers have already obtained desirable modifications of our crude laws, laws which are largely responsible for the abnormal number of American accidents to automobiles and for the prejudices engendered against their owners.

STARVING FOR PUBLIC APPLAUSE.

The effort of three hitherto unknown suburban young women to eat moderately for a specified time would not attract general attention or cause much comment out of their own families. Yet it would be a fairly interesting experiment, and, in households where the food supply is plentiful, a rather uncommon one. It would also be beneficial to the health of the young women.

When these suburban young women begin to fast, however, to starve their bodies, after due and public announcement, they become objects of widespread curiosity. As a warning to the curious it should be said distinctly that their experiment is foolish and their example dangerous. Fasting, except in certain well-defined diseases and with the sanction of a competent physician, is the height of folly. The body must be nourished. Starvation is often resorted to by would-be suicides. If persisted in it is efficacious. The starving suburbanites are not to be regarded as objects for admiration. They are merely the victims of a shallow, conscienceless "sensationalist."

The successor to Mr. LEE MCCLUNG, who was promoted from the position of Treasurer of Yale University to that of Treasurer of the United States, is Mr. GEORGE PARMLY DAY of this city, the youngest man ever chosen for the place. Mr. DAY is 33 years old. Some ten years ago Mr. ANSON PHELPS STOKES, Jr., became Secretary of the Yale Corporation at the age of 25, and Mr. STOKES has "made good." There seems to be no doubt of Mr. DAY'S abilities, since within two weeks of his appointment President HADLEY has started on a tour to the Pacific Coast, leaving the affairs of the old university in the hands of its young Treasurer.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Anxieties with No Basis. While it is true that what even the most learned of astronomers know about comets is considerably less than what they have still to discover, and shades off in a good many places into hypothesis and assumption, it is also true that they really know enough to warrant their confident assurances that nobody need worry over the happenings of to-morrow night.

They are certain, for instance, that the amount of matter in a comet and its so-called tail is so small that quite the most remarkable thing about it is the enormous space it seems to occupy. The tail, indeed, behaves in a way that shows it not to be matter at all, as the term is commonly used, and its visibility is almost the only characteristic that distinguishes it from empty nothingness. Only very ignorant people would confess to actual fear of the consequences to follow passing through this smear of misty light, but not a few others betray a queer disquietude by the frequency with which they discuss all the remote possibilities of disaster that have had recent mention.

The feeling is much like an attenuation of the one that used to exist, a generation or two ago, when the Millerites announced one of their frequently fixed dates for the destruction of the world. Nowadays such a prophecy is ignored by all except a few little groups of half-crazed fanatics, but some of us can very well remember when "the appointed hour" was awaited with an uneasy interest almost general in its extent, and the laughter that followed its harmless striking had a tone of sincerity that was wanting in the derision that preceded it.

In the years to come there will doubtless be a similar change in the popular view of comets. The old ideas as to their close connection with human affairs lingers only as a recognized superstition, but the beliefs of innumerable centuries do not altogether disappear the moment their baselessness is revealed. Feeling survives knowing, and—well, there's no denying that a comet is an impressive spectacle. Timid folk can console themselves, however, with the thought that the only men who know enough about comets to announce that we are to pass through this one's tail unite in declaring that the most to be expected as the result of the experience is a glow in the sky analogous to auroras and the zodiacal light, and the worst a brief disturbance of telegraphic communication.

A Conflict Between Magicians. It may not be necessary, but it will perhaps be wise, for us to state with emphasis that, whatever the outcome of the tests to which EUSAPIA PALLADINO submits while giving one of her performances in the Times Building, the opinions as to her methods and powers hitherto expressed in this paper will not be materially changed.

The men who are trying to arrange the séance are so confident—so rashly confident, it seems to us—of their ability to detect trickery if it exists that they promise, in case there are "manifestations" which they cannot explain, to admit that the woman exercises a supernormal or supernatural force. The conclusion far from necessarily follows the premise. On this occasion, as on every other, the "medium" will really determine the conditions. She accepts this, that, and the other restriction, but some she rejects, and even though she accepted all that were proposed to her by any one group of investigators, and still worked some of her marvels, the correctness of her claims would remain unestablished.

Only after such triumphs had been repeated until nobody could think of any new devices for eliminating deception would a conclusive result be approached. And even then "approached" is all that could be said of it. There would always remain the possibility that a more ingenious and expert control would reveal the trick. When all efforts at detection had failed for a considerable time, however, the present very high probability that EUSAPIA always cheats would be changed to an equally high probability that she sometimes doesn't. This is our position, and we think it both fair and scientific. We have no illusions as to the conclusiveness of any single test. If the one for which arrangements are making ends in another exposure it will only be cumulative evidence; if the experts fail to see how the levitations, the materializations or what not are done, they may be convinced of the existence of an unknown power, but there is a simpler and easier alternative which we will prefer to take—will, indeed, be compelled to take.

Prestidigitation is a large art, and he who pretends to know its remotest possibilities is in peril of humiliation and confusion later on. That we prefer to avoid and will confine our interest to the sporting side of the coming conflict between jugglers. If EUSAPIA beats them all she is truly a wonder, but not necessarily in relation with supernatural or supernormal energies.

BARRELS OF DIAMONDS.

Believes Great Quantities Are Held in Reserve to Keep Up Prices.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the remarks of "Diamondless" on the wearing of costly jewelry by cheap people, the present prices of diamonds are a curious illustration of the power of a "bluff," especially when aided by at least an approach toward monopoly.

Diamonds are being mined by machinery more cheaply than ever before, and there are literally barrels of them held in reserve by the South African combination that rules the world's market. Yet they are calmly marked up in price year after year.

At least one-third of every year's product is said to go into the constantly increasing reserve—into the barrels! And since American mechanics are taking the place of East Indian half-barbaric princes as consumers, the game looks good to last some years. But there will one day be a precipitous and tremendous drop in the price of diamonds when the barrels are thrown on the market. W. C. T.

DROP THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Advice Based on Study of Chicago and St. Louis Shows.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The project of holding a World's Fair in New York does not appear to stir much enthusiasm. I have been wondering whether the usual preliminary symptoms of World's Fair fever might be expected to develop "in our midst," as "Plain Business" says. Among these are fervid excitement in outlying real estate markets; much talk of benefiting New York business; statistical dreams as to number of visitors, and the amount of cash each could be made to drop while here; and oratorical flamboyance as to the great mental and moral uplifting of the public.

Having lived through two, those of Chicago in 1893 and St. Louis in 1904, and having had very good opportunities of looking behind the scenes, I think I may claim to be more than a mere theoretician. And I say, with all possible emphasis, "Don't!"

Forget it! Drop it quick! Don't for a moment think of committing this city to that back-number, countrified, worn-to-death device of promoting public discomfort, known as a "World's Fair."

In the first place we have nothing to show, in the way of wares, or art, or entertainment, that is not already on view, in our great wholesale and retail markets, our accessible galleries, and our theatres, from Coney Island to the high-browed Thespian palace in Central Park West. New York, in its every day aspect is a bigger and better "show" than the lath-and-plaster affairs that gave temporary festivity and activity to Chicago and St. Louis.

"Temporary?" Yes, absolutely so. They had no more to do with the permanent growth of those cities than the advent of the circus has to do with the growth of a country town. The visitors come and gape and cuss and are bereft of their money and go home—and the town is just as it was before. Much is made of the fact that Chicago grew from about 1,200,000 in 1890 to 1,800,000 in 1900, a gain of almost 50 per cent. But note the fact that it grew from 600,000 to the 1,200,000 from 1880 to 1890, an increase of about 100 per cent., in a decade when it didn't have a fair!

The World's Fair idea has been done to death. Every year since 1894 some second-class city has essayed one, inspired by local real estate speculators. The residents at large of these cities paid millions of dollars for their municipal spree in increased prices. The boosting of rents and prices began in St. Louis in 1902, two years before the fair opened. The same process, it is safe to say, would be inaugurated promptly here. The people who live in New York would be taxed millions, for a show that would interest chiefly the rustics.

Perfect New York's permanent facilities for housing residents as well as guests, and the great continual "exposition" that is always in progress here will answer every possible educational or business purpose. We don't belong in a class with Atlanta, Charleston, Omaha, and Seattle, or even Buffalo and St. Louis. WALTER CAMPBELL TAYLOR.

PRINCE AND REPORTERS.

A Story of Edward VII. and Two Newspaper Men.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When King Edward VII. was Prince of Wales, and visiting this country in charge of the Duke of Newcastle, his movements were very closely watched by the newspaper men of the day. Among those assigned to this duty were Mortimer Thomson (Q. K. Philander Doesticks) for The New York Tribune, and George F. Williams for THE NEW YORK TIMES. On one occasion, while waiting up the royal party in their apartments at the Fifth Avenue Hotel the Duke of Newcastle was called away for a short time, and these two newspaper men were left alone with the Prince. He expressed himself as decidedly bored by all the official receptions that were being given him and at meeting the distinguished persons that called, and said that he wished that he could go into the streets and see the city by himself. "Doesticks" suggested that this was a good time to do it, and that they could slip out a back way and have a good time. The Prince joyfully welcomed the suggestion, and he, accompanied by Thomson and Williams, went out a back way and took a run through the streets around Union Square and adjoining places. Among other places of interest he was introduced to one of the prominent cafés of the time, where he was regaled with a mint julep—the first time that a concoction of this kind had ever been presented to him. He was so delighted with it that he wanted to duplicate, but the "boys" thought it was time to be getting back to the hotel before the Prince's absence was noticed.

They reached the Prince's reception room all right, but found that the Duke of Newcastle had already discovered his absence, and there was a terrific commotion going forward in consequence. The Duke was extremely angry with the newspaper men and threatened to have them turned out, and refused facilities for reporting the movements of the royal party. The reporters said they did not object, because the story of the Prince's escapade would make good reading, and amply atone for any disappointment they might suffer by not being allowed to accompany the party further. They also informed the Duke that if the story was printed and elaborated upon as they felt inclined to do, the Duke himself would be in disgrace as a "negligent chaperon" in allowing the Prince to be "kidnapped." Thereupon the Duke was appeased, friendly relations were re-established, and Thomson and Williams accompanied the royal party in its progress through the country. OLD-TIME REPORTER.

PRESIDENT AND GOVERNOR.

Comparison of Executive Methods of Taft and Hughes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An editorial in a contemporary the other day seemed to criticise Gov. Hughes for not paying more attention to party affairs. That he has been a fine Executive, administering the affairs of the State most admirably, no one will deny. That he has abstained (if he has) from interference in party affairs is to his credit, and his whole administration is now universally praised.

We have to compare with this that of the Chief Executive of the Nation who actively assumed the domination of party affairs—and has apparently held himself responsible for party acts.

Our State Executive has labored hard and in face of great obstacles, in the public interest—doing much to purify the legislation of the State and to aid the proper administration of the laws. He has been ever alert and courageous, receiving without wavering abuse from friend and foe alike. The result is an administration of which every one is proud, and good words are spoken of it, even by enemies.

Now, on the other hand, we have the Chief Executive of the Nation who has assumed to himself the entire direction of party affairs, holding himself responsible for sins of omission or commission, taking upon himself the burden of others, and this is beyond his strength. Why cannot the President attend to the duties given to him by the people and leave party matters alone? He seems to think himself responsible for party pledges and that on him solely is laid the burden of fulfillment. He deserves praise, for he has been honest, painstaking, considerate. But he has been too devoted to party to do justice to the country.

To rehabilitate himself he must devote himself to his own department of the Government, leaving to those to whom it belongs the management of the legislative department, and he must not take the whirlwind administration of his predecessor as a model. If he does it will bring him to grief.

The result of the comparison of the two Executives is this: The Chief Executive of the State retires with universal acclaim for his courage and devotion to duty and hailed as the party's best asset. The Chief Executive of the Nation still closely adhering to party management finds the party divided—nobody thanking him for his labors, for the Chief Executive has labored long and earnestly even if mistakenly. PALLADINO'S METHODS.

If Tricks, Are Much More Clever Than Those Described.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Although I signed the statement of the investigating committee that no conclusive evidence was obtained of the supernormal powers of Palladino, I cannot accept the so-called exposure of her method of raising the table, published in Collier's. I have myself been under the table in a brightly lighted room during its levitation to a height of fully two feet, and passed my hand between the legs of the table and the skirts of Mme. Palladino. At one sitting (not an official one) I held the right hand of the medium during some very remarkable levitations. The room was brightly lighted, and both legs of the table were easily seen to be clear of the medium's feet and knees. In addition I passed my hand under the feet of the table nearest the medium. If it is a trick it is a much cleverer one than that described by Prof. Jastrow.

I have seen plenty of fraud at the sittings, and devised the arrangement of illuminating the floor of the cabinet and viewing what went on inside through a hole in the top. My report will appear in the current issue of Science, and will hardly be found favorable by Mme. Palladino's friends. I feel, however, that I must say very emphatically that I have seen levitations which could not have been produced in the manner described by Prof. Jastrow. At times, it is true, I have seen her slip her foot free and assist the table. If any further tests are to be held I am ready to serve, and feel quite certain that I can propose conditions which will prove whether or not the table has been touched by the feet or knees of the medium. The X-ray test, which I have described in Science, is in my opinion, the only one which can settle the matter of the cabinet manifestations conclusively. If they are genuine this test will prove it absolutely. It is therefore to Mme. Palladino's interest to submit to it, if the phenomena are genuine. R. W. WOOD.

The Table of the Medium.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Has it occurred to any of the profound gentlemen who have unfortunately found it necessary to investigate the trivial trickeries of the levitating lady from the East that her alleged superiority to gravitation is demonstrated upon a single article of domestic furniture?

In this respect she operates under the same limitations as the rest of her ilk; their power is restricted to tables. Is there anything particularly supernatural about a table? Is a table more susceptible to the "magnetic fluid" with which these people profess to operate, and, if so, why is it more responsive than a soup plate or a door mat or any such article? If a table can be levitated in the dark, surely it would be child's play to animate a much smaller object in an honest light. Why not try the lady with a foot stool? JULIAN C. SMALLWOOD.

Mr. Roosevelt's Riding Posture.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What you say of "needless anxiety" over Mr. Roosevelt's appearance on the approaching solemn occasion in London is quite appropriate; it is well within your province thus to address your readers.

But I cannot forget that Mr. Roosevelt has always worn the "continuations"—"cuffs," some call them—of his knickerbockers outside his stockings, instead of drawing the stockings over the continuations and rolling them down gracefully in accordance with the design of the costume.

Moreover, as the late lamented Harry Becket used to exclaim effectively in one of his best parts, "I have no hesitation in saying, and I say it boldly," that Mr. Roosevelt is not an imposing figure on horseback. He squats too much in the saddle, however well he may ride, (stick on.) His appearance when mounted suggests what I once heard a "crack" British lancer describe as "like a clothespin on a line."

To me he resembles a wishbone hung up to dry.

I hope Mr. Roosevelt will wear the ordinary frock coat and high hat of the civilian and walk. SARTORIAL.

Male Enumerator's Difficulty.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When Miss Constance Walker writes that she found no difficulty in securing census information, she seems to forget that her very femininity lightened the task for her. Although the present writer did not resort to force on any occasion, he was unable to complete the enumeration of his district without one or two verbal tilts with irate heads of families. The male enumerator, no matter how tactful his address, is often regarded with suspicion and equally by native-born and foreigner. But why recall the past? It is over, praise to the Powers that Be, for ten years at least. HAROLD L. RITT.

THE COMET.

Who Goes There?

Stranger with fiery mane,
Flame eyes and jewel'd train,
Out of the sun's domain,
Why com'st thou?

Waving a blazing brand,
High in thy far-flung hand;
Thy hair a yellow strand,
Swept from thy brow!

Like to some bird of prey,
Blotting the sun's ray,
Circling and circling aye—
Whence? Whither? Why?

What be thy name and will?
Com'st thou for good or ill?
Soaring athwart the hill,
Brooding on high.

Art thou some fiendish star,
Leaving calm fields afar,
Seeking fresh worlds to mar?
Or, blown astray—

Striving to find a spot,
Ancient and half-forgot,
There, in some ordered lot,
Thy head to lay?

Stranger with fiery mane,
Out of the sun's domain—

STEPHEN CHALMERS.

Missed!

'Tis surely up to those who, well
Or badly, poets emulate,
This Halley's comet thing to celebrate.

And so here goes!—Ah, comet, shot
Through space, are you of any use?
Reduce?

(That's up-to-date)—And, comet, say,
Why don't you cure our many ills,
Solve all our earthly problems, pay
Our bills?

(That lends a sportive touch)—To fly
Dear comet, can't you teach us, pray?
(A topic of the moment, by The way!)

And now a clincher!—something neat,
A racy, clean-cut, sparkling gem,
An iridescent verbal treat • • •
Ahem! • • •

Ah, comet!—(this is good, you bet)—
Ah comet!—(ha! I'm on the brink Of something scintillating)—let Me think.

(They let me. Comet vanishes for another seventy-five years.)

ORATORY, THAT'S ALL, AT SUBWAY HEARING

THEY RAMBLE FAR AFIELD

Routes, Contract Forms, "Roofless" Tunnels, and Compressed Air Come in for Discussion.

It looked like the good old days of Quigg acceleration yesterday afternoon in the hearing room of the Public Service Commission. The commission had advertised a hearing on the forms of contract for the construction on the city's credit of the proposed tri-borough subway system, which meant that it invited criticism from a contractor's standpoint of the technical terms specified in the voluminous document made public a couple of weeks ago.

The tri-borough route having been adopted by the commission, the Board of Estimate and the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, as to some of the modifications, and the question of construction by the city or by private capital awaiting subsequent determination when bids shall have been received, the commission was tackling the intermediate step of the form of contract on which bids may be asked in line with the hearing held last week on the contract for construction by private capital.

But the Property Owners' Association of the Fifth Ward of Queens and the United Civics of Jamaica, sundry residents of Kings, through one Walsh; the South Bronx Property Owners' Association, the East Bronx League, the Eastern District Taxpayers' Union, the Independence League, the Taxpayers' Association of the North Side, Queens Borough; the Astoria Heights Taxpayers' Association and one citizen who believes that the question of ventilation is the "supremest" thing about the subway, had determined to make it a field day for the friends of the people who don't want the tri-borough built as the commission, the Board of Estimate, and the Appellate Division have determined it shall be built. The result was one of the most remarkable gatherings the commission has met since it came into existence.

To begin with, Chairman Willcox explained what the hearing was supposed to be about—that the question of route, whether north and south or east and west, whether to or past Queens, whether into or out of the Bronx, was not up for discussion, and that the question of municipal or private construction would be determined after the bids were received. Then the fun began.

The first speaker was Col. A. J. Griffith of the Fourth Ward (Queens) Taxpayers' Association. After he had been speaking about two minutes Commissioner Eustis discovered that the Colonel was talking on the form of contract for construction by private capital, which was up for a hearing last week. The representative of the Fourth Ward (Queens) Taxpayers' Association thereupon retired.

Next appeared a man named Adikes, representing the United Civics of Jamaica. Prefacing his remarks with the statement that he had never read the Public Service Commission's act, he asked the commission whether it provided for the construction of north and south or of east and west subways. He also had never read the form of contract proposed, and after he had been told that the legislators in their wisdom did not assume to determine in what direction the city should build its subways, the United Civics were counted out.

At this point Citizen Walsh of Kings arose to ask what the hearing was about. The Chairman repeated his original explanation, whereupon Mr. Walsh suggested that it was the "sense of the meeting" that the question be discussed whether subways be built by the city or by private enterprise. The commission decided to remain deaf to the voice of public opinion as thus expressed and to adhere to the purposes for which the hearing was called. Citizen Walsh sat down.

In close succession came R. W. Higbie of Jamaica, who just dropped in to say he didn't like the tri-borough route, and Municiapl Justice Shield of the East Bronx League, who wanted the commission to know that he did. Then Ernest G. Gardiner of the Eastern District appeared and undertook to address himself to the contract by proposing an amendment to the effect that the instrument could not become effective until the population within half a mile on either side of any subway proposed should be seventy-five persons to an acre. With considerable agility he made eight or ten starts from this as a basis into discussions about the interests of his section as opposed to those of the Bronx, the Astor estate, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, which, he assumed, the commission was favoring. Finally Chairman Willcox said that the commission had listened to about enough on this, and Gardiner retired with some desultory murmurings about the abridgment of free speech.

The star protestant followed in the person of A. E. Henshall, whose specialty is ventilation. It was he who declared that ventilation was the "supremest" issue, and then started in with a plan to lead compressed air into the roof of the subway. Commissioner Eustis finally asked him how it would do to leave the roof off entirely, but the ventilation expert was not satisfied with this concession. He said that the buildings were getting so tall that they shut out the draught, and still wanted his compressed air pipes.

The next civic representative lost his nerve before he had given his name and retired in confusion after saying that he had mistaken the purpose of the hearing. Next came James A. Allen of the Independence League, to whom the commission listened with attention until it became evident that his interest was in having the commission adopt on the spot the policy of municipal construction, abandoning every other mode of subway building.

He was soon several miles away from the hypothetical tunnel under Broadway and Lexington Avenue and had to be gently halted. Following the Independence Leaguer came two or three other civics from Queens, including John O'Brien of Jamaica, who offered to wager that the newspapers wouldn't print what he said. If O'Brien got any takers he will probably win his bets.

Finally, unobtrusively, and in an apologetic manner, there emerged from the crowd that packed the hearing room John B. Reed, who said that he represented a contractor, and wanted to lay the way for presenting arguments favoring the letting of a contract for operation along with that for construction, even though the construction be with city money. The members of the commission were so dumfounded that a contractor was present or represented that it failed to ascertain for whom Mr. Reed acted, although assuring him of its desire to hear from him further.

When he got through a representative of the Astoria Heights Taxpayers' Association put in a word to the effect that "we ain't got no just right to be imposed on by taxation without representation," and then, as there were no other persons who wanted to discuss the form of the contract, the commission resolved itself into a sort of Committee of the Whole on the good of the order, and turned loose the flood gates of oratory. At this point the newspaper men deserted their assignments, and what happened further will be a beat for any one of the reporters who may have sneaked back.

"They worked it better in Quigg's day," was the comment of one old-timer as the crowd filed out.

DR. COOK IN TOWN? ASK CAPTAIN OSBON

The Redoubtable Mariner Takes a Little Journey to the Cook North Pole Dairy.

WON'T TELL WHOM HE SAW

Rumor That the Near-Polar Discoverer Has Come Back, but He Can't Be Found.

A rumor is going the rounds that won't be downed to the effect that Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Bushwick explorer who said he went to the north pole, is back in town. He mysteriously disappeared from the Gramatan Inn, Bronxville, Nov. 24 last, and was not located until several months later, when he was discovered in Chile by an American tourist, who said the explorer was registering at South American hotels as "F. Craig."

For several weeks the impression has been general that Dr. Cook was on his way back to New York, and so no great astonishment was occasioned yesterday when a story was printed to the effect that he was staying at the Hotel Empire, Broadway and Sixty-third Street, under the name of "Adams." The management of the Empire promptly denied the report.

"Dr. Cook is not here under the name of Adams or any other name," one of the hotel clerks said, "and, what is more, we have no one with us named Adams."

From the Empire the trail led to the North Pole Dairy, in Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, where William L. Cook, a brother of the doctor, is in business. Nobody who wanted to find that dairy could miss it, for it is one big sign from top to bottom, while on the roof, just over the sign, is a huge wooden bottle, painted white, so as to create the illusion that it is filled with milk. The dairy is in the centre of the block near Park Avenue, and is built on to the house in which the William L. Cooks live.

The back yard of the residence is also the back yard of the North Pole Dairy, and this is where Capt. B. Osbon, once on a time a Read Admiral in the Mexican Navy, comes into the story. Everybody knows Capt. Osbon, the venerable defender of Dr. Cook, who is admitted to be the most belligerent of all the Cook partisans.

At about 5 P. M. yesterday an elderly man got off a Flushing Avenue trolley car. He headed due north, in the direction of the North Pole Dairy. There could be no mistake about it, and THE TIMES reporter recognized in him Capt. Osbon, the defender of the Brooklyn explorer.

Capt. Osbon looked warily up and down the street and then across. He was apparently looking for "pesky reporters," as he sometimes calls them, but there was none in sight, the one from THE TIMES having seen him first and taken refuge in a delicatessen shop.

It is about 100 yards from Flushing Avenue to the North Pole Dairy, and Capt. Osbon negotiated the distance, when he got started, in fast time. William L. Cook and his wife saw him coming and met him at the door of the dairy. Then the Captain disappeared through the dairy, apparently going into the back yard and then into the Cook residence, where it is conjectured he may have seen Dr. Cook.

Every window shade in the Bedford Avenue side of the house was down, and neighbors said they had been closed all day. If Dr. Cook was in the house, it was evident that his brother was taking no chances of any passerby seeing him through a window and recognizing him.

Capt. Osbon was shown through the rear dairy door, and as soon as he had disappeared the Cooks and their daughter came back into the dairy, where they stayed for an hour while Capt. Osbon was in the house.

"There is somebody in the house who is talking to Capt. Osbon, and its not any of Billy Cook's people, either, for they are all in the dairy," said a man who was across the street when the former flag officer of Mexico's navy arrived.

The reporter finally decided to take some action to expedite the departure of Capt. Osbon. He figured that if somebody called up the North Pole Dairy and asked for Capt. Osbon, hinting that a reporter was on the way to intercept him, the old mariner would probably decide to beat a retreat before the reporter got there.

The reporter called up, and in less than five minutes Capt. Osbon ran into the dairy and then peeped out into the street to see if anybody was around who looked like a reporter. There was no such looking person in sight, and he hurried down the street and boarded a Flushing Avenue trolley car for New York. The reporter boarded the same car and came to New York with Capt. Osbon, going all the way with him to Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, where he lives.

The reporter was ringing the bell of Capt. Osbon's apartment when the latter arrived.

"Well, I am glad to see you, for I have been waiting a long time," the reporter said.

"Who are you?" Capt. Osbon asked.

"I am from THE TIMES, and would like to know if it is true that Dr. Cook is in town."

"He is not in New York. He is in Europe, fifteen days' journey from New York," Capt. Osbon replied.

"Now, Captain," the reporter countered, "is it not a fact that you have seen Dr. Cook this very afternoon at his brother's house, at 749 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn?"

"I did not, for he is not there," Capt. Osbon answered. He admitted that he had been there, but reiterated that he had not seen Dr. Cook.

"Reporters," he remarked sadly, "have been trailing me all day. Three of 'em followed me to Brooklyn, but I got away without them seeing me."

"How did you do it?"

"I went away in a milk wagon," he answered.

The William L. Cooks were just as positive as Capt. Osbon that Dr. Cook is not with them. Mrs. Cook was reported to have said that he might be in the city, but she couldn't say where.

Another report was that Dr. Cook had been driving with his wife and two little girls, the latter attending the Hamilton Institute for Girls, at 3 West Eighty-first Street, on Sunday afternoon. At the institute it was said that those in charge knew nothing of the whereabouts of Dr. and Mrs. Cook. The school will close in about two weeks, and Dr. and Mrs. Cook, it is believed, will call for their children between now and that time.

A touring car stopped at the North Pole Dairy yesterday afternoon, and the man who was driving it went in for about ten minutes. The number of the car was 21,494, and the police register states that this car belongs to A. G. Chesebrough of New London, Conn.

Frederick Lawrence Upjohn, who cleared up the mystery of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's long disappearance by cabling THE NEW YORK TIMES last February from Coronel, Chile, that one of his fellow-passengers on the steamship Osiris, who answered to the name of F. Craig, was Cook, has arrived in New York. When seen yesterday at the Plaza, Mr. Upjohn told how his suspicions were first aroused in regard to Mr. and Mrs. F. Craig, and how he finally established the explorer's identity.

"I first met Dr. Cook about ten years ago," said Mr. Upjohn, "in a business transaction, and although he had shaved off his beard and mustache when I met him on the Osiris, I recognized him, although I confirmed my suspicions in several ways before cabling THE TIMES that my fellow-passenger, F. Craig, was Dr. Cook.

"I knew nothing about his strange disappearance from New York until I reached Montevideo, and then I learned it by chance.

"As the Osiris was a German boat, I requested the purser to allow us to sit at a table where English was spoken, and he ventured the information that the couple who had just boarded the steamer were evidently Americans, but they had asked to be allowed to sit at a table where no English was spoken.

"At dinner that night we found ourselves at the same table with Mr. and Mrs. Craig. Daniel C. Riker, the young son of C. B. Riker of this city, was with us, and after dinner we began to suspect that something was wrong with our fellow-passengers.

"Craig appeared familiar to me, and it flashed over me all at once that he was Dr. Cook. I then proceeded to draw him out, as it were, and I was soon positive that my suspicions were correct. Mind you, I never once spoke to him about the discovery of the north pole, nor did I show in any way that I recognized him."

TRICKED IN A MONEY PLOT.

Two Produce Dealers Cause the Arrest of Three After Losing $3,600.

Accused of obtaining $3,600 by a fraud in which they volunteered to help the complainants grow rich by the old trick of buying counterfeit money at a low figure and selling at at a high one, Samuel Dressler, a saloonkeeper, of 321 Reid Avenue, Brooklyn, and Isidore Bauer, an operator, and his wife, of 275 Avenue B, were arrested at their homes last night by Central Office detectives.

The complainants in the case, Max Lebarsky and Joseph Stein, butter and egg dealers of 318 East Eighth Street, according to the police, charge that on Dec. 14 they met another man, who introduced them to Dressler and the Bauers at a house in East Thirteenth Street, and told them he had a friend in the Government service at Washington who would sell them paper on which counterfeit money could be struck off, provided he was paid enough money for doing so. Lebarsky said Dressler gave him seven $5 bills, cut in two, and supposedly counterfeit, which were accepted by the First National Bank of Jersey City as good money.

In January, Lebarsky says, Dressler told him they needed $1,000 to buy paper, and this, he says, he furnished, as well as another $1,000 a few days later. Thereafter he heard nothing further until Jan. 17, when, he says, he got a special letter from Dressler asking him to meet him at a house in G Street, Washington.

There, according to Lebarsky, Dressler told him his friend in the Government service thought his services were worth another $5,000, and that they must raise it at once or lose the friend. All Lebarsky had was $550, and this, he says, he gave Dressler for his paper-furnishing friend. Later, according to the police, Lebarsky, with his partner Stein, gave Dressler another $1,000 at the house in East Thirteenth Street. When they went back there a few days later they found the house empty.

Lebarsky says he hunted up Dressler and reproached him, and that Dressler gave him Hungarian railroad bonds supposedly worth $5,400 to pacify him. His bank, however, he says, told him the bonds were worthless. Then he reported his misadventure to the police and the arrests followed.

BOY DROWNED, NOT KIDNAPPED

Body of Willie Rivers Is Found in Flushing Creek.

Instead of being kidnapped by a wandering organ grinder, as many believed, 5-year-old Willie, son of John Rivers of Flushing, who disappeared on May 7, was drowned. His body was found yesterday in Flushing Creek within a short distance of his home.

The body was seen in the grass alongside the creek early yesterday morning by Engineer Edward Townsend of a Long Island Railroad train. When he reached Long Island City word was sent back to Flushing, but by that time the body had floated away. It was found later by policemen in a boat, and was identified by Mrs. Margaret Tripold, the boy's aunt, who lives in Corona.

OLD INDICTMENTS QUASHED.

Eight Charges Found Nine Years Ago Grew Out of Patrick Case.

The eight oldest cases on the criminal calendar of this county were dropped yesterday, when Judge Crain, in General Sessions, dismissed indictments found nine years ago, during the administration of District Attorney Philbin, against David L. Short and Morris Myers in connection with the Patrick murder case.

Two charges of perjury were coupled with six for forgery, the two men being indicted jointly with Patrick, who is now serving a life sentence for the murder of William Marsh Rice.

The alleged forgery grew out of Rice's alleged will, to which the names of Myers and Short were appended as witnesses. This will was declared to be fraudulent.

SEE VICTORY AHEAD FOR THE DEMOCRATS

MAYOR GAYNOR NOT THERE

But His Name Is Cheered—Editor McKelway Didn't Think His Speech Would Be Welcome.

Prominent Democrats of New York and other States voiced their enthusiasm over what they term the golden Democratic opportunity this Fall at the Brooklyn Democratic Club dinner last night in commemoration of the life and public services of Andrew Jackson. It was held in the large banquet hall of the Cafe Raub in the Johnston Building in Nevins Street, and 150 guests were present. Mayor Gaynor had been asked to attend, but another engagement kept him away, and he sent regrets.

The principal speakers were George E. Chamberlain, United States Senator from Oregon; D Cady Herrick, Herman A. Metz, Dudley Field Malone, Assistant Corporation Counsel; and Olonzo G. McLaughlin, President of the club, who acted as toastmaster.

Letters were read from prominent Democrats all over the country who had been unable to attend. They included Eugene Foss, newly elected Congressman from Massachusetts; Thomas M. Osborne, Chairman of the Democratic State League; Albert W. Gilchrist, Governor of Florida; Congressman James S. Havens of Rochester, former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, William Hodges Mann, Governor of Virginia; Judson Harmon, Governor of Ohio; Woodrow Wilson, President of Princeton; Congressman Champ Clark, John H. McCooey, Mayor J. K. Sague of Poughkeepsie, and David R. Francis of St. Louis.

St. Clair McKelway, editor of The Brooklyn Eagle, sent the following letter which caused much comment:

> Alonzo G. McLaughlin, President of the Democratic Club:
>
> I am regretfully required to announce that I will be unable to be with your organization on the night of May 16. Otherwise it would give me great pleasure to hear Senator Chamberlain, Congressman Foss, and Reorganizer Osborne, all three of whom I value highly. Could I come, however, I should not speak, as my views can be more easily and less objectionably expressed in my paper than in any form that would shorten the time of the foregoing gentlemen or require them to shorten mine. With best wishes,
> ST. CLAIR McKELWAY.

Gov. Gilchrist wrote:

> The next President will be a Democrat. Every indication points that way. The history of elections to Congress proves it. Everything points to a Democratic landslide. The next House will undoubtedly be Democratic. The Republicans are now scared out of their boots, not on account of fear from the tail of Halley's comet, but for fear there will not even be left any tail to the hitherto brilliant comet of the so-called Grand Old Party.
> My opinion is that the Democratic Party has been too modest in its platform. "There shall be equal opportunity for all," says the Republican platform. This "equal opportunity" has been finding expression in the Ballinger investigation and in the trusts growing out of the tariff. They are "against" trusts, yet every great trust in the country has grown fat and has thriven under their administration.
> We elected a Democratic President in 1884 and in 1892 on the tariff issue, and on that issue we will elect a Democratic President in 1912. An ex-President has been shooting elephants in Africa. That will undoubtedly suggest the feasibility of shooting G. O. P. elephants in America.

President McLaughlin urged the Democrats to take full advantage of the present situation in the Republican Party and to unite for victory in the State and Nation this Fall.

"The majority party of this State," he said, "drunk with power and in the face of the anger of the people, as expressed in the election of Mr. Havens to Congress, has seen fit to repudiate the direct primary law urged by our excellent and respected Governor, Charles E. Hughes, and machine ridden and machine bossed, is flaunting its challenge in the face of all good citizens.

"The higher cost of living, the tariff iniquities, the general cessation of business activity has brought about a revulsion in popular feeling. Gov. Harmon has been elected in Ohio, Gov. Marshall in Indiana, Congressman Foss in Massachusetts, and Congressman Havens in upper New York, all Republican strongholds, and now let us by the character and quality of our nominations and with sincerity of purpose and effort add to this list a Democratic Governor for the State of New York."

Mr. Malone paid this tribute to Mayor Gaynor:

"Under the leadership of that great man and Democrat, Mayor Gaynor, the idea that it is as much a larceny to take from the city more than you have earned or contracted for as it would be to take similarly moneys from your fellow-citizens, has dissipated the Spartan theory that theft is odious and reprehensible only when detected. These ideas dropped in the minds of the people are receiving daily sanction and are producing that necessary confidence in our men and policies which is an assured omen of party success."

The mention of Mayor Gaynor's name brought forth prolonged applause.

"Three Twins" Still Is Popular.

"Three Twins," with Clifton Crawford in his original rôle of Tom Stanhope, returned last night for a two weeks' engagement at the New York Theatre. The company includes Mayme Gehrue, Joe Allen, Della Niven, and others who have been with the organization throughout its long tours. This is the fifth time "Three Twins" has played here since it opened at the Herald Square Theatre in 1908. Its reception last night showed it has lost none of its popularity.

Rose Stahl Begins Farewell Tour.

Rose Stahl began her farewell fortnight as Patricia O'Brien at the Academy of Music last night. She has played "The Chorus Lady," as a vaudeville sketch and a play, more than 4,000 times, almost 500 of them in New York. The theatre was filled last night by an enthusiastic audience, and Miss Stahl received a first-night welcome. Her company includes Wilfred Lucas, Alice Leigh, Giles Shine, Claire Lane, Isabel Goodwin, Kenyon Bishop, Amy Lesser, Annie Ives, Florence Grant, Lillian O'Neill, and Beatrice Brown.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

W. Wania, a Russian dancer, has been engaged by F. Ziegfeld, Jr., for "The Follies of 1910." Other recent engagements are Rosie Green, Hazel Robertson, Grace Fields, Eleanor Pendleton, and Maurice Hegeman.

Adele Ritchie, recently the principal actress in "The Girl in the Taxi," will make her reappearance in vaudeville after two years next week.

Hall Caine's latest story, "The White Prophet," is to be produced in dramatized form in America next Fall by Liebler & Co. George C. Tyler, who made the arrangements with Mr. Caine in London, has gone to Italy to attend to matters in connection with the new Mascagni opera in which Bessie Abbott is to appear next Fall.

Julius Hopp will present Frederick Hebbel's drama, "Mary Magdalene," for the first time in English at the Hackett Theatre next Sunday evening, and will give a second performance of the play at the same place on Tuesday afternoon. This play was given several times at the Irving Place German Theatre about a year ago, with Hedwig Reicher in the title rôle. The translation is by Richard Offner of Harvard University, and the dramatization is by Rose Laddon.

Lew Fields announces that the run of "The Jolly Bachelors," at the Broadway Theatre will last only two weeks longer, coming to an end on May 28.

John Emerson, one of the dramatic stage directors for the Shuberts, will sail for England on the Lusitania to-morrow to inspect a number of plays in England and on the Continent. While in Germany he will confer with Marietta Olly on a new play for her use next season.

"Lulu's Husbands," at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, will close its New York run next Saturday night, and will remove to Chicago to open at the Grand Opera. The Shuberts and Harry Hamlin, manager of the Chicago house, have entered into an agreement whereby the former agree to keep the theatre open for several weeks.

POLICE CHASE BRIDAL AUTOS.

Three Chauffeurs Arrested While the Wedding Is in Progress.

A bridal party nearly came to grief yesterday afternoon when the automobiles in which they were being driven to St. Cassimir's Church, Yonkers, were chased by Patrolman John Carson.

The hour appointed for the wedding ceremony had passed and the chauffeurs let out full speed to get to the church. Patrolman Carson was on horseback, and could not keep pace with the machines. However, he kept plodding along and managed to reach the church while the automobile drivers were waiting to take the party to Riverdale Hall, 60 Riverdale Avenue, where the wedding reception was to be held.

Carson arrested the chauffeurs of the three cars, charging them with reckless driving. They were Edward Bender of 320 Ashburton Avenue, Arthur L. Sloan of 37½ Yonkers Avenue, and Vincent Feeley of the Getty House. City Judge Joseph H. Beall held them for a hearing to-morrow morning.

The bride was Miss Rosaline Racine and the bridegroom George Lenker. Both lived at 27 Clinton Street. They had been visiting relatives in Hastings and were on the way from that place when Carson pursued them. The spectacle of the rapidly moving machines containing the bridal couple and attendants, with the mounted policeman in pursuit, attracted the attention of thousands.

LEAVES CHURCH FOR BUSINESS

Pastor Delivers Last Sermon Attacking Bigotry and Unprogressiveness.

CHICAGO, May 16.—With a parting defense of his stand and a declaration that he would "die rather than be narrow, bigoted, and unprogressive," the Rev. Donald D. McLaurin delivered his last sermon at the Second Baptist Church yesterday. He said later he was through with the ministry and would enter business. In his sermon one passage stood out strongly.

"A clergyman of to-day," he said, "should not be held responsible for the theology of the sixteenth century. We were bidden to grow in grace and in knowledge, and I do not believe any one has yet exhausted the supply of either. A man may have a new vision or he may have an old one from a new angle.

"I always shall be a Baptist, but I shall be a progressive one."

GIANT AT 14 WOULD MARRY.

Runs Away from Home and Saves All His $3 a Week for His Bride.

A youthful giant, Stefano Camariato, 14 years old, was arraigned before Justice Hoyt in the Children's Court yesterday charged with running away from home and being a bad boy. The complainant was the boy's father, who said that his boy had been working, but had never turned over a penny of his earnings, and that when he, the father, became too insistent the boy left home. That was ten days ago.

Stefano, who is about 5 feet 10 inches in height and built in proportion, said he was making $3 a week and his board where he was now working, and that he was saving every dollar so he could get married.

Justice Hoyt was compelled to smile and asked the boy if he had selected his future bride. The boy blushingly acknowledged that he had. Justice Hoyt let the case go over until Thursday and the boy was placed in the care of the Children's Society.

NO BAIL FOR MRS. WHITE.

Artist She Is Charged with Stabbing Likely to Die.

Owing to the serious condition of Emil Royer, an artist, who was stabbed Sunday night, Bella White, who had been living with the artist at 252 West Twenty-eighth Street, was held yesterday morning without bail for further examination this afternoon. In doing so Magistrate House refused to fix any bail, as he had been informed by Central Office Detective Flynn that the artist was likely to die.

Mrs. White, so the police say, was once wealthy and owned thoroughbreds valued at $150,000. Royer, the prisoner informed Magistrate House, is well-to-do and has a home in Hoboken. She declared that the stabbing was an accident, and that Royer slipped and fell while she was trying to wrest a knife from his hand after he had attacked her.

Magistrate House asked the detective to return to court this afternoon with a certificate from the hospital setting forth Royer's injuries and his condition.

Laddie Cliff appeared in his singing and dancing act, and the rest of the bill contained Gus Edwards's "Schoolboys and Girls," Bedini and Arthur, Conroy, Lemaire and company, Cook and Loroux, the Samroff and Sonia troupe and Leon Rogers.

THOUSANDS PRESENT AS ACTORS' FAIR ENDS

DANCE AT THE FINISH

Mr. Agnew Wins an Auto—Miss Frederick Voted Most Popular Actress and Warner Most Popular Actor.

The Actors' Fund Fair wound up last night in a blaze of glory and an evening of commercial activity, with a finale of theatrical jollity. Those who went to the Seventy-first Regiment Armory yesterday afternoon and evening went to buy or for a last look at the stage folk.

By 9 o'clock at night the floor was uncomfortably crowded, and the attendance increase until it became almost impossible to squeeze through the throng. When the theatres closed and the actors began to arrive an aisle of spectators formed around the main entrance, and each popular favorite was greeted noisily.

Outside of the large attendance, the feature of the closing evening was the ending of the various contests that have been conducted during the fair. The greatest excitement was around the blackboard where were recorded the votes for the most popular actress. The burlesque actress contest also attracted much attention, and the vote for actors received a strong impetus on the arrival of several of the contestants at a late hour.

The burlesque contest closed at 11 o'clock, with Lida Dexter Dinkins in the lead with 36,300 votes, and Florence Bennett second with 22,431. In the contest for the most popular Elk, with a gold watch as the reward, Lieut. Randolph Cook of the Seventy-first Regiment was the winner with 2,832 votes. Harry Leonhardt came second with 2,371. In the voting for the most popular manager, in which there had been much rivalry between William ("Pop") Harris and his son, Henry B. Harris, the father was declared the winner at the close.

Many Minor Prizes Won.

Some of the less important articles on which chances had been sold were raffled early in the evening. The marble bust of President Taft went to Roy Atwell, who had ticket 4. Francis Wilson received Reed's painting of Mme. Nazimova, with ticket 505.

Other winners were Alexander Morton, who got the drawing of Margaret Anglin; Mrs. Raynor, who won the picture of Mabel Taliaferro; Edith Chapman, who got an Oriental necklace valued at $500, and Mrs. F. Losee, who was awarded the silver tea set donated by Julia Arthur Cheney.

Charles Burnham, general manager of the fair, was unwilling to estimate the receipts last night. The total will not be known for several days, but it is expected that the receipts for admission alone will reach $40,000. Martin Beck reported last night that he had got $1,600 from the sale of souvenir stamps at his Orpheum Circuit theatres.

Miss Frederick the Most Popular.

Pauline Frederick won the diamond necklace and medallion as the most popular actress, with Billie Burke as a close second. Miss Frederick's vote was 18,875, while Miss Burke received 15,231.

H. B. Warner was declared the most popular actor, much to the delight of Mrs. Warner, who had been boosting his name assiduously. He received 6,308 votes, and Francis Wilson was second with 4,029. When the actress's contest closed there was much excitement around the board and Miss Frederick kissed everybody on the platform with her.

The only two other contests of consequence that were decided last night were those for the three-thousand-dollar diamond necklace and for the Buick automobile. The necklace was won by Miss Agnes Wilson of 505 West Fortieth Street and the automobile went to a Mr. Agnew, whose address was given in the book as 437 Fifth Avenue. An automobile, a motor boat, a diamond bracelet, and several other articles of value still remain to be raffled.

Some of the books in these contests had not been received up to a late hour last night, and the drawings were postponed until all the numbers were in.

At midnight auctioning off the goods left at a few of the booths was going on briskly, and the actors on the floor expected to finish their work and get rid of enough of the crowd by 1 o'clock to hold a dance.

NOT ALL WHITE MEN GUILTY.

Miss Terrell Corrects an Erroneous Interpretation of Her Address.

Mary Church Terrell, a member of the District of Columbia School Board, said yesterday she had not been correctly quoted in the report of her address before the Negro National Committee at Cooper Union on Saturday night, which attributed to her the statement that it was impossible for a colored girl to reach virtuous womanhood in domestic service in the South.

This, she declared, was what she had said in that connection:

"It is impossible for me to imagine a subject more delicate and more difficult for me to discuss than the various ways in which disfranchisement of colored men affects not only laboring colored women, but those in every other station in life. If I tell you how difficult a thing it is for colored girls to grow up into virtuous womanhood in the South, particularly those who are employed as domestics—a condition directly traceable to the disfranchisement of the men—I shall be charged by some with uttering a wholesale slander against the white men of the South. Several years ago, when I discussed this phase of the subject before the National Purity Association, nearly every newspaper in the country announced in glaring headlines next morning that I had declared no colored servant girl working in the South was safe from insult and harm at the hands of the white men of the South. I was denounced by white and black alike. If I had so far outraged truth as to make such a wholesale charge against all the white men of the South, I should have perpetrated the same injustice upon them as is so frequently inflicted upon my own race."

SMOKER SET BABY AFIRE.

Lit a Cigarette and Tossed Match in Baby Carriage While Passing.

A man passed through Madison Street, Williamsburg, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and stopped to light a cigarette. He threw the lighted match so that it fell into the carriage in which was the infant son, Joseph, of Mrs. Carrie Gilmartin of 842 Madison Street. Suddenly the carriage burst into flames. Neighbors and persons in the street set up an outcry which brought Mrs. Gilmartin running from her house.

Before her, however, was Mrs. Nellie Armstrong of 811 Madison Street, who grabbed up the child and put out the fire which had started in its clothing. Just then William Crone, Jr., of 888 Greene Avenue came along in his automobile, and the woman hailed him. He took her and the child into the machine and drove to the Bushwick Hospital.

There the surgeons found that the baby was badly burned about the face and neck, its hair and eyebrows having been singed off, but they said the child had a chance to live.

THE TURNING POINT

The most attractive proposition can be pushed to a point where it ceases to be desirable.

You may have the finest possible site, adequate funds for its improvement, and an assured handsome rental return.

But if your building costs more than it should, or is delayed in completion, the result is a depleted income.

So that if a Cost Insurance contract ensures economical cost, quality, and speedy completion, that is obviously the contract to get.

The Yankees are keeping right at it and gave the St. Louis Browns another trimming yesterday, the win placing the Hilltop team in second place in the pennant race, because Detroit ran up against a snag in Boston. The Browns took their medicine with a little more reluctance yesterday, and managed to get three runs to the Yankees' 5. O'Connor's men had a good rest over Sunday, and that St. Vitus feature of their game was missing.

It was New York's turn to be drowsy on the bases, and they trotted the paths far behind record time. Sometimes they seemed glued to the earth, and three of them were caught slumbering off the bases by Joe Lake's quick throws. Several others would have met their finish at second also, but the wild pegging of Catcher Killifer saved them from being wiped off in more than one chapter. The Yankees got nine hits, and the wildness of Lake resulted in the presentation of seven passes, yet five runs were all that could be squeezed through home.

Russell Ford did New York's pitching, and St. Louis was easy for him. A long hit by Hoffman resulted in a run in the fourth, and bunching of a couple of hits in the sixth and seventh blossomed into a run each time. He struck out eight men, Stone, the top-line batsman of the Browns, fanning three times in a row. When he faced Ford in the first inning he fouled the first slant, and it landed unceremoniously on "Silk" O'Loughlin's big toe. The game stopped. "Silk" picked up the wounded member and caressed it gently. Half a dozen ball players gathered around and told "Silk" what was the best thing to do for it. Some suggested amputation, others said to put it in front of another foul and let the ball do a good job while it was about it. When the game started, O'Loughlin had no little brush to wipe the dust off the plate. An emergency call brought a fine new whiskbroom, and "Silk" proceeded to make the vicinity of the plate look like the finish of an automobile race.

A battle with St. Louis doesn't tend to arouse the spectators to voice-racking outbursts. Occasional flashes of snappy fielding in the nine innings of ordinary baseball brought out a cheer once in a while. In the second, Griggs grounded to Austin, who tossed to Chase in the sand. Hal dug the bulb out of the scenery with one finger. Austin got Killifer's foul in the seventh over his left shoulder as he was hopping backward, and Hemphill speared Abstein's rocket in the ninth after a long romp toward the garden wall. Those were about the best fielding stunts in the game.

Austin pelted a single to right in the third, and Sweeney sacrificed him to second. Ford walked. Austin tried to steal third, and Killifer made a wild heave to Wallace, Austin scoring. Ford took a lead off second, and was an hour late getting back when Lake threw over to Abstein. Hemphill walked, and Lake became incorrigible, walking Wolter also. Chase unfurled a stinging drive along the earth to centre, scoring Hemphill and Wolter. In the next inning Roach tramped to first gratis. He stole second. Killifer threw to catch him off second, and it was another uncanny peg. Roach went to third.

Channel and Austin whiffed the breeze, and Sweeney's safe crack to short scored Roach. Ford fanned, making the third strike for Lake that inning. Danny Hoffman leaned against the ball in the fourth and it smoked all the way to the left-field fence. Hemphill got it as it bounded back from the stockade and held Danny at third. He tallied when Wallace was being tossed out at first.

With two down in the sixth Wallace elevated the ball high into left field. Austin, Channel, and Roach ran after it, all gazing upward as if looking for the comet. Nobody got it, and Wallace was at second. He scored on Griggs's single to left.

In New York's half of the sixth Laporte shot a two-bagger to centre and went to third on Lake's balk. Roach walked. Channel grounded to Hartzell, who fumbled the ball while hastening his action to make a double. He retired Roach at second, but in the meantime Laporte scored. Ford gave Schweitzer the freedom of first base in the seventh, and Hartzell fanned. Abstein lobbed one to right, and Killifer lifted a foul back of third, which Austin collared after a hard struggle, Schweitzer scoring on the throw-in.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 16.—The Giants met defeat for the fourth consecutive time at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals to-day by the score of 4 to 2.

To-day's game was the final of the series, and Manager McGraw selected Wiltse, his crack lefthander, to represent him on the mound. Vic Willis opposed him, with Phelps behind the bat, Bresnahan directing the game from the bench in citizen's clothes, the injury to his hand received in yesterday's battle forcing him to quit the game for a few days.

Bresnahan sent Elmer Zacher, the former Giant, to left field in Ellis's place because a lefthander was pitching for the Giants. The attraction drew about 4,000 faithful fans to the park in spite of the cloudy, threatening weather.

The Cardinals took the lead by scoring the first run in the second inning. They maintained a lead throughout the game, the Giants counting their only two runs in the sixth inning. In the second, with one man out, Phelps hit a two-bagger to left centre field and came home when Hauser, who followed him, duplicated his hit in the same territory.

The third round was a stand-off, and in the fourth the Cardinals tallied another run. Koney singled to right and advanced on Evans's sacrifice. He went to third on Phelps's grounder, and Phelps was tossed out by Bridwell. Hauser then singled just over Bridwell's head, and Koney scored. Murray shut off another possible run in this inning when he made a magnificent throw to Devlin, catching Hauser, who tried to reach third base on Mowrey's single.

But for good, fast playing in the fifth the Cardinals would have scored three runs instead of one. With Willis out, Huggins doubled to left. He came home on Zacher's triple to left. Doyle cut Zacher off at the plate when he tried to score off of Oakes's grounder. Oakes stole second and got to third on a bad throw by Meyers. Then Koney came to the bat, and everything looked good for another run. Devlin made a brilliant catch of his foul and retired the side.

In the sixth the New Yorkers got to Willis and picked up two runs. Devore beat out a nice bunt. Then Doyle got to first on Hauser's fumble. Both of them scored on Murray's triple to left. He tried to make it a home run, but was cut off within half a foot of the plate by Koney, who raced over and took Zacher's return. Seymour singled to right, and Bridwell followed him with another single to centre. Devlin flied out to Evans, making the second out. Merkle forced Bridwell, making the third out and ending the rally.

Luck and the wind earned the Cardinal's other run. Mowrey popped a sky ball, which the breeze carried over Doyle's head, and Mowrey took second and got credit for a two-bagger. He got to third by sliding, when Wiltse tried to nail him on Willis's sacrifice. Huggins sacrificed, and Mowrey scored on Zacher's single to centre.

WANT AUTO LAWS CHANGED.

Long Island A. C. Holds Mass Meeting to Protest Against Bills.

A mass meeting to protest against proposed legislation detrimental to the interests of motorists was held last night at the Long Island Automobile Club, in Brooklyn. Herbert T. Andrews, Chairman of the Law and Legislative Committee of the club, presided, and explained the object of the meeting and the proposed unjust legislation, as exemplified in the Callan and Cullen-Bleodgood bills.

The objectionable features of the Callan bill, which will come before the Senate to-day, is that any city, town, or hamlet is permitted to make its own traffic regulations, which will work hardships on the motorists all over the State. Regarding the Cullen bill, the protest is based on the effort to exclude from the Brooklyn Parkway between Twenty-second Avenue and Kings Highway not only all motor vehicles, but all other vehicles, including motor cycles and bicycles, except horse-drawn vehicles. Should the latter bill pass, it is stated that it takes from the motorists the only excellent highway to Coney Island.

Resolutions protesting against the bills in their present shape were passed unanimously, and every motorist present agreed to send a telegram to the Senator and Assemblyman from his district protesting against the bills.

Among those who addressed the meeting were President Allen C. Alden of the Long Island Automobile Club, Dr. Richardson, Dean of the Brooklyn Law School; A. W. Leaman, F. G. Webb, President of the New York State Automobile Association; William R. Pittman, and John H. Hart.

How Can We Best Interest You in a MORA Car?

There are cars of every name and every nature.

Glaring advertisements—pages and two pages—promise you everything that literary genius can write. If you'll pay a thousand dollars for a car, you'll get one worth four thousand, and so on.

What, then, is the REAL METHOD—the honest method—of interesting you in a car that is honest built from stem to stern in a factory of its own—and not merely assembled from parts bought everywhere, just for the purpose of making money for its investors?

We don't want to use bombastic methods to interest you in a MORA "Light Four." And we don't intend to.

We tell you plainly and frankly—that we build the Mora car—all of it. It is a MORA design through and through—the same MORA design that has become known across the continent as the embodiment of "Strenuous Reliability."

Added to this Strenuous Reliability, are such features of refinement as are naturally invested in improved 1910 models—through the possession of the most modern and up-to-date machinery.

We don't claim the MORA LIGHT FOUR to be a five thousand dollar car for $2,500—for it has never sold for five thousand.

But we DO CLAIM that it will equal in performance, in running qualities—in STANDING UP—any five thousand dollar car that is on the market—and still have some reserve force and strength to spare.

We DO CLAIM that it is as quiet running, as smooth on the road, as delightful to operate, as comfortable to ride in—as any car possibly can be—regardless of price.

Mora Light Four is $2,500

WILSON HORSES WIN THREE RACES IN DAY

Stable's Triumphs the Feature of Unusual Sport at Belmont Park Track.

It does not happen often in any turf year that a single stable sweeps three races successively, as did R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, horses at the big Belmont Park track of the Westchester Racing Association yesterday. Beginning with Naushon, a green maiden two-year-old that never before had been to the starting post, the Wilson colors swept past the winning post, swiftly leaving the field in time that fell just one second short of the track record.

The Wilson stable scored another triumph in the second event, with the splendidly bred and fast three-year-old Candleberry, the colt that ran just short of winning great stakes last season, and until he won yesterday, the best maiden of his age in the country.

The race was practically a betless contest, for the colt which was second in the 1909 Futurity, was at a prohibitive price.

After galloping behind Ashwell and Leopardstown for about the first furlong, Candleberry simply breezed out in front, leading by five lengths about the quarter, and won pulling up by ten lengths.

Onager, a frequent winner at Aqueduct for the stable which quarters the first two winners, never gave his partisans any real cause for uneasiness from the moment that the horses broke from the barrier, and won cleverly by a length and a half from Danger Mark.

In a message from Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, it was announced that the most valuable race of the South American turf had been won by one of James R. Keene's Castleton bred colts, by Voter-Half Crown. The summaries:

CLOSE SCORE AT POLO.

Cooperstown Wins Opening Game at Country Club of Westchester.

The annual Spring polo tournament of the Country Club of Westchester began yesterday on the club grounds at Westchester. Sturges Would Prevent Hill Climb.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 16.—Frederick Sturges, brother-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, has retained a lawyer in an effort to prevent the hill-climbing contest of the Bridgeport automibilists at Snake Hill. The committee has spent much money in getting the hill into shape.

TEX RICKARD TO REFEREE BIG FIGHT

Jack Johnson Forces Jeffries's Manager to Accept "Compromise" Candidate.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Texas Rickard, associated with Jack Gleason in the promotion of the Jeffries and Johnson contest, and who came into prominence four years ago when he engineered the Gans and Nelson fight at Goldfield, Nev., to-day was selected to referee the fight between the two heavyweights on July 4 at Emeryville. In accepting the place, however, the Nevada promoter made it clear that he would step aside if Jeffries and Johnson agreed on another man.

This settlement came when it looked as if the meeting to select a referee would end in another deadlock and after bitter words had passed between Johnson and Sam Berger, Jeffries's manager.

Johnson first suggested Rickard, but Berger refused to consider the Nevada man, saying he would not accept him on account of his inexperience. The colored champion declared he would stand pat on the three men he had mentioned—Jack Welch, Eddie Graney, and Rickard. Berger indignantly replied that he would leave the meeting. Then there came a further clash between Berger and Johnson, and ugly words were used by Berger and threats were made by Johnson. Berger stood up, as if to leave.

"So you want Rickard, do you?" he queried of Johnson.

"Yes," came the answer.

"Well, all right," replied Berger; and the crowd broke into a cheer as it realized that one of the difficult points had been settled.

Rickard made the following statement: "To straighten out this affair, I am willing to act, provided my name is agreeable to all concerned. I don't want to act, and I hope that before the fight takes place Jeffries and Johnson will agree on another man. If they can come to terms, I am perfectly willing to step down and out. But if they can reach no other agreement, I will not back down."

In spite of the agreement, there is a feeling of mistrust among those who attended the session that the last word has not been said and that the referee question again must be taken up.

It was rumored to-night that, to give the impression everything is in working order, Rickard was named until the contestants could look the field over. Berger during the negotiations lost his head and missed many a chance to score a telling point. From the start he showed his temper. Toward the close it looked for a time as if there would be a free-for-all fight.

Two New Tufts Athletic Records.

MEDFORD, Mass., May 16.—The annual interclass track meet to-day at Tufts, won by the senior class, was made conspicuous by the breaking of two records. Ralph W. Atwater, '13, of Somerville, reduced the time for the two-mile run from 10:48 to 10:26 1-5. The record for the discus throw was broken by its holder, James E. Douglas, '10, of Hull, who increased the distance from 105½ to 114.4.

WOMAN TO DRIVE AUTO TO FRISCO

Miss Scott, with Miss Phillips as Only Companion, Starts on Long Trip.

With the object of demonstrating the possibility of a woman driving a motor car across the country and making all the necessary repairs en route, Miss Blanche Stuart Scott yesterday started in an Overland automobile on a transcontinental journey which will end in San Francisco. Miss Scott will be accompanied on her trip by Miss Phillips, who will be her only companion, and expects to complete the journey entirely upon her own resources.

The start was made from the Hotel Cumberland with an escort of forty cars. The party drove down Broadway to Times Square, up Forty-second Street to Fifth Avenue, to Fifty-seventh Street, and up Broadway to Riverside Drive, and thence to the Claremont Inn, where Miss Scott and a number of friends were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Gertrude Hohlman of Rochester. Miss Scott left her escort at the latter place, and with Miss Phillips continued the journey to Poughkeepsie, which was the first day's stop.

Miss Scott will not attempt to break any records, but will proceed in a leisurely way, with the object of making the trip an educational one. Miss Scott is capable of taking care of the necessary adjustments and emergencies, and enjoys the work which the operation of an automobile makes necessary. The woman pilot and her companion are equipped with the latest automobile clothing, while he car is painted white, with the lettering "Overland" on it.

Miss Scott carries a letter from Mayor Gaynor to Mayor McCarthy of San Francisco. The itinerary of the trip has been laid out to pass as many cities and towns as possible, but at certain sections of the journey the two women will have to rough it and depend almost entirely upon their own resources.

Wykagyl Wants "Pro" Tourney.

Matters pertaining to the next championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association came before a meeting held in this city yesterday. A tentative offer was received from the Wykagyl Country Club, through Alec Smith, who said that Wykagyl would willingly give its course and in all probability subscribe a purse of $300. It was voted to defer final action as to links and date until the annual meeting, which will be held the first Monday in June. In accordance with custom, a Nominating Committee was appointed. This committee, consisting of Jack Hobens, Jack Jones, and George Low, will select a ticket to be presented for the approval of the members at the annual meeting. Two new members were elected—George Fernie, the recent importation from Troon, Scotland, who is now at the Richmond County Country Club, and Joe Mitchell, the homebred, connected with the Upper Montclair Country Club.

The LOZIER Still Holds the World's 24-Hour Stock Car Competition Record of 1196 Miles Made at Brighton Beach in October, 1909

Notwithstanding the fact that the recent 24-hour race was not held under Stock Car rules, (contestants being permitted to race with any size, style or horse-power of car, or to make any changes, additions and alterations in Stock Cars at will,) the LOZIER Stock Car record of 1196 miles still remains unbroken.

In the LOZIER record-breaking race of October, 1909, the winning LOZIER made 1196 miles, and another LOZIER car finished in second place, making 1169 miles. The winner of the recent 24-hour race made only 1145 miles, and therefore failed to reach the mileage attained by either of the LOZIER cars in the great 24-hour LOZIER Record Race of last year.

In the great Brighton Beach Race, September, 1908, LOZIER cars also finished first and second, both exceeding previous world's record. These two great double LOZIER victories of 1908 and 1909 have no parallel in the history of automobile racing.

LOZIER Stock Cars have seven times defeated previous 24-hour World's Records—no other car more than once. The LOZIER car has broken more 24-hour records and defeated more famous cars in long distance events than any other car in the world, and to-day its claim of being the greatest long distance Stock Car in the world remains undisputed.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

READING'S RISE A FEATURE

Holiday on Foreign Markets Restricts Business Here—Money Conditions Easing in Western Centres.

The chief foreign financial markets were closed yesterday, in observance of the holiday, and this fact, no doubt, had much to do with the dullness and relatively quiet movement of prices on the Stock Exchange here. The only features to the day's business were the more or less temporary advances in Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Reading, and one or two additional issues which appeared to attract some professional following, in spite of the lack of incentive to activity of any kind in these shares or elsewhere in the day's news. At the close quotations, as a rule, were very little changed from the final levels of Saturday noon. Among matters more or less discussed in connection with the market were the failure of the Philadelphia bond offering, the appointment of receivers for the Hocking Valley, and the excellent reports from many sections of the wheat country. As regards the Philadelphia bond offering, that city attempted to float a 4 per cent. issue, in spite of the fact that New York had recently found it necessary to advance the yield of its bonds beyond that figure. Failure was bound to result, for the reason that, as has been pointed out many times, the supply of low-interest-bearing bonds is entirely adequate at the moment to the demand for such securities from those who prefer absolute safety to large return, while the higher cost of living is at the same time driving money into channels where increased income may be obtained. Presumably Philadelphia will now recognize the facts in the situation and raise the interest rate, in which event there should be no difficulty in securing funds. The Hocking Valley receivership is simply a part of a long-drawn-out contest between minority interests in this property and those in control of it, and therefore has no direct bearing upon the railroad situation as a whole. It received more attention yesterday in the financial district than it deserved in one way, perhaps for the reason that matters of more vital interest were wanting. Grain markets reflected in substantial declines the improved weather conditions over a large part of the agricultural regions, and this in spite of the fact that wide circulation was given to a Chicago report that the gentleman who has long been notorious for his operations in wheat had put under way "upon an almost unprecedented scale" a campaign in September wheat. Excellent advices as to growing conditions were also effective on the Cotton Exchange in checking an early rise in prices there.

As was to be expected following Saturday's good bank statement, rates for money continued easy, with evidences of rather larger offerings on the part of lenders. Chicago appears to have gained a very easy position, and is not only buying commercial paper in some volume, but also putting out money in this market. Under these circumstances, it will not be surprising if further increases in cash holdings are secured by the local banks during the current week.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—The traction stocks were given a whirl to-day, and before noon both Rapid Transit and Union Traction were up a point apiece, Rapid crossing 20 with apparent ease and Union going above 49. Ostensibly the reason given for the sudden awakening in these issues was the expectation of a final Supreme Court decision on the fare question in favor of the company, but it is more likely that the buoyancy was attributable to the frightening to cover of a more or less extensive short interest, which has been gradually accumulating, particularly in Philadelphia Rapid Transit, ever since the strike began. Most of the morning's advance in both issues was retained to the close.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

UNITED COPPER APPEARS

Preferred Shares, Again Subject of Queer Offer, Sell 300 Up to 30—Small Gains in Coppers.

As on the Stock Exchange, trading on the Curb yesterday was in small volume. Price movements were for the most part narrow, and there were a few small gains and losses at the close. United Copper preferred, which was the subject of another inexplicable circular offer of exchange for Anaconda shares, sent out by the Heinze's Western Development Company, sold 300 sares yesterday after its long absence from the Curb market. The price ranged between 25 and 30, the close being at 29, which was 1 point above the opening. It sold 100 shares last week at 21. Among the coppers to make gains were Ray Central, which advanced from 19 to 19⅝, and British Columbia and Giroux, each of which closed ⅛ above the opening levels. Chino Copper, Greene-Cananea, and Ohio each made trifling losses. The principal Cobalt issues made small gains.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

Three prominent stocks—Reading, United States Steel common, and Union Pacific—all touched high prices for the day on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, which were ⅛ of a point above the top figures reached on the New York Stock Exchange. This relative strength was due, however, more to professional upbidding than to any extended public buying movement. The market, in fact, was limited in scope most of the day, and sold off easily toward the close. Sales of all stocks were 67,200 shares, with the list including forty-nine different securities.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Philadelphia Bond Issue Fails.

New York bankers were inclined to look upon the failure yesterday of the Philadelphia $8,000,000 4 per cent. bond issue as largely the result of the present condition of the municipal bond market generally, although the fact that Philadelphia has in late years put out bonds more frequently than in previous years is said to have something to do with the failure of this issue. New York houses seldom take issues of Philadelphia bonds, as these bonds usually find their best market among the customers of Philadelphia houses, to whom the tax exemption clause in the bonds appeals with special force. In connection with the failure of this issue the point was made yesterday that one fact which has a bearing on the matter is that the houses which have felt most keenly the recent depression in the bond market are those which handle municipal issues, and these houses, therefore, are not as much disposed as usual to bid on such issues.

Western Land Speculation.

The demands made upon interior banks in connection with the land speculation in the Middle West and in some other sections have not yet, the officer of one large New York City bank said yesterday, been reflected to any extent in the position of banks in this city. Directly, he said, very few banks which have been making advances in connection with the farm purchasing now going on have applied to the banks in this city for loans. Such loans as the banks in the interior have made because of this demand for farm mortgages have been made, he said, with the banks at the large cities in the interior like Chicago and St. Louis. It can hardly be said, this banker explained, that the New York City banks have attempted to discourage this land speculation for the reason that the banks in this city have not been brought in close enough touch with this land speculation to be in a position to influence it much one way or the other. It is next Fall that bankers here believe the banks in New York City will principally feel the effect of the tying up of money in farms purchased at high prices. The result, it is said, may be that when the crop demands assume large proportions in the Fall the interior banks will be less able than usual to care for the crops and will then have to look to the New York banks.

One Reason for Clark Mine Sale.

The suggestion is heard in the financial district that one influence which had something to do with the decision of Senator Clark to sell out his Montana copper properties to the Amalgamated Copper Company was the possibility that he might become involved with the Amalgamated in long drawn out litigation. The Amalgamated had already questioned the Senator's right to the ore in part of the property which he has now sold, and he is said to have been anxious to avoid a fight in the courts, which would have given him inconvenience possibly for years to come no matter how the matter might be finally adjusted. Senator Clark has had many fights over his copper properties, and he has the reputation of never having shrunk from the contest when any one questioned his mining rights. He is said, however, not to have relished any further contention over his Butte properties and to have preferred to dispose of them at a good price now than to hold them with the possibility of having to defend his title to part of the ground, ownership of which he claimed.

Effect of Foreign Holiday.

Some of the dullness of yesterday's market was blamed on the Whitsuntide holiday abroad, but the extreme sluggishness which lasted during the first four hours of the session was somewhat overcome in the late trading, with a weakening effect on prices which had previously held strong, by the news of the Hocking Valley receivership. Edwin Hawley's policy of consolidation which the court action holds up has been about the only comprehensive railway deal on which the traders' imaginations have had to play since Mr. Harriman's death.

Larger Wheat Exports.

This country appears second in the list of wheat exporting countries in the figures compiled for the world's wheat movement of last week. The total exports from the United States of 2,934,000 bushels make one of the largest totals so far this year, exceeding the preceding week by more than 1,000,000 bushels and topping the corresponding week last year by 1,700,000 bushels. Russia, the figures show, retains her lead as the largest exporter of wheat.

NEW UNITED COPPER OFFER.

Preferred Shareholders Asked to Exchange Holdings for Anaconda Stock.

Stockholders of the preferred shares of the United Copper Company who have several times been puzzled by strange offers from the Heinze interests, usually with a string to them, to exchange their stock, are in receipt of a new proposal from the Western Development Company. This concern was organized at the time of the failure of Otto Heinze & Co. to gather the fag ends of the Heinze stocks into a holding company with the hope that creditors would accept its shares in settlement of claims. Few accepted.

A short time ago United Copper preferred stockholders received circulars from the Western Development Company asking them if they would accept an offer to exchange their shares for stock of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company. No pledge was given that real Anaconda stock would be forthcoming should the offer be accepted. The new circular repeats the offer, and makes a definite pledge in the following terms:

> The undersigned hereby agrees to deliver to you on or before July 31, 1910, for each share of United Copper preferred stock which you may purchase in good faith during the next ten days the same number of shares of the capital stock of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, you notifying the undersigned in writing of the number of shares of preferred stock purchased, and that you agree to make the exchange and thus accept the offer of the undersigned.

The circular is signed by "The Western Development Company, per Calvin Geer, V. P."

Skeptical recipients of the circular yesterday pointed to the fact that the offer involves the purchase of United Copper preferrred shares. This issued sold yesterday up to 30, and 300 shares appeared on the Curb. Last week 100 shares sold at 21.

Anaconda interests are positive in their repudiations of any part in the offer.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Trading on the local Stock Exchange to-day developed weakness in several of the leading issues. Chicago Telephone, People's Gas, and McCrum-Howell shares were all lower. Metropolitan preferred took an upward spurt, and there was some trading in South Side Elevated at steady prices.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Lower on Good Rains—Corn and Oats Firm—Provisions Dull and Easier—Cotton Irregular.

The drought in American and Canadian Northwest was generally relieved by heavy rains over Sunday, and there were also good rains all along the plateau region south through Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas east to the Mississippi. Predictions were for more rains, and the question of dry weather, excepting in limited areas, appears to have been entirely removed for the time being. There were no cables, but the English statistics showed liberal world's exports. The market opened down, and Spring wheat markets were quite weak all day under the influence of the favorable weather conditions. The Western markets were irregular, however, and Chicago showed quick rallies from declines due to apprehension of manipulation, both in the May and in the later deliveries. The congestion in the May prevents pressure of cash wheat on the market, and the bull speculation in the July and September has been so successful so far in running in the shorts that the trade, while bearishly inclined, is apprehensive and afraid to sell. There were some crop complaints, but they were scattered. The visible supply showed a decrease, as expected, the reduction being 1,712,000 bushels. The total United States visible is now 22,872,000 bushels. There was no export interest reported. Cash wheat is irregular, with the situation mixed by the Chicago manipulation and its effect on all the interior markets. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.16 nominal; No. 2 red spot nominal, $1.18¼ free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.21 nominal; No. 2 hard Winter nominal; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.06¼.

Corn was very steady most of the day. The rains, which were a bearish factor in wheat, had a bullish influence on corn. The cold, wet weather delays field work, and is unfavorable for the germination and growth of the already planted corn. Cash corn is firm, and there was a decrease of 1,520,000 bushels in the visible supply. The close was steady. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 70c asked, elevator, domestic basis, and steamer nominal.

Oats were also very steady and quite active. Although there were good rains in the big oats sections of the Northwest and in a number of oats sections in the region west of the Mississippi, still there are a good many crop complaints, and the market showed considerable buying power and strength. The visible supply also showed a decrease of 842,000 bushels. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 46@48½c, and white clipped, 47@52½c.

The provision market was quiet, and quite a little easier. There seemed to be some selling on the somewhat larger receipts of hogs than expected and on a general decline in live hog prices, but there was no pressure of any pronounced character.

COTTON.

In cotton the trade was active right after the opening, with prices showing a quick decline at the start. Following this there was a recovery to just a little above the final of Saturday, and the balance of the day trade was slow, with a very steady tone. The early weakness seemed to be due to the reports of rains over a large portion of the cotton belt, but while the rains have removed a great deal of the apprehension over the dry weather, the temperature were rather low, and it was feared that the cold rain would do more harm than the previous dry weather. There were a great many conflicting reports from the South, but not more than usual. The same towns send absolutely opposite statements as to the situation. The movement of cotton this way continues liberal, and the stocks of certificated cotton are slowly increasing, although the total warehouse stock has been decreased slightly. It is expected that there will be a good deal of cotton arrive here in the next two weeks. The withdrawals from store continue large. The trade reports for the day were a little more encouraging, but there has seemed to be doubt as to whether these arise from real increase in the demand or as a result of the advance in the future market. The statement was again made that the Chicago bull interest had very greatly reduced its holdings of cotton.

COFFEE.

Coffee was again dull, total sales amounting to only 8,500 bags, and prices were about steady at unchanged to 5 points below the final of last week. The European markets were again closed for further celebration of the Whitsuntide holidays and the Brazilian markets were unchanged. Receipts at Rio and Santos were 9,000 bags, against 11,000 bags last week and 9,000 bags last year. Warehouse deliveries at United States ports last week were 51,476 bags, against 33,735 bags the previous week and 72,398 bags for the corresponding week last year. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States is 3,078,592 bags, against 3,524,152 bags last year and 3,491,415 bags two years ago. Spot coffee dull; Rio No. 7, 8¼@8⅜c.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 16.—The local market opened strong and prices during the final hour made some further advance. There appeared to be considerable profit taking in evidence, and the general trading became dull. Among the issues active in the day's trading were Amalgamated, North Butte, Lake, North Lake, and Indiana, all of which show a slight loss at the close to-night.

SUGAR CO. OFFICIALS ON TRIAL

Secretary Heike of the Trust Accused of Conspiracy in Import Frauds.

Charles R. Heike, Secretary and Treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Company, whose immunity plea the United States Supreme Court recently rejected, was put on trial yesterday before Judge Martin and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Government in connection with the importation of sugar on the piers of the Havemeyer & Elder refinery in Williamsburg.

As co-defendants with Heike are Ernest W. Gerbracht, former Superintendent of the Williamsburg Refinery; James F. Bendernagel, former cashier of that plant; Harry Walker, former Assistant Superintendent of Piers there, and two former checkers, James F. Halligan, Jr., and Jean M. Voelker, who worked with the Government weighers.

Bendernagel was tried last Fall on a similar charge at the time when Spitzer, the pier boss at Williamsburg, and four checkers were convicted. Voelker was under indictment at that time, but escaped trial by reason of sickness. The other defendants now on trial were indicted subsequent to the trials of last Fall. The Government is represented by former United States Attorney Henry L. Stimson, Winfred Denison, and Felix Frankfurter, and the defense by an array of lawyers headed by John B. Stanchfield and including Clarence Lexow, Henry F. Cochrane, George MacKallar, and George C. Graham.

Yesterday's session was devoted to filling the jury box with talesmen and then proceeding to weed them out after an examination for bias. The work of drawing a jury will continue this morning.

CORPORATION TAX DELAY.

Some Concerns Not Yet Notified What They Owe the Government.

Although many of the corporations here have already sent their certified checks for the amount of the corporation tax levied by the Government, there are still several hundred large concerns which have not as yet been notified as to the amount due from each. This delay in sending out all the notices of assessment has been occasioned by the enormous amount of work incident to the compilation, listing, and copying of the assessment orders, which has fallen on the force of men under Collector of Internal Revenue Anderson.

June 30 is the last day on which corporations can pay the tax without becoming delinquent. Within a week or ten days all the assessment notices which are still to be sent out will reach their destinations, and this will give the corporations which have not paid up plenty of time to get their checks or cash in before the last of June.

There are some 15,000 corporations in this district which come under the requirements of the corporation tax law, and the amount of revenue which will be derived by the Government from this district is estimated at $3,500,000.

NORTH CAROLINA BOND ISSUE.

Holders of Repudiated Securities Object to New Listing on Stock Exchange

Ex-Secretary of the Treasury John G. Carlisle, L. E. Whicher, and H. H. Melville, acting as a committee for the holders of repudiated "reconstruction" bonds of North Carolina, addressed a strong protest to Secretary Ely of the Stock Exchange yesterday against the listing of a new bond issue of the State amounting to $3,430,000.

North Carolina, like a number of the Southern Stte, has repudiated bonds issued during the period immediately following the civil war, and the Carlisle committee, which represents an issue of "special tax bonds" authorized by the North Carolina Legislature in 1869 for railroad construction purposes, has been trying for years to get back some of the money lent to the State.

The letter to the Stock Exchange goes into the history of North Carolina's dishonored debt, which was largely unloaded on investors in New York through sales on the Stock Exchange at the time, and concludes:

> It seems incredible that a State which is occupying the attitude of North Carolina toward its bondholders should now renew its offer of the same pladge of faith and the same great seal which it has totally condemned. Certainly it should not be aided by the Stock Exchange in such a renewed attempt to impose on the credulity of investors.

No intimation was given at the Stock Exchange as to when a reply would be made to the committee.

DE ORO DEFEATS HUESTON WITH CUE

Champion Loses First Night's Play for Three-Carrom Billiard Title.

In one of the most brilliant three-cushion-carrom billiard matches played in this city in many a day, Alfred De Oro, one-time holder of the professional title, defeated Thomas Hueston of St. Louis, the present champion, in the first third of a string of 150 points for the championship of the world last night at Doyle's Billiard Academy, on West Forty-second Street, the score being 50 to 41. The Cuban never was seen to better advantage. His stroke was perfect, and he negotiated some of the most difficult shots in startling manner. Hueston, too, played a brilliant game, and perhaps outclassed De Oro in sensational shots, but he could not cut down the advantage which the former champion gained during the early stages of the match. The match will continue to-night and to-morrow.

In Hueston, De Oro was playing an opponent who had already wrested the world's title from Fred Eames about two months ago at Denver, and it was during the Winter that Eames had beaten De Oro for the championship rather easily in this city at McGraw's Billiard Academy. At that time De Oro, then champion, was decidedly off his game and could not get his stroke working to suit himself or friends.

It was the direct opposite last night. He started with confidence that indicated defeat for the champion, Hueston, although for the first few innings Hueston was able to maintain a slight advantage. What the game was is best illustrated by the fact that it took De Oro but sixty innings to run out his string of fifty points, which gave him an average of nearly one for the three-cushion game. The entire match took but an hour and a half, and in that time the opponents scored ninety-one points, which shows that the counting was rapid.

One reason for the speed of the match was that neither player tried often for safeties. Hueston did the greater part of this work, but it did not avail him much, for De Oro on a number of occasions brought a carrom out of an apparently impossible line-up. Hueston was probably the most surprised person in the room when such counts were made.

Hueston played the more deliberate game, studying his position with great care before attempting a carrom, and many times he would start to play a shot one way and then when every one was watching intently switch to an entirely different method of negotiating the point.

The highest run was made by De Oro in the seventh inning, when he made a cluster of six, which showed a wonderful knowledge of the game. His seventh shot was missed by just a hair's breadth. The best that Hueston could gather was a string of four, which he brought together in the sixth inning. In the twenty-third inning De Oro made another good run, this time with the total at five.

Hueston started off well, winning the break and scoring two. A few innings later he amassed his run of four, making his total six, with De Oro only having half that number. Hueston held the advantage until the thirteenth inning, when De Oro went to the front only to be passed a few innings later by the champion. The Cuban regained the lead in the twenty-third inning, however, and from then on was always in front. Hueston was never far behind, eight being the greatest difference between the two until the final inning, when De Oro ran out his string with the difference then nine points. Several times Hueston drew up close to his opponent but could not come on even terms.

Quote Taft in Baseball Decision.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—President Taft's recent utterance that baseball is a "clean, straight game" is quoted in the official promulgation by the National Commission to-day of its decision fining Manager Chance of the Chicago Nationals and Players Tinker and Hofman for rowdyism at Columbus on April 10. The commission condemned Chance's action in switching his players, saying:

"There never was a case in which a manager intent on winning a game and giving spectators a square deal ever assigned pitchers to infield duty and a catcher to pitch."

The claim of the Houston, Texas, Baseball Club against the Brooklyn management for $1,000 for Player Blakeley was allowed.

Labor Men Boycott Baseball Clubs.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A boycott is cutting down to a slight extent the attendance upon the Washington-Cleveland series of ball games now being played here. About 200 men, it is said, members of local labor unions, were turned back near the gate Saturday by pickets who had been established there to intercept any union men who might be on their way to see the game. The grievance consists of the alleged fact that the owners of the Cleveland Club employed non-union labor in the construction of their new ball park in that city.

Wagner Has Injured Shoulder.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 16.—Capt. Fred Clarke of the Pittsburg team to-night issued a statement as to the cause and extent of Hans Wagner's injuries, which, he said, was warranted by many rumors and false reports in the matter. "In the last game here with Brooklyn," said Clarke, "Wagner slid into third base, and his shoulder came into contact with McElveen's foot. The top of the shoulder was bruised and the hurt is a painful one. A slight cold aggravated the soreness, and stiffened the muscles. Wagner wanted to lay off fearing he would not do himself justice, but I prevailed upon to remain at his post. Then he and Miller's exchanged positions to make Wagner's work lighter."

Aronson Out of Harvard Nine.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—Announcement that R. H. Aronson, Harvard's heavy-hitting centre fielder, whose ankle was injured in the game with Princeton Saturday, would probably be unable to play again this season, was made by the Harvard athletic authorities to-day. His loss will be a severe blow to the nine. Either H. De Windt, '12, of Winnetka, Ill., or H. A. Rogers, '11, of South Braintree, both of whom were taken to the first squad from the second to-day, will fill the vacancy. Aronson is a senior, and Saturday's accident probably closed his college baseball career.

Kubiak and Langford in Ring.

There will be plenty of action—the quick kind—when Sam Langford faces Al Kubiak to-night at the Fairmont A. C. in a ten-round contest. Kubiak is sure that the bout will go the limit, and if, as Langford says, it is to end before the thirty minutes, Kubiak maintains that he will be the man on his feet. Langford will prove to-night that he is always trying. He proposes to sail in from the tap of the bell. An excellent card of preliminaries will precede the big fight.

Pawling School Nine Shut Out.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 16.—In a pitcher's battle the Yale Freshmen shut out Pawling School, 5 to 0, this afternoon. Peck and Newberry were both on their mettle. Starkweather played cleverly at short stop for the Freshmen, and McCreery's batting was a feature. Score:

Batteries—Peck and Mansell; Newberry, Dyer, and Tilney.

Villanova vs. Manhattan To-day.

The Manhattan College baseball team will play Villanova at McNulty Field this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Sweeney, who played with Manhattan last year, is now with the Villanova nine.

Taft Sees Tennis Match.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Taft to-day, before playing golf, was an interested spectator at the third annual invitation tennis tournament of the Chevy Chase Club. He witnessed the match between Spencer Gordon of Washington and William Hackett, a former Harvard captain, the last named winning the men's singles by a score of 6—1, 6—3. There were twenty-five matches to-day in men's singles. H. E. Doyle of Washington was beaten by G. F. Touchard of New York, 6—1, 6—0.

Goodman and Dorman at Lehigh A. C.

Jack Dorman and Danny Goodman will be the star performers at the Lehigh A. C., 169th Street and Boston Road, Bronx, on Friday night. This looks like one of the best bouts of the week. Dorman made a favorable showing with Jack Goodman two weeks ago. Goodman knocked out Tommy Stagg in six rounds, something that never had been done before to Stagg. In the semi-final of six rounds Young Ahearn meets Joe Hurley.

MADDEN BADLY BEATEN.

Burns Lands at Will and Has Opponent All but Out.

Frankie Burns, the California lightweight, made his first New York appearance last night at the Olympic Athletic Club and was an easy winner in the star bout of ten rounds with Frankie Madden. It was one of the best exhibitions seen here in a long time, Madden showing gameness to the last when he was all but knocked out. Burns had his opponent beaten after the first round in decisive manner. The Californian used a clever left hand jab throughout the first seven rounds, hardly ever swinging his right.

Madden started in by carrying the fight to Burns, but was met with the unavoidable jab and was completely bewildered at the tactics of his shifty opponent. Burns did nothing but play for the local man's face, and before the second round was out had his left eye puffed and bleeding. In the opening of this round Madden made the same mad rush at the Californian, and tried hard to mix it, but the latter was too clever and avoided all the attempts by standing off and jabbing at will on Madden's nose and eyes.

Throughout the entire bout the New Yorker did not land more than a dozen good blows, the best one being in the third round when he sent a stiff left to the stomach, but Burns was quick to retaliate and jabbed back, landing three times in succession. Madden was furious, and when the eighth round was started it was evident that Burns had his man fully sized up, and he continued on with the same manner of work, only using his right a little more than in the earlier rounds. He met Madden with a hard left that sent him across the ring, where he landed on the ropes. In the opening of the final round the local man was sent to the floor for the count of nine by a left-hand jab followed by a hard right. When Madden arose he was decidedly groggy, but despite this Burns could not put him out.

In the semi-final bout O'Donnell had the better of Joe Palmer.

Lincoln Stadler, Avoca Lodge Polo Pony Farm, and the Colorado Polo Pony Company.

Beaurepaire May Visit America.

Secretary James E. Sullivan of the Amateur Athletic Union is in receipt of a letter from R. M. Collins, manager of Frank E. Beaurepaire, the well-known champion swimmer of Australia, who has been performing so meritoriously in England in various amateur events, in which Mr. Beaurepaire expresses a desire to visit the United States and race with Charles M. Daniels and other American swimmers. His engagements abroad will end about the last of September and it is his intention, if the crack swimming clubs want him to come over, to visit this country some time in October.

Moore and Kline Cue Victors.

George Moore, the champion three-cushion carrom billiard player of Greater New York, who is meeting all comers at McGraw's Billiard Academy, Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue, defeated C. H. Beyers last night by the score of 30 to 15 in fifty innings.

In the practice game last night at Maurice Daly's Billiard Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, Harry Kline defeated W. F. Lally by the score of 200 to 98.

POLICE AT MARATHON CLUB.

Arrests Made for Show Two Weeks Ago, but Boxing Goes On.

As Johnny Dunn, the well-known announcer put it, "owing to a mandate of the law executed by the minions of the law" the ten-round bout between Jimmy Clabby and Mike (Twin) Sullivan, scheduled by the Marathon A. C. of Brooklyn last night, did not take place. The "mandate" which Johnny nad reference to was a series of warrants which had been issued on Grand Jury indictments against certain members of the club and the fighters who furnished the star bout of the club's show two weeks ago. Inspector Hawkins with a squad of policemen visited the club last night to serve the warrants, but the boxing which was staged while tha police were present was not in any way interferred with.

Warrants were issued for Jack (Twin) Sullivan and Benedict, the fighters, for engaging in a prizefight; Tommy West, Billy Madden, Referee Harry Neumer, and four other principal members of the club for aiding and abetting. It was announced from the stage last night that the club intended to make a test case of the affair, but until it was settled no shows would be scheduled.

The work of the Grand Jury had become noised about early in the evening, so there were very few "fans" in Clermont Avenue Rink for the show which the management had provided. Clabby was on hand to box Sullivan, but as the latter's brother was one of those involved in the legal mix-up, it was assumed that the Sullivan twins decided to give the club a wide berth.

It looked like old times to see policemen stationed all about the interior of the rink, and the most of them seemed to enjoy the bouts, though they were of rather poor quality.

Young Terry and Harry Phillips furnished the ten-round star bout, but the go was a rather poor one, with Terry as the winner. Three preliminaries made up the show.

WRESTLER ROLLER INJURED.

Zbyszko Wins Bout When His Opponent's Shoulder Is Hurt.

BUFFALO, May 16.—Stanislaus Zbysko, the Polish wrestler, and a candidate for Frank Gotch's title as champion, to-night defeated Dr. Roller of Seattle in a finish match. Roller's left shoulder was badly wrenched when the Pole slammed him to the mat for the first fall. It was announced that Dr. Roller was returning to the ring for the second bout against the advice of his seconds, and when he reappeared it was seen that his left arm hung helplessly by his side. Zbysko quickly got behind his man, and when he began working upon the injured arm, Dr. Roller's seconds threw up the sponge. The time for the first fall was 1:05:40, and for the second 1:40.

Zybysko Wrestles Here To-night.

Johnny Dunn will hold a wrestling show at the Clermont Avenue Rink to-night, the principal feature of which will be Zybysko, who engages to throw Kara Achmet and Kondrak, the Lithuanian giant, inside the hour.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Although Provided for Specifically, Lantern Slides Enter as "Toys."

In sustaining a claim filed by George Borgfeldt & Co., the Board of United States General Appraisers has handed down a decision regarding the classification of magic lantern slides, which is likely to have a widespread bearing on the importation of toys and their parts. On its face the decision appears innocent enough, but persons interested in the entry of foreign merchandise yesterday hailed the decision as one whose precedent will effect materially the entry of toys and their parts in favor of the importer.

The decision, which is written by General Appraiser Sharretts, is unusually sweeping in its interpretation of tariff law if the construction placed upon the decision yesterday by influential importing interests are to be taken seriously. The principle laid down apparently by the General Appraiser is that although provided for specifically by name in the tariff of 1909, if the merchandise in character is a toy or part of a toy Paragraph 431 relating to toys and their parts will prevail.

The effect of such ruling as is made in the Borgfeldt case referred to above is that any article provided for by name in the present tariff at a higher rate of duty, if it is a toy, or part of a toy, will pay the lower rate of 35 per cent. named in Paragraph 431. The ruling, it was said yesterday, while entirely satisfactory to the importing interests, will probably be opposed strenuously by both the American manufacturers and the Treasury Department. The fact that competition between foreigners and the domestic makers of toys and their parts is already pretty keen renders it certain that this issue will come on appeal before the new Customs Court, and possibly before the United States Supreme Court.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Construction Co. Buys Plot in Times Square Section for Twelve-Story Hotel—Haviland & Co.'s Purchase—Dwellings Give Way to Lofts.

An important transaction in the Times Square section that foreshadows the erection of a twelve-story hotel was announced yesterday by John P. Kirwan, who sold for Patrick J. McMahon 65, 67, and 69 West Forty-sixth Street, three four-story and basement high-stoop dwellings, on a plot 56.3 by 100.5.

The John J. Hearn Construction Company, of which John J. Hearn is President, purchased the plot, and it was reported on excellent authority that the buyers intend to raze the old buildings and break ground at an early date for a modern twelve-story hotel of unique design and construction.

Haviland & Co. Buy Big Plot.

The most interesting feature in the sale of the Hoe house, at 11 East Thirty-sixth Street, reported last week, lies in the fact that it forecasts the removal at an early date of the old-established crockery firm of Haviland & Co. from the centre of the crockery trade district to the new retail and business centre uptown. Haviland & Co. have been located at 45 Barclay Street for forty years.

In addition to securing the Hoe house, the completion of the deal, which was negotiated by Frederick Fox & Co., was announced yesterday by the sale to the same firm of the old Robert Winthrop private home, at 10 East Thirty-seventh Street, directly in the rear of the Hoe place.

It occupies a plot 24 by 98.9, and, with the fifty-foot frontage on Thirty-sixth Street of the Hoe house, the firm controls a plot of about 7,500 square feet, which will be immediately improved with an artistic commercial building, to be used exclusively as offices and salesrooms for the Haviland china business.

Dwellings Give Way to Lofts.

The Rexton Realty Company has sold through I. B. Wakeman 182 and 184 West Twenty-first Street, two three-story dwellings, on plot 40 by 92, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. The purchaser is the Gueron Building Company, which will begin immediately the erection of a twelve-story mercantile building.

This will mark the first business building operation in the block, which is at present improved with old-style three and four story dwellings. The Lincoln Holding Company some weeks ago accumulated a plot 100 by 100 at 133 to 141, and will in the near future improve it with twelve-story lofts.

Hotel Sturtevant Reported Sold.

The Five Boroughs Realty Company has practically concluded negotiations for the sale of the Hotel Sturtevant, a six-story structure at 145 to 151 West Thirty-fifth Street, on plot 66.8 by 98.9, adjoining the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue.

Through M. & L. Hess a twenty-one years' lease of 433 Fifth Avenue, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth Streets, a plot 25 by 125, has been taken at an aggregate rental of $750,000.

The new building has been designed by the architects Francis G. Stewart and Harry Allen Jacobs. The exterior will be in Italian style, built in white marble, with a colonnade on the second floor, separated by columns of Pavanavva marble. The walls and ceiling of the ground floor will be built of Caen stone. The ceilings will be arched and elaborately carved in stone, and a circular marble stairway, which will be one of the features of the building, will run up to the second floor. Over this stairway will be a dome of leaded glass which will shed light into the rear of the showrooms. The building will be finished about April 1, 1911.

The firm has occupied its present quarters at 138 Fifth Avenue for nearly thirty years.

Dear Sir:
Are you to be a rent payer all your life? Are your wife and children always to be bounded by the walls of a small flat?
If we could show you a way to own a home of your own in a place where every one else does, a place where public improvements are made and all known conveniences exist, only half an hour from 42d St. and 20 minutes from Harlem, would you not be interested?
A small monthly payment would give you a start, and our assistance would help you very much in the future home idea.
Send us a postal card and we will put you in possession of all the facts.
Yours very truly,

LUNCHEON SERVED FREE ON PROPERTY.

Here is an opportunity to inspect New Jersey's ideal home development. Hundreds of feet above sea level, in the heart of the picturesque Orange Mountains, Lackawanna Park is only 45 minutes from New York, with a commutation rate of $6.50 per month.

Here you can breathe the pure mountain air and enjoy all the pleasures and sports of country life. At the same time, you have the advantage of every improvement and convenience that makes living worth while—cement walks, macadamized streets, terraced curbs, electric lights, city water, telephone, schools, churches, stores, etc.—NOT PROMISED BUT ACTUALLY THERE NOW.

It will be a very simple matter for you to own a choice plot or a beautiful home in this natural landscape garden. WE ARE POSITIVELY SELLING BOTH HOUSES AND PLOTS AT LOWER PRICES AND UPON EASIER TERMS OF PAYMENT THAN ANY OTHER HIGH GRADE RESTRICTED DEVELOPMENT ON THE MARKET.

The opportunity for a most profitable investment is unequalled in the history of Real Estate.

You must see Lackawanna Park to appreciate its wonderful possibilities. You should see it now before every home and all the most desirable plots are sold. Take the McAdoo Tubes from New York next Sunday morning to Hoboken, and our special train will take you to Lackawanna Park. Train leaves Hoboken 10:45.

BALLOT BOX FRAUD EXPLAINED IN COURT

OTHERS TELL OF POLL RAID

Declare Williams Was the Leader of the Gang—Tammany Worker Sent to Prison.

Roswell D. Williams, Tammany leader of the Seventeenth Assembly District, on trial before Supreme Court Justice Wheeler and a jury, with six of his henchmen, charged with primary frauds, was identified yesterday by two chauffeurs as a member of the automobile party which raided several polling places on last primary day. The chauffeurs repeated the stories which earlier witnesses had told of ballots being thrown in the street and general disturbances. Another witness instructed the jury on how to stuff a ballot box.

The chauffeurs were William McGowan and William Vaughan, both drivers of taxicabs. They said they had gone to Williams's clubhouse, in West Ninety-seventh Street, and had visited polling places at 272 West Ninety-sixth Street and 627 Columbus Avenue. Williams entered these places, they testified. Shortly after there were shouts and scuffling, men rushing out, and bundles of ballots tossed over the taxicabs into the streets, they said.

Justice Wheeler delayed the trial yesterday to sentence William Matthews, a colored Tammany worker in the Ninth Assembly District, who was convicted before the Williams trial began. Matthews was jointly indicted with Harkness De Voe and Walter Herbert, who will be tried separately before Justice Wheeler returns to Buffalo. Matthews was prosecuted by the same counsel who are trying the Williams case, and was convicted of bribery on election day. Justice Wheeler sentenced him to serve six months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

Patrolman Joseph J. Finnigan, who was on duty at the polling place at 743 Amsterdam Avenue on primary day, was the first witness yesterday against Williams and his fellow-defendants. He told of chasing a man who had stolen a bundle of ballots and taking him to the police station, where he was released.

Watcher Tells of the Raid.

Joseph F. McMillan, a watcher for Daniel A. Golden, who was Williams's opponent for the leadership of the district in the primary election, identified all the defendants except John Dunn as members of the party which raided the polling place where he was on duty.

Patrick H. O'Connor, a Golden watcher at the polling place 200 West 100th Street, told how he had brought 250 Golden ballots there, and that they disappeared in the scuffle which followed the arrival of the Williams party. He said members of this party began to pull papers, the size and color of ballots, from their pockets and stuff them into the ballot boxes. O'Connor was positive of his recognition of Williams, who came, he said, at the head of a party, which rode in a touring car and three taxicabs.

O'Connor said that several of the papers he saw shoved into the ballot boxes looked like "cannon ballots," and he was called upon for an explanation. He asked to have several sample ballots given him. He folded these together and slipped them one inside the other.

"They are first folded up and then ironed," he said. "They slip in the box easily like one ballot, and when the box is shaken they fall apart." O'Connor said he had only seen "cannon ballots" prepared to demonstrate the process, but had never done it in practice. His remark, "It's one of the tricks of the trade," caused much laughter in the courtroom.

O'Connor described one of the Williams party as a "short, stubby, murderous looking man," with a three days' growth of beard on his face.

Policeman Edward F. Smith, who was on duty on primary day at the polling place 70 West Ninetieth Street, said he was present when the ballots were counted and saw nine bunches of four and five folded up together. He said he called the attention of the Board of Inspectors to these ballots. Smith folded sample ballots in much the same way that O'Connor had demonstrated the "cannon ballots," and protests by Clark L. Jordan, counsel for Williams, were overruled by Justice Wheeler.

Witness Challenges Williams.

John B. Wolff, a watcher for Golden at the place where Policeman Smith was on duty, testified to bringing 400 Golden ballots to that place. He recognized Williams, Galligan, and O'Rourke, three of the seven defendants, as members of the party which raided the place on the afternoon of primary day.

"One man grabbed me under the chin and yelled: "What are you doing here?" he said. He told of seeing four or five men stuffing the ballot boxes, and continued:

"The last man to go out of the place was 'Ross' Williams. And he can say so himself. Am I right?" Wolff shook his finger at Williams as he asked the question, but the defendant made no answer.

Wolff said that after the party left he found that the Golden ballots had disappeared.

Clark L. Jordan, for Williams and his fellow-defendants, made vigorous protest against the admission into evidence of the official returns to the Board of Elections of the results of the primary. But Justice Wheeler overruled him. The contention of the prosecution, as outlined in the opening address of Deputy Attorney General Ezra Prentice, is that 2,400 votes were counted, while there were but 2,200 enrolled Democratic voters, and that less than 100 ballots for Golden were recorded.

Mr. Prentice started calling witnesses to show that they voted for Golden. He said he could call 600 Golden supporters, who would testify that they voted for him for leader. The names of thirty-four men were admitted by stipulation. Some of the witnesses will also testify that when they called for Golden ballots they were unable to get them.

Larry Mulligan, brother-in-law of "Big Tim" Sullivan; Alderman Max Levine, who managed "Christy" Sullivan's campaign for Sheriff last Fall, and Representative Riordan attended the trial yesterday.

SAYS McNALLY USED HIS FIST.

Cannan's Lawyer Gives a Detail of an Alleged Hudson-Fulton Police Assault.

Police Captain McNally, who is being sued for $2,500 damages for assault by A. B. Cannan, obtained an order for a bill of particulars yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Erlanger. Cannan says he was assaulted and rendered unconscious for half an hour when he was watching one of the Hudson-Fulton parades on Sept. 30 last at Central Park West and Sixty-eighth Street.

"All that the Captain remembers," said his counsel, "is that he put his hand in this gentleman's face and gently shoved him back so that the parade might pass."

Among the facts asked for by the Captain was whether Cannan contended that he was struck with a club or the butt end of a revolver and where he was struck.

"If it will be any benefit to the Police Captain," retorted G. W. Thomas, attorney for Mr. Cannan, "I will tell him that the weapon used was the official's big fist, and the spot struck was just between the eyes of my client."

"You have the information now," said Justice Erlanger, who at first had appeared unwilling to grant the request.

INFORMER JULIAN ON TRIAL.

Man Who Exposed the Metropolitan Jury Plot Is Accused of Theft.

Charged with grand larceny in the second degree in connection with a worthless check for $50 given in payment of a bill at the Hotel Imperial, Louis E. Julian was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Malone in General Sessions. Julian, once an investigator in the employ of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, was the man who gave out the information of an alleged practice of using professional jurors in the civil suits for damages against that company.

A man named Tillinghast was convicted largely on his testimony in this matter. It was brought out in the trial yesterday that Julian had lived at the Imperial for years. He is also under indictment on the charge of having furnished false information to a newspaper.

OBJECTS TO NEW COURT SITE.

The Republican Club Condemns Encroachment on City Hall Park.

The Republican Club at its monthly meeting last night passed resolutions condemning the plan to build the proposed new county courthouse in City Hall Park. No particular site was recommended by the club, the report of the Court House Commission being disapproved solely on the ground of the proposed encroachment on park property.

Louis Stern, Chairman of the club's committee on the Roosevelt Reception, which is working with the Citizens' Committee appointed by Mayor Gaynor, reported on the tentative plans already announced.

DIDN'T IMITATE, SAYS ADLER.

He Denies Ridiculing Ritualistic Gestures of Orthodox Jews.

Dr. Felix Adler, head of the Ethical Culture Society, denied yesterday that he had imitated or held up to ridicule the ritualistic gestures of Orthodox Jews in his sermon at the Free Synagogue on Sunday.

"I merely described Dr. Geiger's explanation of the origin of certain Jewish orthodox forms as imitations of the ritual of the priests in the temples," he said. "When some one tittered in the audience I was surprised and shocked."

BARS STAMMERING HUSBAND.

Wife Says It's Unbearable in Italian and Demands a Divorce.

PATERSON, N. J., May 16.—After four months of married life Mrs. Amelia Spinelli has brought suit for divorce against John Spinelli on the ground of cruelty, one form of which she stipulates in her bill as "excessive stuttering by the defendant." Testimony was heard to-day in the suit before Special Master Henry Marelli.

Mrs. Spinelli said that her husband was all right before they were married, or at least she didn't notice his stammering as much then.

"But after we were married! Oh, my, it was simply horrible," she added. "If he had been English it wouldn't have been half so bad, but when it was in Italian, where every vowel runs a Marathon with the other, it was unbearable."

Thomas Cappa, Justice of the Peace, acted as an interpreter during the taking of testimony.

"Tu-tu-bu-tu-tu-bu-bu," answered Spinelli to one of the questions.

"What does he say?" asked Wood McKee, who represented Mrs. Spinelli.

"He hasn't said it yet," replied Justice Cappa.

HAD DIPHTHERIA, NOT MUMPS.

When Science Healer Called in a Doctor Boy Was Dying.

After treating twelve-year-old Freddie Croonborg, 140th Street and Broadway, for mumps for three days, Miss Grace Addison, a Christian Science healer of 200 West 126th Street, decided that the boy's complaint was serious enough for her to call in a registered physician.

The lad's mother sent for Dr. E. H. Rogers of 518 West 150th Street, who responded Sunday morning and diagnosed the case as diphtheria. The medical aid came too late and the boy died at midnight Sunday.

Harold C. Croonborg, 8 years old, having been exposed to the contagion, began to complain of being ill. The physician declared he had contracted diphtheria. He is under treatment and is expected to recover.

Tenants in the apartment house where the boy died are panic-stricken because of the exposure of contagion from the time the lad was taken ill.

F. D. Croonborg, father of the boy, is President of the Sartorial Company, in the Baudoine Building, Twenty-eighth Street and Broadway. Neither he nor his wife are Christian Scientists. Mrs. Croonborg, however, was cured of a nervous ailment by Christian Science treatment some time ago, and since has called Miss Addison in when the children have suffered from minor ills.

It was said last night at the Coroner's office that as the Board of Health had accepted the death certificate the Coroner could take no action unless a complaint was filed.

MRS. LE PLONGEON HERE, ILL.

Stays All Day Aboard Steamer, and Is Then Taken to Sanitarium.

So ill that she was unable to leave the vessel at the pier, Mrs. Alice Le Plongeon, famous as an archaeologist, arrived from abroad yesterday on the White Star steamship Celtic. She was under the care of Dr. A. E. Hopper, the ship's surgeon, nearly the whole voyage.

Friends were waiting the arrival of the vessel and they went on board as soon as the gangplank was in place. It was then said that it was advisable for her to remain on board. Late in the afternoon she was removed to a private sanitarium.

Mrs. Le Plongeon, who resides in Brooklyn, is the widow of Dr. Augustus Le Plongeon, Count de Coquerville, an authority on archaeology, who died in Brooklyn in December, 1908.

Mrs. Le Plongeon was born in England. When 17 years old her ambition was to be a singer an dactress. To this her parents objected. Two years later she met and married Dr. Le Plongeon. After her marriage she learned Spanish in order to assist her husband in his researches in Yucatan. They spent eleven years in that country, and a result of their work is contained in "Here and There in Yucatan."

CATCH 12 IN POOLROOM RAID.

Police Batter Their Way Into Bronx House with an Axe.

A dozen policemen from the Alexander Avenue Station and detectives from Police Headquarters raided an alleged poolroom on Third Avenue, near 143d Street, the Bronx, late yesterday afternoon. They captured twelve prisoners, a "klondike" outfit, racing sheets, and other gambling paraphernalia. None of the prisoners was identified with the ownership of the place, the charge against them being aiding and abetting gambling.

At the Morrisania Police Station nine of the prisoners were bailed by Edward M. McLaughlin of 442 East 127th Street and Frank Manz of 204 East 152d Street. The other three went to cells. One of the prisoners is said to be a well-known promoter of pugilistic bouts.

Two Mortally Hurt in Elevator's Fall.

One man was killed outright and another was mortally hurt by the fall of a freight elevator in the wing that is being added to Peter Doelger's brewery, at 433 East Fifty-fifth Street, yesterday morning. Pasquale Labara of 323 East Seventy-fourth Street had his skull and back broken, and James Reese was carried to Flower Hospital with a fractured skull. The two men boarded the elevator at the third floor and were about to send it upward, when the cable snapped.

Pleads Guilty to Killing Bookmaker.

His health shattered, Joseph Mansfield, a gambler known in his world as "Shorty," pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions to manslaughter in the first degree. On March 22, in a West 116th Street café, he shot and killed Henry Jacobs, a bookmaker, [illegible]

ONE PARCEL AS BOND IN 38 COURT CASES

Magistrates Tighe and Naumer Censured for Frequently Accepting M. H. Feeney as Bondsman.

SIXTEEN BONDS FORFEITED

Judgments of $3,273 Against the Property, Which Is Assessed at $775 and Has a Mortgage for $2,500.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick sent a report to Mayor Gaynor yesterday on the administration of the Brooklyn Police Courts, in which he criticised the Magistrates for accepting professional bondsmen. He censured Magistrates Tighe and Naumer particularly for accepting one Michael H. Feeney as a bondsman. The Commissioner says Feeney acted as bondsman thirty-eight times, giving as surety a single parcel of property, 1,408 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, which is assessed at only $775, on which there is a large mortgage and against which there was on May 1 judgments representing forfeited bail bonds totaling $3,273. The Commissioner says:

"Of the thirty-eight cases of record in which Feeney acted as bondsman during the period under review Magistrate Tighe accepted twenty-two of the bonds, or nearly 60 per cent. Magistrate Naumer accepted six, Magistrate Furlong three, Magistrate Hylan three, and Magistrates Higginbotham, Connolly, Dooley, and Harris one each. Of the twenty-two cases in which Feeney's bond was accepted by Magistrate Tighe seventeen were so accepted while he was sitting in the First District Court. Although the nine other Magistrates in the Borough of Brooklyn presided for some period at the First District Court in the course of the year under consideration they do not appear to have accepted Feeney's bond in any case.

"In the light of the foregoing facts, all of which are easily ascertainable from the records, it is difficult to find justification for the acceptance of Feeney as bondsman by Magistrate Tighe in the twenty-two cases above mentioned. It seems utterly inexcusable that in the ten days, for instance, between March 3 and March 14, 1910, this Magistrate should have accepted Feeney as surety in seven cases in which the same property was always offered, although at this time there were judgments of record against the property on previously forfeited bail bonds. Without imputing the grossest negligence, it is difficult, too, to understand why Magistrate Naumer, in the short period between Dec. 8, 1909, and Jan. 2, 1910, accepted Feeney's single piece of property as bail in four cases, aggregating a liability of $4,000.

"The abuse of professional bondsmen appears to be so pronounced in our criminal court system, particularly in the courts of inferior jurisdiction, and the cases above cited bear so directly upon the situation, that I recommend that the facts included in this report be forwarded to the District Attorney of Kings County, and to the Bar Association, for such action as may be deemed advisable in the premises."

Mr. Fosdick gives the history of the piece of property that Feeney has been using as surety. "The assessed valuation of this property at the present time is $775," says he. "It was purchased for $375 on Jan. 5, 1895, from the old City of Brooklyn by Mary A. Feeney, wife of the said Michael H. Feeney. Title remained unchanged until Aug. 17, 1908, when Mrs. Feeney transferred the same to her husband for a nominal consideration. On June 1, 1909, Feeney reconveyed the property to his wife. Then, on Aug. 3, 1909, the property was mortgaged for $2,500. On Nov. 29, 1909, the property was again transferred to Feeney himself, subject to the mortgage referred to.

"Feeney's purpose in placing title in his wife in June, 1909, is not difficult to surmise when it is considered that a number of personal judgments against him appear upon the records of the County Clerk's office of Kings County as of that time.

"During the period from June 1 to Nov. 29, 1909, while title to the property mentioned was in the name of his wife, Feeney became surety in eight cases, making affidavit therein of his ownership to the property, and stating that there was no incumbrance save a mortgage of $400. No mortgage of $400 appears on the record. Feeney further perjured himself in twenty-three cases, in which he swore that the property was unincumbered, although at the time there was a mortgage of $2,500 against it. He also perjured himself in six cases when he made affidavit that there was no incumbrance save a $400 mortgage, when, as a matter of fact, the $2,500 mortgage was on record, and there appeared no record of a mortgage of $400.

"On May 1, 1910, there were sixteen judgments upon forfeited bail bonds on record in Kings County against Feeney, aggregating $3,273 and constituting a lien against the property which had been offered in each case, to wit, 1,408 Sterling Place. The judgments in these cases were all secured in the comparatively brief period between Feb. 18 and April 21, 1910."

Magistrate John F. Hylan, who is named as having accepted Feeney as bondsman three times, said last evening that there was a clause in every bond accepted by a Magistrate which practically protected the court against responsibility for just such conditions as those in the Feeney case.

"This clause states the value of the property," said the Magistrate, "and also declares what incumbrances are against it, including outstanding judgments, if any. The bondsman swears to this. If perjury is committed, it seems to me that the bondsman is to blame. I do not know Feeney, and do not recall the specific cases in which he appeared before me as bondsman."

Magistrate Naumer would not discuss the matter at all yesterday, but said he might have something to say to-day.

Magistrate Tighe could not be seen last night.

FOR THE TABLE.

Almost a necessary accessory for the chafing dish is a half-moon shaped frame made of metal to match the rest of the set to hold the cover when it is removed. A cover is an awkward thing to place, and the condensed steam on it will wet the tablecloth if the cooking is being done at the table. In the frame the cover may be used as a screen to keep draughts from the flame.

Very pretty table fern dishes are rectangular in shape, low, made of dull-finished brass, the decoration in a quiet open design through which can be seen the side of the copper dish within which the ferns are placed. This inner dish has rings at either end by which it may be lifted in and out. A small dish will cost $2, the next size $2.50, and so on.

Pressed glass in Colonial designs should be considered when the housekeeper is planning for the table of a simple Summer home. Candlesticks, for instance, in a charming Colonial reproduction will cost 55 or 60 cents each, and the glass is pretty and clear.

Individual salted nut or mint dishes in glass, each on a tiny standard, are $1 a dozen. Others with little wing handles, which also may be used for salt, cost 70 cents a dozen. There are different shapes in the salt dishes, individual or otherwise, and for salt shakers those all of glass, including the perforated top, are the most sanitary.

Goblets in Colonial style are $1.10 a dozen, and cream pitchers, sugar bowls, and large glass pitchers for water or for holding the mint julep made from mint growing in one's own garden, are all worth consideration. Flower vases in the pressed glass in simple designs are also very pretty.

The careful housekeeper will be glad to use the little flat nippers for hulling strawberries, which cost 5 cents.

There are special little implements for cutting through the kernels of corn on the cob which come in a plain nickel for 15 cents each, and in better material, 35 cents.

This Is a Day of "Dreadnoughts"

Have you ever seen the new imported Golf Clubs—called "Dreadnoughts"? They do just what their name implies. The golfer who uses the "Dreadnought" Clubs—need not fear any opponent. By a peculiar balance in the shaft, together with a large head, these clubs give tremendous distance off the tee and through the fair green. They help the golfer gain the true, long orthodox swing.

We want all golfers to come in and try these new "Dreadnought" Clubs.

We are also specialists in fine imported and domestic guns, rifles and ammunition.

RUBBER TRUST DEAL STARTS A SQUABBLE

Insiders Underwrote Issues That Purchased Revere Company and Minority Objects.

LARGE PROFITS PICKED UP

Watson, Treasurer of Mother Company and Head of Several Subsidiaries, Resigning from Them All.

On the eve of the annual meeting of the stockholders of the United States Rubber Company, which will be held in New Brunswick, N. J., to-day, the announcement was made of the complete severance from the company's affairs of John J. Watson, Jr., Treasurer of the United States Rubber Company, President of the General Rubber Company and of the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company, and an officer and Director in practically all of the other subsidiary companies.

Mr. Watson would give no explanation of his resignation. He said that he had been contemplating getting out for six months or more. He had been connected with the United States Rubber Company for twelve years. None of the other officers of the company would comment on Mr. Watson's retirement, but it was generally reported in the Street that the direct cause was disagreement with President Colt.

A subject of debate at the annual meeting to-day is likely to be the financing in connection with the purchase the past year of the Revere Rubber Company. Some of the minority stockholders have criticised the part played by a group of the Directors who underwrote the United States Rubber Company securities issued at the time and received beside their commission a pledge of part of the profits of the purchased company during the succeeding two years. Mr. Watson's resignation, it is asserted, has no connection with this transaction.

Deal Ratified by Directors.

The money for the purchase of the Revere Rubber Company stock was advanced by a syndicate in which several of the Directors of the United States Rubber Company were prominent. The deal was ratified by the Directors of the United States Rubber Company, is explained in the annual report issued a week ago, but minority interests question the transaction, which has yet to be passed upon by the stockholders. In this connection significance was given yesterday to the changes proposed in the by-laws of the company, which are also to be voted on at the annual meeting. One of these amendments proposes that "no contract shall be affected by the fact that Directors of the United States Rubber Company voting in favor of such contract or transaction are also interested in or are Directors or officers of such other corporation," provided that a sufficient number of other Directors to constitute a quorum at any meeting passing on any such contract are not so interested.

An officer of the company when questioned yesterday as to the bearing of this amendment on the Revere Rubber deal said that the change was proposed simply because it was considered advantageous to the company and that the amendment brought the by-laws into line with those of the United States Steel Corporation in this respect.

The underwriting syndicate for the issue of United States Rubber securities to make the Revere purchase included President Colt. The annual report stated that it underwrote 35,614 shares of the first preferred stock at 110 and $5,000,000 6 per cent. bonds at par. The syndicate took all of the bonds and 7,617 shares of the preferred stock.

As compensation for advancing the money for the purchase, the syndicate was to receive the profits for two years from operations of the purchase company up to $700,000. This item, together with the accretion in market value of the securities underwritten brings a total profit of 14¼ per cent. to the syndicate, as the minority interests figure it, and it is expected that formal protests against the deal will be made at the annual meeting.

Secretary Defends the Act.

Samuel Norris, Secretary of the company, made this defense yesterday of the syndicate operation:

"It was necessary to have this money almost immediately if the purchase of the Revere was to be carried through. The raising of $9,000,000 under the circumstances would have been very difficult without some such inducement as was held out to the syndicate. The first preferred stock was then quoted at the price at which it was offered to the stockholders, making rights practically worthless, and, in fact, it sold for 108, while the syndicate was guaranteeing 110 for the entire 36,614 shares.

"It was necessary to have some of the Directors on the syndicate; without them the underwriting could not have been done to such good advantage to the company.

"The real point is this: The syndicate has not made the $700,000, and there is no certainty that it will in the next two years, during which it will get the benefit of the Revere's operations. Nearly that much profit was earned in the past two years, but since then the price of crude rubber has advanced so rapidly, while the price of rubber goods has advanced little, that there will not be anything like $700,000 of profit if the cost of the crude stays where it is.

"If business slackens the sale of automobiles will be checked, and we may see again a normal price for the crude rubber."

KLATZKO MURDER TRIAL.

Reputed "Count" Charged with Killing Two in Jealous Rage.

The trial of Herman Klatzko, formerly proprietor of a restaurant in Grand Street, for murder in the first degree began yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Fitzgerald. Klatzko is accused of killing Lizzie Shapiro, an actress in a Yiddish theatre, and Max Goldberg, of whom Klatzko was jealous, on Dec. 15 last.

Klatzko, who is 65 years old, is of distinguished appearance, and has been known on the east side as a "Count." He had been enamored of the woman whose husband was in Colorado, but she had shunned him in preference for Goldberg. Sigmund Schwartz, an undertaker at 107 Forsyth Street, who ran to [illegible] the alleged crime at the time of the shooting, was the first witness. The trial will proceed [illegible]

2,000 TURNED AWAY AT CHURCH REVIVAL

"LIVING PICTURES" ON VIEW

Converts Tell What Religion Has Done for Them—The Speakers Urge Christian Unity.

The opening meeting of the Evangelistic Committee of New York City attracted a capacity audience to Carnegie Hall last night. Upward of 2,000 people clamored vainly for admittance on the Fifty-seventh Street side after the meeting began. A choir of 400 on the stage sang the revival songs which the Rev. Charles M. Alexander has sung around the world on revival campaigns.

William J. Schieffelin, President of the Citizens' Union, presided. He said:

"This movement is a remarkable example of Christian unity. Here in New York we have a great opportunity for both foreign and domestic missions. We are commanded to preach the Gospel to the uttermost ends of the earth, but to begin at Jerusalem. When we are told that there are twenty times as many Jews in New York as there are in Palestine this command may well have for us a double meaning. And we may feel that with St. Paul we have a special mission to the Hebrews.

"While it may not be wise at this time to commence an aggresive campaign for the conversion of the Jews, we may exert an influence to this end by friendly co-operation and example. A Jewish friend of mine—a business man—said the other day concerning a problem which had arisen: 'I shall have to deal with the situation in a Christian spirit.' This was wholly unconscious reference on his part to what Christian example had led him to believe was Christian doctrine. It is not true that the Jews of our city have a spiritual life sufficient to themselves. It is perfectly pitiful that there are thousands of unfortunate Jewish women living below Fourteenth Street where thirty years ago there were only a few."

The Rev. Arthur J. Smith, Director of the Tent Compaign for Evangelization of the city during the Summer months, told of the work for which the meeting was called to obtain financial support. He said there had been 7,490 meetings attended by 1,950,704 persons since the tent revival campaigns had been started in New York, and that last year there were 1,957 meetings attended by nearly 300,000 people.

"The Italians are the most responsive people in New York," he said. "Two centres converted forty-seven Italians last year. If the Italian people are a menace to our Nation it will be because we do not give them the Gospel."

Several "living pictures"—converts who had been reclaimed by the tent campaign—were called upon by Dr. Smith to give testimony as to the efficacy of the work. An Italian saloon keeper rose in his place and told how he was saved from his evil ways. A former atheistic Socialist, also an Italian, told the audience that he was now studying for the ministry as a result of the tent revival. Dr. Smith also said that a club of Anarchists had been disbanded and most of its members had joined a church after a series of tent meetings had been held in the vicinity of its assembly rooms. Three reformed drunkards also testified as to the efficacy of the work.

The Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, who said he was back from a 60,000-mile revival trip in which he visited eleven countries and spoke in sixty cities, told of the experiences of himself and twelve companions on the world-wide trip. He said that what had been done in Australia, China, Japan, and England could be done in New York City. He said that many thousands of the slum population were the lost ones of the church's household and could be reclaimed. His hallelujahs were echoed from the galleries.

The Rev. Charles M. Alexander, who is just back from Wales, with Dr. Chapman, gave a demonstration of the method by which he employs the singing of revival hymns to arouse audiences to a high pitch of religious enthusiasm. He had Ernest Napcgar, one of the party who accompanied him around the world, sing "Traveling Home" as a solo. Then it was sung by the choir of 400 voices. Dr. Alexander next asked the topmost gallery to sing the words of the song.

After the gallery had sung the song with gallery enthusiasm, Dr. Alexander announced that Chairman Schieffelin would give a Bible to any one in the house who would arise and sing. There was a pause for a few minutes, and then a short, gray-haired man with a white mustache and goatee rose on the main floor and sang the chorus of the song in a quavering, high-pitched voice. The auditorium rocked with applause, and a messenger hurried from the platform to take the singer's name, which he gave as William H. Wills of 135 East Thirtieth Street. After Mr. Wills's example the entire house joined in the song and repeated it over and over under Dr. Alexander's leadership.

William Phillips Hall, President of the American Tract Society, declared that the tent revival movement should enlist the support of those who value good public order and political purity. The Rev. Dr. William Clark offered the opening prayer, and the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill pronounced the benediction.

Among those on the platform were M. Linn Bruce, John S. Tyler, Dr. W. M. Thomson, and Miss Mabel C. Moulton of Providence, R. I., who is engaged to Dr. Chapman.
